TASTE OF WINTER BRINGS DISCOMFORT

MANY HURT IN THE STORM

Man Killed by the Falling of the Scuttle Door on His Head—To be Milder To-day.

Something near real Winter fell upon New York yesterday and last night. It began in the morning with rain and a rising northwest wind. As the day went on the rain changed to sleet, and the wind rose to something like a thirty-mile clip. With the beginning of the night the sleet and rain came down together, making a sloppy, slippery covering for the streets. The thermometer fell three or four degrees.

The condition of the streets and the high wind caused several accidents. Perhaps the most pathetic was that of Moritz Blum, 68 years old, who started to the roof of his tenement home, at 268 Stanton Street, to say his prayers. As soon as he lifted the scuttle to go out on the roof the wind seized it, and slammed it back down on his head with force enough to fracture his skull. He was removed to Gouverneur Hospital, and died there.

At 201 Second Street the wind broke out some window panes and snatched off the window sills a lot of flower pots, pieces of which, falling to the sidewalk, landed on Gertrude Golden and Hester Kosatsky of 109 St. Mark's Place. Both were cut about the face and hands and were removed to Bellevue Hospital.

A ten-foot sign falling from the eighth floor of the bulding at 736 Broadway narrowly missed many on the sidewalk, but struck Anthony Blazzi of 31 Meserole Street, Brooklyn, and Peter Christ of 29 Montrose Avenue, Brooklyn. They refused medical attention, saying they were only slightly hurt, and went home.

Dr. Herman Peck of 166 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, was driving his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bianca Dussell, from his home to hers, at 79 Taylor Street, Brooklyn, when the automobile of John F. Trommer, a brewer, of 1,632 Bushwick Avenue, skidded across the wet pavement of Bedford Avenue into the doctor's machine, throwing the physician and Mrs. Dussell to the street. Dr. Peck was unhurt. Mrs. Dussell's left arm was broken. Dr. Peck drove her home.

Thomas Block, a roofer, of 133 Rogers Avenue, was driving along Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn. At the crossing with Atlantic Avenue he failed to hear the warning gong of a St. John's Place car. The car hit him, knocked over the wagon, and flung him to the street. He received internal injuries, a probable fracture of the skull, scalp wounds, and bruises. He was taken to the Swedish Hospital.

He said he didn't hear the car because of the noise of the storm. The horse ran away after the collision and was caught by Policeman Murphy of the Bergen Street Station, three blocks away.

Unseen by the motorman of a Croton local train in the blinding sleet Louis Grant, a switchman on the New York Central at 225th Street and the Harlem Ship Canal, was struck by the electric motor and instantly killed. He was thrown twenty feet to the side of the tracks, and his body was found some time later by Lester Richardson, towerman at the Kingsbridge Station.

The weather is to moderate to-day, the weather man says.

PATH OF THE STORM IS WIDE.

Damage Done in New York, New England, and in South.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 24.—A terrific northwest wind which swept down the Hudson River to-day did considerable damage to small craft and interfered greatly with navigation. Small ferries have been tied up all day and the big ferry boat at Newburg was compelled to lay up for two hours this morning. The waters were lashed into such heavy seas that the larger craft met with considerable difficulty. A heating stove on the steamer Tremper of the Newburg and Albany line was toppled over after the steamer left Newburg, and the burning coals set fire to the mate's quarters. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done. Boatmen say it was the worst storm experienced on the Hudson River in years.

Kingston suffered heavily from the storm which swept across the city late in the afternoon. Telephone and telegraph wires were torn down, street car and railroad service was crippled, and street traffic was at a standstill for six hours.

Northern New York is in the grasp of the first blizzard of the season. Three inches of snow fell at Plattsburg during the afternoon and to-night it was still snowing heavily there. The wind to-night was blowing more than twenty-five miles an hour at Plattsburg, piling up the light snow in deep drifts.

At Amsterdam snow began falling shortly after noon. A big drop in temperature accompanied the storm there.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Thanksgiving Eve was a dismal night in New England. The northeast storm of snow and sleet which set in last night changed to a downpour of rain in the southern section.

Sailing vessels were forced by a 50-knot gale to hug shelter. Steamers had to forego regular sailing or anchor in sheltered places between ports. At Vineyard Haven the schooner Nat Ayer, New York for Bangor, was driven ashore. At Plymouth the schooner Alice Turner, Stonington, Me., for Sandwich, was forced on to a flat, and at Provincetown the Boston fishing schooner Buena dragged ashore and filled. The crews escaped.

The inhabitants of Block Island and Nantucket were isolated from the mainland by the interruption of the steamboat service, and many residents of those places probably will have to forego turkey dinners to-morrow, as the shipments of the poultry are held up at mainland ports.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A driving snowstorm, the first of the season, set in here to-day shortly after 9 o'clock. The flakes melted rapidly, however, and there was little interruption to traffic.

A severe northeast storm with wind velocity ranging from forty miles an hour at the Virginia Capes to forty-four miles off Delaware Breakwater and fifty miles an hour at Hatteras, N. C., swept the Virginia, Carolina, and Maryland coasts

A MOTHER'S THANKSGIVING.

Grateful to the Court That Saves Her Husband from Prison.

One woman finds cause for thanksgiving, however faint, to-day, in the fact that her husband is not to serve a term in the penitentiary for the petty larceny of which he was convicted in Special Sessions last Friday. She is Mrs. William Dowling of 27 Frankfort Street, the mother of three babies,.

"If they only will not send him over to the Island," she told Probation Officer Lamon, "it is all I ask. People know that he's been over before, and that's why he can't get work. But he can stay and watch the babies while I go out to wash. We could get food that way anyway."

It was stealing food that got Dowling into trouble. He was arrested on Nov. 10 for carting off a barrel of clams which stood in front of a store at 150 Beekman Street, and he would have suffered the penalty had it not been for the utter destitution which Mr. Lamon found in the two little rooms where the family of five have been trying to live.

Squalid and bare, except for the few bits of rickety furniture, which no pawnshop would take, the flat is the home of three babies. The oldest is a boy not yet 3, whose arm was broken some time ago and never properly set. A 15-month-old girl clings to the mother's skirts, and there is another baby that has been frail and scantily nourished ever since its birth at the end of the Summer. There has been little sleep for the mother and little food for any of them since the trouble began.

Dowling told Justice Zeller that he had been in Sing Sing, but that for the last seven years he had kept straight and merely helped a stranger lift the barrel into a wagon with no idea that it was not his. He asked for another chance and got it. An agent from the Society of St. Vincent de Paul took charge of him at his release, and work is to be provided for him and new clothes to help him in his fresh start.

The suspension of sentence was received with much satisfaction by the group in the court room, who listened to the graphic report of the probation officer. Some of them winked hard, and so evident was the sympahty felt that some unofficial help may reach the woman and her babies at the time when the rest of the city is eating its Thanksgiving dinner.

NO EVENING PAPERS TO-DAY.

One Exception to This—It's an Experiment and May Apply to All Holidays.

As the result of an agreement among the newspaper publishers concerned, there will be no evening newspapers but one published in the city to-day. The plan is to be an experiment. If it succeeds it is altogether likely that there will be no evening papers on any holiday in the future.

The plan for discontinuing publishing the evening newspapers on holidays has been under discussion for several years. Several publishers long have refused to get out editions on Christmas Day. Heretofore, however, Thanksgiving has not been generally exempt. The agreement not to publish to-day was reached a few weeks ago after the matter had been discussed at a meeting of the evening newspaper publishers. It was pointed out then that the regular channels of newspaper distribution were always more or less interfered with on holidays, and that the extra cost of getting out newspapers on holidays did not warrant their publication.

It was also argued that the newspaper workers were entitled to their holidays. If the public does not evince an overweening desire for its favorite evening papers to-night, therefore, it may have to go without at Christmas, New Year's, Washington's Birthday, and even the Fourth of July, not to mention all the other holidays.

BOY DRUNK IN SCHOOLROOM.

Bottle of Gin, Half Empty, Found in His Desk.

When Salvadore Irena, 14 years old, began acting queerly in his class in Grammar School 73, at Rockaway Avenue and McDougal Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon his teacher was unable to get a coherent explanation of his trouble from him and she called Principal William M. Morrison. Mr. Morrison met with no better luck than the teacher. Young Irena's head wobbled from side to side, his knees trembled, and he staggered when he tried to walk with the Principal into his private office.

Once there the boy was placed in a big chair, and, satisfied at last that something serious was the matter with him, Mr. Morrison called Dr. McAvey from the Bushwick Hospital. The doctor took one look at young Salvadore, who had gone peacefully to sleep in the Principal's chair, and then remarked:

"A plain case of drunk."

Mr. Morrison was incredulous, but he was compelled to believe when the teacher discovered a quart bottle of gin, half empty, in Salvadore's desk. The youngster was taken to the hospital, where it was said that he would pull through.

W. ROCKEFELLER WOULD OBEY

Says Standard Oil Will Appeal to Set Sherman Law Beyond Contention.

William Rockefeller, a Vice President and Director as well as one of the largest share holders in the Standard Oil Company, had his word to say yesterday in connection with the appeal which Mortimer F. Elliott, the company's General Solicitor, has announced is to be taken from the decree of the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis forbidding the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to control its subsidiary corporations.

"It seems to me desirable," said Mr. Rockefeller, "not only for my own interests and those of my associates, but for the public at large and for all other great business ventures, that the Sherman act should be finally set beyond contention as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States. Undoubtedly our case will be appealed, and for this reason.

"I am not a lawyer, and cannot discuss the decree of the Circuit Court, but Mr. Elliott has said that an appeal will be taken, and the matter is entirely in the hands of counsel of the company.

"In this connection I want to say, as a large stockholder, that however the case eventuates there will be no unwillingness to comply fully, not only with the letter, but the spirit of the law, as it shall be settled by the Supreme Court."

MORGAN PAYS $3,800 FOR A POE PAMPHLET

This Is the Highest Price Ever Given for a Book Printed in This Country.

FIRST OWNER GOT 25 CENTS

She Was a Widow—Her Tears Could Not Win Her a Share in Proceeds, $950, of the Next Sale.

The chief topic just now among collectors of rare books is the extraordinary price, $3,800, paid by J. Pierpont Morgan at the sale of Frank Maier's collection of first editions of American authors last Monday evening at Anderson's for a pamphlet of only thirty-two pages containing "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" and "The Man That was Used Up," by Edgar Allan Poe.

There is connected with this transaction a romance which would have delighted the heart of Thomas Frognall Dibdin, who knew so much and wrote so entertainingly of book rarities and the pursuit of them by enthusiastic collectors.

It is not only the record price for a Poe work, but the highest price ever paid for a book printed in America. Its distanced rivals are the Chamberlain copy of Poe's "Al Aaraaf, Tamerlane, and Minor Poems," presentation copy from his sister Rosalie, which sold for $2,900 in February last; the Maier copy of the same work, autograph inscruption, "For my cousin Elizabeth, E. A. Poe," which Dodd, Mead & Co. bought last Tuesday for $2,900, presumably for Stephen H. Wakeman, and Eliot's Indian Bible, which fetched £580 at Lord Hardwicke's sale in June, 1888.

William H. Graham of Philadelphia in 1843 issued No. 1 of "The Prose Romances of Edgar A. Poe." It is the work for which Mr. Morgan paid $3,800. Publisher Graham's price was 12½ cents. The expression, "worth its weight in gold," does not properly apply to this pamphlet, as it is worth more than its weight in gold.

One of the stories in connection with the sale is this: A wide-awake commercial traveler named Louis B. Cole was roaming through Dutchess County, N. Y., in 1906 picking up at as low a price as he could unconsidered trifles in the old book and print line from countrymen, and it so happened that in one village he gave a widow 25 cents for a small lot of homely looking books that did not seem to be worth the room they occupied. When he looked them over Cole's book lore led him to believe that in the pamphlet "The Prose Romances of Edgar A. Poe" he had found something of more than ordinary value. He had an acquaintance, a book dealer in Twenty-third Street, this city, to whom he was in the habit of forwarding for sale such good things as he picked up, the division of profits to be equal. To him Cole sent the pamphlet and soon received an answer to the effect that the work was a good one, worth $20, and please to find his half share, $10, inclosed.

When Cole returned to town, however, he learned, to his astonishment, that his book-dealer friend had parted with the pamphlet to the Thomson-Pitt Company of Fifty-sixth Street and Eighth Avenue for $950.

The widow in Dutchess County, about the same time, learned to her dismay, from a New York newspaper, that the pamphlet which, with others, she had sold for only 25 cents, was valued by its latest owners at $2,000. She promptly came to New York and protested at the East Twenty-third Street book dealer's shop. Her arguments and tears, it is believed, were unavailing, and she returned home a wiser if not a richer woman.

With Cole, however, it was far different. He met his whilom friend with both a gun and an officer of the law, and parted from him with just half of the proceeds, $475, in his pocket.

The above is the really vital part of the romance. What follows is more matter of fact:

At that time the Thomson-Pitt Company had a bright young fellow by the name of Peter Maher, working for them, and he was acquainted with Frank Maier of this city, then and now known as a collector of Americana. One morning in October, 1906, Maher called upon Mr. Maier at the latter's Wall Street office, told him about "the find," and Mr. Maier promptly got into communication with the Thomson-Pitt Company. There was only one other copy of the pamphlet known to Mr. Maier, and that was the one owned by Frederick R. Halsey, the well-known book collector of this city.

One day in 1896 or 1897 Mr. Foote, another well-known book collector whose library had been sold at auction, called at Dodd, Mead & Co.'s and told Mr. Dodd that he understood George D. Smith, the book dealer, had a rare Poe item. Luther S. Livingston, as representative of Dodd, Mead & Co., went to Smith's, bought his copy of No. 1 of "The Prose Romances" for $62.50, and turned it over to Mr. French for about $90. In the French sale in 1901 this same copy was bought by Dodd, Mead & Co. for Mr. Halsey for $1,000.

Mr. Halsey allowed his copy to be compared with the one the Thomson-Pitt Company had, and, they being found exactly alike, except that the Halsey work has both wrappers and the other lacks the back cover, Mr. Maier, according to his story, paid Thomson-Pitt $1,400 for the treasure and gave Peter Maher $50 for his part in the transaction.

Mr. Thomson, in his store at 35 West Forty-second Street, yesterday said that the amount his firm received was $1,450, and it was divided equally among the four persons in the Thomson-Pitt concern.

At last Monday's sale a number of persons present took part in the contest for possession of the rarity, but toward the end only two were left to struggle for it, Frank P. Harper, representing J. Pierpont Morgan, and Walter M. Hill, a well-known Chicago book dealer, representing a wealthy Western collector. Mr. Hill gave it up at $3,750, and Harper got it for an additional $50.

The 32-page pamphlet, with its phenomenal raise in value in the short space of three years from 25 cents to $3,800, will be one of the rarest Americana treasures in the Morgan library.

P. K. Foley, in his work on American authors, published in 1897, mentioned the existence then of two copies, neither of them the Halsey or the Maier copy, and says that one of them was catalogued by the owner at $250.

It was rumored yesterday that one of these, since Monday's record price, is now for sale by its possessor, and if Bookdealer Hill's Western patron is still enthusiastic it is likely to become his property at about the same figure Mr. Morgan gave for the Maier copy.

There seems to be no let up in the rage for Poe items. Mr. Livingston of Dodd, Mead & Co. said yesterday that he thought a copy of Tamerlane, if offered at auction now, would fetch almost twice as much as "The Prose Romances." The McKee copy in 1900 sold for $2,050. It is Poe's first published work. Mr. Halsey is said to own two copies of it.

An interesting question is: "Did Graham ever issue No. 2 of the 'Prose Romances'?" Not a copy can be found.

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with newsdealers to-day.

ARRESTED AS THIEF AT METROPOLITAN

PRISONER PROTESTS IN VAIN

Gives the Secretary of State at Albany as His Reference, but Is Taken to Court.

Detectives Daley and Boyle of the Central Office wear evening clothes with more grace than some of their fellows, and so they have been stationed since the season opened in the Metropolitan Opera House, there to watch for pickpockets and other suspicious characters, to the safety and protection of the opera audiences.

They were in the lobby last night just before the curtain rose on the double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" when they noticed an especially well-dressed young man approach the box office. He was tall and bore himself with considerable assurance. He purchased a ticket and was walking toward the gate when Daley, who had been watching him closely, stepped up to him and touched him on the shoulder. The young man turned on him like a flash, demanding:

"Who are you? What do you want?"

Daley, at the sound of his voice, was assured that his suspicions were correct, and that he was facing Harry Jacobs, known to the police as "Long Harry," and said by them to be one of the most notorious pickpockets in the business; a man who has been arrested thirteen times since April, 1901, and who, whenever any event attracts a crowd to the city, is always arrested and kept locked up until the unusual occurrence, celebration, or whatnot is over. So Daley was confident and replied:

"Aw, can the comedy! You know me as well as you know your father. I'd look good letting you pass under my nose. Come on. I want you to take a little walk with me."

"You're making a mistake," asserted the man angrily. "Samuel Koenig, Secretary of State, is my reference, if you wish one. Kindly let me pass."

Part of Daley's work is to prevent any scene in the opera lobby, and the man's angry tones were causing many people to stop and look at the pair. Daley cut him short.

"Come on with me, I tell you. You've got a nerve to walk in here. First thing I knew you'd 'touch' some one, and I'd be looking for the brooch, while you were telling your pals how you'd 'trimmed' me. Come on."

Jacobs gave up the fight then and walked quietly out with the detective, who took him to Police Headquarters in the Subway. There the man said he was Harry Jacobs, 25 years old, a clerk, living at 226 East Fourteenth Street. Daley made a charge of vagrancy against him, the usual charge employed to hold any suspicious character, and afterward Jacobs was taken to the Night Court, where Magistrate Steinert released him in $500 bail.

According to the police Jacobs has been tried twice for grand larceny, but has been acquitted each time. They say that he served six months in the workhouse in 1906, however, and in April of this year started another six months' term in the place from which he was recently released.

According to the police his picture is No. 4,340 in the Rogues' Gallery, and he is known in Philadelphia, Newark, Albany, and Poughkeepsie, in each of which places he has been arrested at one time or another.

"I thought he'd given up his furnished room once," said one of the detectives. "He was at Headquarters five nights out of six."

WEST INDIAN CABLES OPEN.

Breaks in Both Direct Lines and Those from Europe Repaired.

The cable companies reported yesterday that communication with all West Indian stations had been restored. For the first time since the hurricane of Nov. 7 the entire group of islands is again in touch with the world. For over two weeks Porto Rico and points in Haiti and the islands to the eastward have been isolated from the world by broken cables. The breaks are believed to have been caused by disturbances on the sea floor accompanying the hurricane.

Cable lines from New York reach Turk's Island, New Provence, Cuba, Jamaica, and certain points on the Island of Haiti. The breaks made communication eastward from Jamaica and Haiti impossible.

The break occurring in Holland Bay had the effect of cutting off Porto Rico and led to the keenest anxiety as to the safety of Col. Astor and those on his yacht, the Nourmahal. It was to repair this break that the cable boat Relay has been working night and day.

Another route to the West Indies is by the way of Europe. From Europe the line is southward to Madeira, the Cape Verde Islands, and Pernambuco, on the eastern point of South America. The cable from Pernambuco runs north to Martinique and other West Indian points. This line was put out of business by a break in the lines on the South American coast between Para and Cayenne.

This made both lines useless from the day of the great hurricane until last night, when the cable companies announced that wire communication was again restored with the United States and Europe.

GIRLS' WITCHERY WON EIGHT-STORY SCHOOL

Board of Education Voted for It in the Face of Supt. Maxwell's Opposition.

HIGHEST ONE IN THE WORLD

Music with Luncheon, a Ballroom, and Other Luxuries in Washington Irving Building.

The spell thrown over the Board of Education by the red-haired girls of the Washington Irving High School when, as witches and fairies, they recently entertained the women members o fthe board, was more complete than at first suspected, for the board decided yesterday afternoon in the face of the most pronounced opposition on the part of City Supt. Maxwell and several of the recognized leaders of the board that the new High School building should be eight stories high. This would give it the distinction of being, it was said, the highest public school building in the world.

The opponents of an eight-story building argued long; those favoring it, with the exception of Commissioner Higgins of the Bronx, sat tight and voted, mustering in the final count 23 to the opposing 18. The fight began as soon as the body met, considerable feeling developing as the discussion progressed.

Chairman C. J. Sullivan of the High School Committee declared that the plans for the building recommended represented two whole floors of wasted space. He said that the danger from fire would be great, for while the architects had agreed to make the building fireproof, experience had shown in the Baltimore and the San Francisco fires that "fireproof" buildings would burn. The plans provided for an extravagance in rooms and furnishings, he said, such as not even Harvard University enjoyed.

Music at Pupils' Luncheon.

There was a lounging room for the teachers of the classics and another lounging room for teachers in the technical department. He didn't understand why they couldn't use the same lounging room. There were two restaurants, each supplied with music balconies, where orchestras might play while the girl students lunched. While at Harvard last week he said he had asked a professor friend of his if the report was true that students at the university now ate their dinners to the strains of music. The professor replied that some one must have been "kidding" him. Yet such a plan had found place in the design for this high school.

Supt. Maxwell endeavored in his argument for a six-story and much smaller building than contemplated to show that an eight-story building would accommodate 4,000 pupils, or many more than now attend. He said that not in any high school in the United States, and he had seen every one of consequence, was there such a waste of space as the plans for this one provided. The entrance was a hall 100 feet long, he said, and 35 feet wide, or a space equal to two city lots, which was given over solely to ornamentation. He said Chairman Sullivan had referred to there being several gymnasiums. One he declared was nothing less than a ballroom.

Against Girls' Technical Schools.

He greatly regretted to see the board for the first time start on the road of extravagance in constructing school buildings. He said the space which eight stories would provide would not be needed for girls, technical schools conducted on the basis of High Schools were a failure, and the Washington Irving High School had done much to prove it. He went on to show that there was not a pupil in millinery, not a pupil in bookbinding or in printing, though teachers had been appointed for these courses, and only 130 pupils in dressmaking, yet according to the plans submitted for an eight-story building eight rooms had been set apart for these departments.

Chairman Greene of the Finance Committee thought an eight-story building would be dangerous, and favored a smaller one. He had heard, however, that members of the Board of Estimate had said that they would not vote a cent for the school unless it was eight stories high. He resented what he termed the holding of the whip hand over the Board of Education, declaring that it was for that board to determine the character of buildings to be erected.

Chairman Wilsey of the Building Committee defended the plans submitted, saying the interior arrangement of the building had been made to suit the needs of the principal and teachers.

How School's Advertising Worked.

Several members seemed to resent what they termed the "advertisement" which this school had given itself, while other schools had remained in the background. But Commissioner Higgins replied that this advertisement had brought pupils to the school from every part of the city, and the larger building would be needed to accommodate them.

It was decided in the end that though the building should be eight stories, the plans should be revised under the direction both of the Building and the High School Committees, Commissioner Sullivan looking right bloodthirsty at those dining halls, music rooms, and ballrooms in the present plans.

Miss Olivia Leventritt and Mrs. Mirabeau L. Towns occupied seats in the board meeting for the first time, Miss Leventritt voting against the eight-story school, Mrs. Towns for it. They took their seats without demonstration by other members of the board, and though the session lasted until nearly 8 o'clock they remained to the end.

Board Revokes Teacher's Fine.

An interesting case of where a spunky woman teacher defied her School Principal and was upheld by the board came up just at the end of yesterday's session Miss Isabella D. Markey's brother was to be married, and she was to be a bridesmaid. She is a teacher in School 29, the Bronx, and for nine years not a scratch had been entered against her. The day before the wedding she sought out the Principal to ask for leave, but could not find him. When she found him the next morning he told her she shouldn't go, and the young woman tilted her head to an angle of 45 degrees and marched out of the building. The Principal preferred charges of insubordination against her, and the local School Board of District 23 fined her a day's pay. She appealed to the Board of Education, which overruled the local board, standing by the teacher.

Weather Retards Carlisle's Recovery.

At St. Vincent's Hospital last night it was said that John G. Carlisle, who has been ill there for some time, was resting easily. Owing to the inclement weather, it was said, he was not much improved, but had not lost ground.

RIOT AGAINST SUFFRAGETTES.

Yells, Whistling, and Missiles Prevent Miss Pankhurst from Speaking.

BRISTOL, England, Nov. 24.—Since the attack ten days ago on Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, by a suffragette armed with a whip, a strong feeling has grown up against the campaigners for votes for women, and an attempt by Miss Christabel Pankhurst to address a meeting at Colston Hall to-night was prevented by a crowd of students and others, who kept up a continuous series of yells and whistling.

The disturbers threw flour balls and peas, and finally tried to storm the platform. A large body of police cleared the hall after a serious conflict with the students and their supporters.

OPERATE ON LOFTIN JOHNSON.

Mrs. Tom L. Johnson Hurrying Here to Her Son, Who Had Appendicitis.

Loftin Johnson, the son of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, was operated upon last night at a private sanitarium in West Sixty-first Street for appendicitis. His mother was informed of his illness during the day, and she left Cleveland last night for this city.

Dr. Joseph E. Fuld, who performed the operation, said that he was called in consultation during the day by Mr. Johnson's physician, Dr. Thomas E. Gaunt. The operation showed that the appendix was gangrenous and ruptured. The case was acute, Dr. Fuld explained, but he said the patient was progressing as favorably as could be expected.

Mr. Johnson is about 35 years of age and lives with his wife and two small children at 3,810 Broadway, near 159th Street. He was out as usual on Monday, but on that evening was seized with sharp pains. Dr. Fuld considered it exceptional that the appendix could have become so diseased without giving some sign at an earlier date.

Mrs. Johnson and his sister, Mrs. Mariani, of 616 West 116th Street, were at the hospital during the operation.

GOVERNOR AND ROAD AGREE.

Missouri Pacific Promises $750,000 Improvements.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 24.—Gov. Stubbs and Vice President C. F. Clarke of the Missouri Pacific reached a compromise to-day with reference to the improvements in the central branch.

The Governor agreed not to ask for a receiver if the company will spend $750,000 on the central branch in 1910 and lay 100 miles of new eighty-five-pound rails and 140 miles of rock ballast. Gov. Stubbs, who is a practical railroad builder, will accompany Mr. Clarke over the line next week to agree on the improvements.

SKETCH WRITER A SUICIDE.

Woman Dead in St. Louis Said Manager Stole Her Best Comedy Piece.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Grace Hubbard, heartbroken because a comedy sketch of hers has been stolen, as she said by a theatrical manager, has committed suicide. The woman's body was found last night in a bare flat on North Taylor Avenue. Charles Tidwell, a negro janitor of the apartments, said Mrs. Hubbard told him of the loss of her sketch.

"I took the work to a St. Louis manager," she told Tidwell, "and he asked me to leave it for a few days. When I returned he said that it was not available, but later I saw my act performed, word for word. In my disappointment I had torn up the original manuscript and so had no redress."

When the police broke into the rooms the only articles left in the flat were a bed and a chair.

RUNAWAY TRAIN IS WRECKED.

Dashes Down Side of Mountain and Leaps Track—Engineer Killed.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Nov. 24.—A coal train got beyond control of the airbrakes while descending the heavy grade on Broad Mountain from Frackville to St. Clair early to-day and dashed down the mountain at a speed of more than a mile a minute, with the whistle tied down to give warning along the road for five miles ahead.

After running about four miles the locomotive jumped the rails near Broad Mountain Station and plunged over the embankment, followed by the twenty-eight steel "battleship" cars, all loaded with coal. The engine turned turtle and buried Engineer George A. Ammon of Pottsville beneath it, killing him. Other members of the crew were dug out of the wreck of twisted steel and piled-up coal, and were found to be alive. John Williams of Port Carbon, conductor, and John Beaumont, brakeman, of St. Clair, were injured badly. Fireman George Flommer of Schuylkill Haven escaped with slight injuries by jumping just before the train left the track.

BIBLE OUT OF PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Objections of Freeport Priest Sustained by State Commission of Education.

FREEPORT, L. I., Nov. 24.—After a fight of two years Father Charles Logue of the Freeport Catholic Church has succeeded in having the reading of the Bible in the public school here stopped. Eventually the priest laid his objections before Commissioner of Education A. F. Draper in Albany, with the result that an order prohibiting the reading of the Bible was issued last Saturday.

Father Logue and Commissioner Draper find precedent for the order in a recent legal decision that if a single objection to the reading of the Bible in public schools be raised it shall be sufficient to bring about a discontinuance of the practice.

The members of the School Board and a majority of the parents of school children here favor the reading of the Bible. Samuel R. Smith, President of the Freeport Board of Education, declared to-day that the religious exercises in the schools here were always held before regular school hours, and no child was compelled to attend them.

Mr. Smith said that Commissioner Draper's order showed that he was in error in relation to matters at issue, and as the local board was in ignorance of Father Logue's visit to Albany, and so had no opportunity to present their side of the case, they have asked that it be reopened and an opportunity given to them to be heard.

Saved Boy from Auto; Gets a Medal.

The National Highway Protective Association awarded yesterday a medal to thirteen-year-old Mabel McCormack of 346 East 146th Street for dragging from under an automobile near her home last Saturday a little boy named John Geany, of the same address, whose life her quick action saved.

DISSECT AND REJECT SHONTS TRANSIT PLAN

Public Service Commissioners, Through Willcox, Condemn It as Unfair to the City.

OBSTRUCTIVE, THEY SAY

Entire Proposal Described as Against Public Policy and Subversive of Public Opinion.

The Public Service Commission yesterday declined the offer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company with regard to the construction of new subways. In a letter to Theodore P. Shonts, Chairman Willcox for the commission riddled the company's proposal with criticisms. He declared that they would prevent the proper provision of traffic facilities for a large part of Brooklyn and ask far too favorable terms with regard to construction taxation and the third tracking of the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue Elevated Roads.

He branded the entire plan as obstructive and against public policy.

Evidently the attitude of the commission came as a surprise to the Interborough. Mr. Willcox's letter crossed one from Mr. Shonts to the commission, in which the Interborough President requests early action on the proposals of his company with the plain belief that they would be accepted.

Mr. Shonts refers to the conference he had with the Commissioners last Friday and says that it was clear there were no longer serious differences of opinion between the commission and the Interborough.

Mr. Shonts's Letter.

Here is his letter:

Interborough Rapid Transit Company,
165 Broadway, Nov. 24, 1909.

My Dear Mr. Willcox: The impression left upon my mind as a result of our conference on last Friday is that we are in accord as to the physical features of the Interborough's proposition for the third-tracking of the elevated lines, as well as the physical layout of the Subway extensions, except, possibly, the Pelham Bay Park extension out Westchester Avenue, which was included in our proposition in the belief that it was a line into new territory you were anxious to have occupied.

This company's proposition of June 30, as amended Sept. 22 set forth the terms under which this company could finance and construct these lines. In view of your statement that it will probably cost double to build subways to-day, as compared with the conditions under which the present Subway was built, and in view of the fact, which I think must also be admitted, that the cost of operation is at this time correspondingly higher than at the time of the opening of the present Subway, the Interborough's proposition to furnish its own money to build subways, and to operate same under the general terms of the contracts relating to the existing Subway, should certainly be satisfactory to the city's interests, particularly in view of the fact that although at present the Subway is giving more transportation of its kind than is given anywhere else in the world for 5 cents, it is proposed to double the amount of that transportation for the same fare.

In so far as the third-tracking of the elevated lines is concerned, the Interborough proposes the same terms as the old Rapid Transit Board offered the old Manhattan Elevated Railway Company ten years ago, and when it is borne in mind that the same comparison as to costs in construction and operation as outlined above will apply to the elevated lines it would seem that these terms should also be satisfactory to the city.

If I am correct in my understanding that we are practically agreed on physical lines, and correct in my further assumption that the terms should be satisfactory, in view of the foregoing, do you not think that the time has come for you to take action on our proposition, as you have the right to do under the law as an extra under Contract No. 1? Very truly yours,

T. P. SHONTS, President.

Hon. William R. Willcox, Chairman,
Public Service Commission.

The proposals of the Interborough were the continuation of the present subway down Seventh Avenue from Times Square to the Battery, the building of an east side line connecting with the present subway at Park Avenue and Thirtieth Street and at 149th Street, and the construction of the Westchester Avenue branch to Pelham Bay Park. The company also asked permission to third track the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenues Elevated lines and to extend the Eighth Avenue Elevated by river and Jerome Avenue to 194th Street.

In criticising these the first ground the commission takes is in defense of Brooklyn. It declares that the action of the Interborough is not broad enough or sufficiently metropolitan in that the company objects to extending its present Subway beyond Atlantic Avenue, and, if it undertakes the operation of the proposed Broadway-Lafayette Avenue line, would be unwilling to extend that as well.

An Obstructive Plan.

The commission points out that in taking this attitude the Interborough is condemning the large and increasing population across the East River that lives beyond the territory of these two lines to pay two fares for the comparatively short haul to the City Hall. Moreover, the present Brooklyn Subway has pre-empted one of the principal approaches to the borough and the Lafayette Avenue route, crossing as it will the Manhattan Bridge, will occupy one of the chief approaches to Williamsburg. Such a policy the commission stigmatizes as "obstructive."

It is also dissatisfied with the terms under which the Interborough asks to be permitted to build its new lines. Mr. Shonts has asked that they should be considered mere "extensions" of the present Subway, and that they therefore be built under the contract which was drawn up for that. These terms the commission holds are more favorable than it has any right to grant under the law to an independent company, and, moreover, they have been condemned by public opinion, and it declares that it is not fair for the Interborough to double practically its lines under the guise of "extensions."

The Commissioners point out that such an interpretation of the word "extension" would be unfair to the bidders for the Lexington Avenue Subway, and add that the proposal of the Interborough that in the new lines the city should bear the cost of all real estate, easements and other rights, and permit their use to the company free is a more onerous burden for the city than the original contract, under which the company bound itself to pay interest and sinking fund charges on the entire construction cost, including the price of the land.

Asked Tax Exemption.

The Interborough demanded tax exemption and made no proposal for sharing its profits with the city. The Commissioners hold that both these are unreasonable, in that if the State should decide to tax common carriers, the city would have to pay the taxes on the new lines, while it obtained no profit from it, however largely the company might be benefiting.

With regard to the Interborough's request for permission to build the Pelham Bay Park line, the Commissioners say that this road should properly belong to the Lexington Avenue Subway when it is constructed, and that if it was separated from it, the building of the White Plains Avenue extension would also be stopped. On this they build another charge of obstruction to the proper development of the city against the company.

Taking up the third-tracking suggestion of the Interborough, the commission points out that in proposing that the same conditions should be applied to it as were agreed upon with the Rapid Transit Board in 1898, the company is picking out a few proposals from a general plan which was supposed at the time to be inseparable.

Moreover, the compensation the Interborough was willing to pay the city for the third tracks in 1898 was 2 per cent. on all the excess increase of traffic over what was carried at that time. The commission points out that since then the elevated traffic has already increased by $1,600,000, and that consequently if the Interborough now is to pay a percentage over only the increase above its present receipts the city will be permanently deprived of 2 per cent. on this $1,600,000.

The commission therefore rejects the proposals of the Interborough altogether, and requests Mr. Shonts either to make a new proposal or to express his willingness to modify his present one.

The letter of the Public Service Commission to the Interborough in full says:

COMMISSION'S REPLY TO SHONTS.

"Nov. 24, 1909.

"T. F. Shonts, President,
Interborough Rapid Transit Company:

"Dear Sir: Since the receipt of your last proposition the commission has endeavored to obtain by informal conference with you certain modifications with a view of formulating routes and terms for additional subways and elevated tracks that would be mutually satisfactory. As you refuse to modify your proposition and as you insist upon its acceptance or rejection as it stands the commission finds no alternative but to express its disapproval.

"As your letters to the commission have been supplemented by several verbal statements we take the liberty of summarizing your present position as we understand it. If we are in error we shall, of course, be glad to be corrected.

"The subway extensions which you have named are as follows:

Seventh Avenue Line—Extending from Times Square down Seventh Avenue, West Broadway, and Greenwich Street to the Battery. This line would be a four-track subway from Times Square to Canal Street, two tracks extending to the Battery and two tracks via Canal Street, Manhattan Bridge, and Flatbush Avenue extension to connect with your line in Brooklyn.

Madison Avenue Line—Extending from Park Avenue and Thirtieth Street, up Madison Avenue to connect with the present Subway near 149th Street and with the Jerome Avenue elevated line near 160th Street.

Westchester Avenue Line—To connect with your present line at Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue and to extend to Pelham Bay Park.

"You have stated that those lines must be built as 'extra work' under Contract 1, the original contract for the construction and operation of the present Subway from City Hall North, except that you will obtain the money directly, instead of indirectly, by using the city's credit, the cost being amortized out of earnings as at present.

"You also insist that the city must provide the right of way and station sites, and assume all liability to abutting property owners, except such damage as may be negligently caused by you in construction work. This means that the city must defray the cost of all real estate taken for rights of way, stations, connections, &c. You further state that you must be allowed all the favorable construction privileges contained in the contract under which the present Subway was built.

The Operating Contract.

"As to the operating contract, you state that it shall be coterminate with your present contract, (that it shall run for forty-five years, or until 1954, with the privilege of renewal for twenty-five years more;) that the city shall pay taxes upon the physical property and upon the franchises, if any are imposed, and that no rental shall be exacted by the city.

"We understand your position to be that you will do practically nothing in the Borough of Brooklyn; that you will not extend for any considerable distance your line which at present ends at Flatbush and Atlantic Avenues; that you will not even operate long extensions, if they are built and turned over to you without charge; that you will build under certain circumstances the Broadway-Fafayette Avenue portion of the Brooklyn loop lines and take an operating contract for the loop, but that if you are awarded the loop, but that if you are awarded will not accept any provisions in such contract which obligate you to go further into Brooklyn.

"The commission cannot accept your proposition for the following reasons:

"1. The fundamental objection to your proposition is that it does not deal with the rapid transit problem in a broad, metropolitan way. You have clearly expressed your unwillingness to extend your line beyond the Long Island Railroad station, although at one time your company was practically committed to such extension.

"Such position is most illogical and obstructive. Your company has obtained probably the best paying route in Brooklyn. It ends practically in the traffic centre of that borough. Anyone who uses it and lives beyond walking distance from it must pay two fares to reach even the lower part of Manhattan, but while you are refusing to extend even a mile or two miles into the built-up portion of Brooklyn, requiring a haul of 8½ to 4½ miles to City Hall, Manhattan, you propose an extension in the Bronx over 4½ miles in length, the extreme terminus of which is 14¾ miles from the City Hall, Manhattan.

Question of Distances.

"It is manifest that if you can afford to build the Pelham Bay Park branch and carry passengers for a five-cent fare from that point to the lower part of Manhattan, you can afford to operate an extension in Brooklyn, running a much shorter distance east or south.

"It seems to the commission that such a policy as to Brooklyn is plainly a blocking policy. When the Interborough Company took upon itself the construction and operation of the spur to Brooklyn it pre-empted one of the principal approaches to lower Manhattan and one of the principal streets of Brooklyn. It thereby committed itself to the duty of providing additional facilities to Brooklyn under reasonable terms.

"Indeed, looking toward that end, two additional tracks were built in Fulton Street with the city's money and are now unused by you, yet you have control of them for upward of sixty years to come.

"It has not been suggested that your company should necessarily construct, equip, and operate with your own money lines to distant points, but the commission does believe that you should be willing to make proper extensions in Brooklyn and not to adhere to an obstructive policy.

"If we interpret your position aright, however, you are forcing the city to provide relief for Brooklyn by other routes and through other companies, or Brooklyn must pay two fares to reach even the lower part of Manhattan. Your proposition is as objectionable in this respect as would be a proposal to occupy one of the principal longitudinal thoroughfares of Manhattan by the construction of a line from South Ferry to Forty-second Street with a five-cent fare and with the refusal to extend further north.

"An adequate system of transportation cannot be provided along such lines. If the Interborough Company is to operate an interborough line in reality and not merely in name, its lines must be extended in Brooklyn upon fair terms. You have practically insisted that the short-haul traffic in Manhattan and in the central portion of Brooklyn shall all be used to increase your profits or to effect long-haul traffic to northern Manhattan and the Bronx.

A Public Injustice.

"Any plan which contemplates the utilization of a few thoroughfares in the lower part of Manhattan and of the short-haul traffic in the centre of narrow Brooklyn and the lower part of Manhattan solely for the benefit of certain districts in the upper portion of Manhattan and in the Bronx is illogical, unmetropolitan, and unjust to the whole city.

"For similar reasons the commission does not view with favor your offer to operate the Broadway-Lafayette Avenue loop without any obligation to extend further into Brooklyn. If you were given the loop upon such terms you would virtually control the subway approaches to the Williamsburg and the Manhattan Bridges and have obtained short-haul, well-paying traffic in Brooklyn without any obligation to take some of the lean as well.

"The commission is opposed to the leasing of the Broadway-Lafayette Avenue loop to any operator who will refuse to go further into Brooklyn or who will use the rights which it has thus secured to obstruct rapid transit for the remainder of Brooklyn and the southern portion of Queens.

"2. Under the guise of extensions it is proposed that this commission shall authorize you to construct, equip, and operate what is virtually a new system in Manhattan upon terms that are much more favorable to you than the commission has any authority to grant to an independent company.

"The commission has not been advised of your reasons for the claim that you should be considered a favored contractor, but the commission believes that it is contrary to the spirit of the Rapid Transit act and to all fairness that you should be given more favorable terms than can be given to others, including, for example, the bidder for the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system.

"The law provides for the special treatment of extensions, but we do not believe that it was intended or that it would be right for this commission to nearly double the mileage of your lines as 'extra work' under Contract 1 and call these very important additions 'extensions,' when they really constitute a new system.

Against Public Opinion.

"Furthermore, public opinion has condemned the seventy-five-year irrevocable, non-profit sharing grant—Contract 1—as too unfavorable to the interests of the city. The Legislature has passed laws making the repetition of such grants impossible for independent lines. The Rapid Transit Commission did not follow them in Contract 2.

"3. Your proposition in certain respects asks that you be given terms less favorable to the city than those contained in Contract No. 1. Under that contract, you are required to pay interest and sinking fund upon the cost of construction, including land for subway purposes. Your present proposition is that the city shall pay for all land, easements, and rights that are necessary, and allow you the use of such property without charge. Thus the city would have to pay annually by taxation the interest upon this cost.

"4. You also insist that such taxes as shall be levied upon your company in connection with the new lines shall be paid by the city. Thus, if the State of New York should change the system of taxation, and levy a tax upon you and other common carriers, you would be exempt, according to the terms of your offer.

"We do not believe that the general taxpayer should be burdened in this way, especially in view of the fact that the additional lines you desire will be very remunerative, especially the Seventh Avenue line, which will carry the larger portion of the traffic from the Pennsylvania Railroad station—a very profitable short-haul traffic.

"5. The commission considers that it would be unwise to give you a franchise under which there would be no sharing of profits with the city. The Rapid Transit act provides that in connection with new, independent lines, the operators shall share profits with the city after the payment of all proper charges, including interest upon the cost. Your proposition contains no such provision.

No Gain for the City.

"If, as is likely, the profits upon your proposed lines should be very large the city would have no share in them. If you were to earn 5, 10, or 15 per cent. above operating charges, taxes, sinking fund payments, and interest upon your entire investment, the city would not get one dollar of such profits. Yet it would have given you the franchise for nothing, would have provided all the right of way and land that is needed, and an operating contract for forty-five years, with a renewal of twenty-five years more.

"If there should prove to be no such profits the profit-sharing plan would not be an additional burden, but if there should be large profits you should share them with the city. We do not understand why this is unreasonable.

"6. Viewed as operating lines, the proposed routes in Manhattan are largely satisfactory, but your refusal to build or operate Route 18 in the Bronx, while at the same time proposing a branch connecting with your present line at Westchester Avenue and the Southern Boulevard and extending to Pelham Bay Park, is open to criticism.

"Route 19, which would provide rapid transit for Williamsbridge, Van Nest, and Wakefield, is practically as long as the Pelham Bay Park branch, which you propose; thus the objection to the former cannot be cost or expense of operation. Route 18 has always been planned to connect with it, and cannot so advantageously be operated in connection with any other line.

"If the Pelham Bay Park branch is given to you, it will be practically impossible to connect Route 18 with any line, for you have stated that you would not construct Route 18 as a part of or in connection with the Pelham Bay Park branch. Furthermore, if you build the Pelham Bay Park branch, the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system will be deprived of a logical extension.

"We have repeatedly pointed out to you that we are opposed to any plan which obstructs or prevents the normal development of future lines, and that extensions to your lines should be into territory which can be more easily reached by your lines than by others. These requirements are not met by your plans, and, therefore, we are opposed to them so far as they interfere with a logical, comprehensive scheme of rapid transit.

An Unfavorable Contract.

"7. We cannot believe that you are prepared to insist that you be allowed all of the favorable construction privileges contained in the original Subway contract. The methods there permissible aroused such widespread opposition that no contract since drawn has allowed such latitude, and this commission is not prepared to reverse recent policies and return to the methods practiced ten years ago. The welfare of the city will not permit it.

"Coming to the portion of your proposition relating to elevated tracks, for you have stated that you will not build additional subways unless you are given a franchise for additional tracks on your elevated lines, we understand your proposition to include the following:

Additional tracks upon the Second Avenue, Third Avenue, and Ninth Avenue lines, with such crossovers, approaches, and stations as may be necessary to operate the additional tracks as express lines.

Extension of Eighth Avenue elevated road across Macomb's Dam Bridge easterly to River Avenue and northerly, by River and Jerome Avenues, to 194th Street.

"You propose that a franchise be given you for these additional tracks and that the terms of such franchise shall not exceed the terms proposed by the Rapid Transit Commission early in 1898.

"The commission has carefully examined this proposal, but does not see how it can be taken as a basis for the present arrangement. It is entirely different from your present plans, as it covered third tracks upon the Third and Ninth Avenue lines only, an elevated extension in the Bronx, a new elevated road on West Street from the Battery to Fourteenth Street, a new elevated road from the Brooklyn Bridge Station via Centre and Canal Streets to West Street, and a combined elevated and subway line connecting with the elevated road at Ninth Avenue and Fifty-third Street and extending up Amsterdam Avenue to Spuyten Duyvil.

"A subway has been built in Broadway, making the subway referred to in 1898 unnecessary at the present moment. Your present proposition says nothing regarding any new elevated roads in Manhattan. You do not now propose to extend your Third Avenue line beyond its present terminus. Your plans for third tracking include much more than was proposed in 1898.

Payment Not Adequate.

"As every part of the 1898 proposal was made contingent upon the acceptance of every other part, it is impossible to separate trackage rights on the Third and Ninth Avenue lines from all the other features and say what the terms were. You have indicated, however, that you consider a payment equivalent to 2 per cent. of the additional gross receipts which accrue after the additional tracks are added as the compensation which you are willing to pay.

"If this is your last word upon the subject we are ready to state that it is inadequate. Our records indicate that the annual gross receipts upon the Third Avenue line have increased since 1898 over $1,600,000. If the percentage were computed from the present date the city would lose a return upon this amount.

"It is evident that if 2 per cent. were reasonable in 1898, a much larger percentage should be paid from this time on. We would call your attention to the fact that under the State law the minimum compensation required of street railways is 3 per cent. of gross receipts for the first five years and 5 per cent. thereafter.

"The third tracking of the elevated roads is probably the most valuable right which the city can give to any company when compared with the expense involved, and we do not believe that your offer could be considered adequate when viewed in any light.

"In view of the entire dissimilarity between the engineering features of your recent proposal and the proposal of the Rapid Transit Commission in 1898, it is the opinion of the commission that the two are comparable and that the compensation provided for third tracking alone is quite inadequate. We believe that more progress would be made if you would do as has been repeatedly suggested, viz., present an entirely new proposition based upon conditions as they exist to-day.

"When the commission proposed that informal conference be held, we assumed that the terms of your recent letters would be discussed and that you would not insist that the proposition you had made in writing should be accepted or rejected as a whole. However, as you have taken this position, we have no alternative but to reject your proposal, and suggest that a new proposal be made or that you indicate your willingness to modify the terms proposed. Very truly yours,

"WILLIAM R. WILLCOX, Chairman."

Mr. Shonts Astonished.

Mr. Shonts was unable last night to discuss the reply of the Public Service Commission to the Interborough, as he had not yet received it. When he was informed of the principal points it made he expressed a good deal of surprise.

"We made our proposal last June," he said, "and we have had a number of conferences with the Commissioners upon it. We have modified our plans, as we thought, to suit them, and I believed that there was no substantial difference of opinion between us. For instance, we had suggested building our east side line along Third Avenue, but at the suggestion of the commission we adopted the Madison Avenue route.

"It is not true that we desire to obstruct the development of the city, but we do think that it is our duty to bend all our energies to relieving the congestion of the central part of the city. We are not the only transportation company in New York, and why should we be expected to develop every part of the city? It is beyond our power.

"We have desired to be fair to our bankers, to our shareholders, and to the public, but we have especially desired to help the public. We desire, first, to relieve the terrible congestion in Manhattan by the construction of $100,000,000 subway, and then, when conditions are normal, go on to open up the outlying districts. We have found that in this our bankers, Morgan & Co., are prepared to follow a very liberal policy.

"The Commissioners have objected to our asking for the Pelham Bay Park line. We did not ask for it first, but added it, because we understood that the commission wished that we should, and because we realized that we must not take all the fat without some of the lean. As for what has been said about the Lafayette Avenue line and our unwillingness to extend it, we have never asked to operate it at all, as can be seen by looking at our original proposal. The commission it was that asked us under what terms we would operate it."

Question of Contracts.

Mr. Shonts was asked what he had to say about the contention of the commission that the terms of the old subway contract were altogether too liberal for application to the proposed extensions.

"It seemed to us," he said, "that certain sections of the old contract dealing with extensions exactly applied to the additions we now have proposed to construct, and that it was exactly such additions that the contract contemplated.

"I can only say that Chairman Willcox has told me several times that since the present Subway was built the cost of materials and labor has risen so greatly that the cost of construction and operation would be almost double, and it does not seem to us unreasonable that we should ask to be permitted to construct under the old arrangement."

In the same way Mr. Shonts justified the holding to the arrangement of 1898 in relation to the third tracking of the elevated. He pointed out that the company had no precedent to go by in settling the consideration to be given for it, and that it had therefore deemed it right to fall back on the old plan.

"We want to relieve the awful congestion," said Mr. Shonts in conclusion, "as quickly as possible. By third-tracking the elevated lines we can do it far more rapidly than in any other way. We reckoned that we could operate the Pelham Bay and the Jerome Avenue extension in connection with the Third Avenue and so give relief from intolerable conditions to the Bronx far more quickly than if they had to wait for a subway, which cannot be built in five, and perhaps not in seven years.

"Yet the Commissioners wanted us, if we spent $20,000,000 in third-tracking our present lines, to construct an elevated to the Atlantic at an additional cost of $32,500,000. We have made our proposals, and have modified them as we thought the commission wished us to do. Since we have not succeeded in satisfying them, perhaps it will be best for them now to make suggestions to us."

TO ENJOIN SOUTH SHORE CO.

W. J. Schieffelin Begins Action Against Franchise Modifications.

Chairman William J. Schieffelin of the Citizens' Union began a taxpayers' action yesterday to restrain the Board of Estimate from granting the proposed modifications in the franchise of the South Shore Traction Company for operating cars over the Queensboro Bridge and through Queens County to the city line. It is sought to have action deferred until all consideration of the proposed grant and all inquiries regarding it required by the city charter shall have been made subsequent to the preliminary hearing on Dec. 10.

Mr. Schieffelin asks for injunctions restraining not only the Board of Estimate but its Secretary and the Supervisor of the City Record, and all members of the Board of City Record, to restrain them from publishing the advertisements for the final hearing on this application on Dec. 22. The board at the meeting on Nov. 19 directed these advertisements to be published.

The plaintiff asks for a long series of separate restraints upon the action of the city officials regarding this franchise, and asks for judgment declaring all consideration of the company's application prior to Dec. 10 void and of no legal effect.

One result of the suit, if it is successful, would be to prevent the present Board of Estimate and Apportionment from granting the company's application for modifications of its franchise.

The main purpose includes not only the defeat of this application, which would reduce by several hundred thousand dollars the amount of payment by the company to the city for its franchise, but to establish beyond all question the right of citizens and taxpayers to be heard on every franchise on the day of its first consideration by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Supreme Court Justice McCall granted to Mr. Schieffelin yesterday an order to show cause returnable on Monday. This order restrains the city officials from any action in the matter until the argument on the return day.

ZIA PACKA ON WAY HOME.

Turkish Emissary to Tell the Sultan of the Wonders of America.

Zia Pasha, emissary from the new Sultan of Turkey to this country, who last week presented a letter from that ruler to President Taft at Washington, arrived here yesterday, en route for Constantinople, with his suite. During the day he held audience at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he is staying, and told some of his impressions.

"President Taft," he said, "is a wonderful statesman, and worthy of the great honor bestowed upon him by the Republic. I have been particularly impressed by the hospitality shown me while at the capital, and I shall have many wonderful things to tell the Sultan upon my return to Turkey.

"The future outlook for my country is most promising, especially since the old regime was thrown off. The people of Turkey to-day are progressive, and we hope to keep on progressing."

August Belmont, Jr., Past the Crisis.

August Belmont, Jr., who has been ill at his home, 44 East Thirty-fourth Street, for the last two weeks, of typhoid fever, was said last night to be improving. The report was given out by a member of the household, who said that the crisis of the fever, usually reached on the fourteenth day, had been passed.

B. R. T. WOULD NOW INVADE MANHATTAN

Company Has Extension Plans to Connect the North River and Coney Island.

BUT NOT FOR A 5-CENT FARE

Proposal Is That the City Shall Build the Lines and Lease Them to the Company.

An extension of the rapid transit system of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company into Manhattan to connect Coney Island and the North River by means of the Manhattan Bridge and a subway under Canal Street, it was learned yesterday, has been tentatively proposed by the Brooklyn company to the Public Service Commission.

The proposal, which, according to President Edwin W. Winter of the transit company, is as yet indefinite and one of many discussed with the commission, includes besides the operation of cars over the Manhattan Bridge and under Manhattan, also the building of an elevated line between Coney Island and Brighton Beach, the operation of cars under lease from the city through a new subway to be built between the Prospect Park station and Fourth Avenue, and the laying of two additional tracks between Church Avenue and Prospect Park station.

Should the informal offer of the Brooklyn company be accepted by the commission a continuous rapid transit service would be furnished for Manhattan and New Jersey from the western limit of Manhattan to Coney Island. Just under what terms the Brooklyn Rapid Transit would be willing to operate its cars could not be learned. President Winter said last night that no definite terms had been presented, but that the feeling in his company was that a 5-cent fare from Manhattan to Coney Island would hardly be possible.

Mr. Winter denied also that the proposed invasion of Manhattan territory and bid for Manhattan patronage by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit would be a violation of any understanding with the Interborough or any other company, whereby his company was restricted to the territory on the Brooklyn side of the bridge. No such understanding, limiting either the Brooklyn or Manhattan companies, he said, had ever existed.

"The proposition," he said, "is altogether tentative. Nothing definite has been worked out, and the matter has not even been definitely brought before our board. Although the plan has not been formally submitted to the Public Service Commission, and it cannot therefore be said what action may be taken, we found the commission receptive of any plan that promises relief."

The tentative plan of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit is:

To build an elevated road between Coney Island and Brighton Beach, where hitherto it has been only surface lines.

To provide a four-track line between Church Avenue and Malbone Street, (the Prospect Park station,) in place of the present two-track service. There are already four tracks between Church Avenue and Brighton Beach.

To run cars through a new subway to be built between the Prospect Park station and Fourth Avenue, where a connection can be made with the tube already contracted for under the Flatbush Avenue extension for the Fourth Avenue Subway.

To run cars over the Manhattan Bridge, and from there across Manhattan to the North River by way of the proposed subway under Canal Street.

Plans for this last subway were drawn some time ago under the general permission for more subways, given to the Public Service Commission by the Board of Estimate, and the contracts for public letting will soon be ready.

Both the subway between the Flatbush Avenue extension and the Prospect Park Station, and that from the Manhattan Bridge to the North River, according to the plan, are to be constructed and owned by the city, and rented by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Just what terms the company offers for its service could not be ascertained. It was said, however, that a materially quickened running schedule between Coney Island and all the intermediary points would be provided.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission said last night that no application had been placed before the commission in the matter, and that he knew nothing of the terms proposed by the company.

"We have frequently called for suggestions as to the improvement of rapid transit conditions in Brooklyn," he said, "and I suppose the present proposal was broached informally to one or two of the Commissioners by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit officials."

COLLEGE CRY FOR JUSSERAND.

City Students Startle the French Ambassador—Their Guest.

Ambassador Jusserand of France was the guest of City College yesterday at a reception that began at 2 o'clock and lasted till after 5. More than 2,500 students who had crowded the great hall cheered his address with the college yell and three "Jusserands." The yell startled the Ambassador a bit, but he smiled at his fright a second later.

The Ambassador had an opportunity to witness how much interest is taken in the study of his language at the college, for the greater part of the programme consisted of French addresses of welcome, excerpts from Corneille and Moliere's plays, and French recitations and French music by the students.

President Finley welcomed the Ambassador on behalf of the Faculty, and he was followed by Frederic Coudert, who welcomed him on behalf of the Board of Education.

In his address Ambassador Jusserand urged the study of foreign languages, saying they were the keys to the storehouses of all times. He spoke of his recent trip throughout the United States, and said:

"I admired the undescribable, the unique beauty of certain of your landscapes which have no parallel in the world, but I admired more the power of your men."

He spoke of the marvelous rebuilding of San Francisco as an example of this.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, who gave the exchange lectures at the Sorbonne last year, in an address on the colleges of France and the United States, said that what American universities might learn from those of France was teaching their youth how to think.

LOST A HAT, SAYS KNOX.

Otherwise Robbery of Home Was Insignificant, Secretary Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Secretary Knox said to-day that the extent of his loss by the robbing of his home at Valley Forge by burglars last Thursday night was a fairl good hat and a few unimportant legal papers. He says that he is not at all worried by the incident, and expresses no alram as to the value of the papers stolen.

The Secretary seemed disposed to ridicule the suggestion that the object of the robbery might have been to gain possession of State papers. At his Summer home, he said, the nearest approach to official documents was a small quantity of blank department stationery. Mr. Knox seemed more nervous over the possibility that his hat, which was carried off apparently by mistake, another hat being left in its place, should turn up, marked with his initials, in some place not quite proper for a Cabinet officer. In that case he denies all responsibility.

CHENEY SUCCEEDS WILLIAMS.

Second Deputy Is Appointed Superintendent of Banking by Governor.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—Governor Hughes to-day appointed Orion Howard Cheney of New York to be Superintendent of Banks, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Clark Williams, who was recently appointed State Controller.

Mr. Cheney was second deputy of the banking department under Mr. Williams, and was in charge of the New York office. He had been practicing law in New York for some time before he was appointed Deputy Superintendent. Recommendations which he made to Mr. Williams in regard to the work of the State Banking Department attracted the attention of not only Mr. Williams, but also Gov. Hughes. For several months before his appointment as deputy, which was in May, 1908, Mr. Cheney served on a special mission for Superintendent Williams, for which he received no compensation.

Mr. Cheney was born in Illinois in 1869. He attended Drake University in Iowa and later the University of Michigan. After his graduation he came to this city and entered the employ of the Garfield National Bank. He continued with that institution for ten years. Mr. Cheney turned his attention to banking law. He took up the study of law at the New York University Law School in the evenings. He was president of his class at the university, and, after receiving his degree in 1897, and being admitted to the bar, he took up post-graduate work. Mr. Cheney is a charter member of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Controller Williams said that the appointment of Mr. Cheney was most gratifying.

"Mr. Cheney has been in absolute agreement with the former administration," said Mr. Williams, "and I feel sure the condition of the State banking system and the present organization of the department will not seem to require radical change in the policy pursued during the last two years."

PRIEST AIDS POLICE.

Father Curry Got Evidence Leading to Alleged Cocaine Vendor's Arrest.

Health Inspector Hugh H. Masterson, the Rev. Father Curry, pastor of St. James's Church, in James Street, and Capt. Day of the Eldridge Street Police Station joined forces on Tuesday night to suppress the cocaine traffic.

While Father Curry was not actually in the raid on a place near Chatham Square, he aided the police in getting the evidence, and he was in the Essex Market Court yesterday to press the charge of selling the drug against three prisoners. Capt. Day told Magistrate Breen that the place where they found the men was covered by a poolroom protected by a Supreme Court injunction. The hope was expressed of having the injunction dissolved.

"Ever since the law went into effect prohibiting the indiscriminate sale of cocaine by drug stores," said Father Curry in court, "men have trafficked in the drug on the streets, particularly in Chatham Square, which is in my parish. I have seen the terrible effects of the drug among some of my own parishioners, and I have appealed to the judges of the Court of General Sessions to impose the severest punishment possible under the law, the maximum being one year, and $1,000 fine. The judges have usually given the full year sentence, but this seems only a sleeping period for the fiends, and next year I hope an amendment will be passed by the Legislatre making the punishment from three to five years.

"The police have been vigilant, but in spite of their efforts the drug has been sold on a wholesale scale in Chatham Square, and I make a special plea that the court co-operate with the police to the fullest extent in suppressing the sales there, and then my parish, in which I have waged a relentless crusade against the drug habit, will be clean."

One of the prisoners, Thomas Kennedy, of 23 Bowery, was held by Magistrate Breen in $1,000 bail for trial, while the other two prisoners, who said they were John Dydrich of 519 West Forty-ninth street, and Enrice Paguili, 19 years old, of 95 Pike street, were held in $100 as witnesses.

RUNAWAY HORSE HURTS THREE

Little Schoolgirls Run Down and One Mortally Injured.

One little girl was probably mortally injured and two others sutained slight hurts yesterday when, on their way to school with other little ones, they were knocked down and dragged by a runaway horse in Dumont Avenue, near Sackman Street, East New York.

Sarah Kratzer, 14 years old, of 180 Thatford Avenue, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in a critical condition. She had sustained lacerations of the head and body, there were indications that she was injured internally, and her spine was injured. Her death was expected last night.

Esther Rosenblum of the same age and address, sustained cuts and severe bruises, and was also taken to the hospital, but later was taken to her home by her tparents.

Nettie Abelbaum, 14 years old, of 203 Thatford Avenue, sustained lacerations of the face and hands and possible internal injuries, but will recover.

Scores of other children escaped injury by a narrow margin when, just as they were making their way toward School 109, at Dumont Avenue and Sackman Street, for the afternoon session, the runaway appeared. The driver, Max Palmetta of 412 Williams Avenue, was thrown from his seat.

The three little girls walking across the street arm in arm did not see their peril until the horse was almost upon them. After hitting them the runaway dashed on with a crowd of men in pursuit, and was captured a mile away by Mounted Policeman William Rogers of the Liberty Avenue Station.

DENIES GUGGENHEIM DEAL.

Witness in Alaska Coal Case Says Claimants Acted for Themselves.

SEATTLE, Nov. 24.—For the first time since the hearing opened the relation of the Guggenheim interests to the Cunningham claimants was taken up by attorneys for the claimants in the inquiry into the Alaska coal land cases to-day.

Charles G. Smith, builder of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, one of the claimants interested in the Cunningham group, was put on the stand by the defense to-day. He was interested in the Alaska claims by Mr. Cunningham, who was authorized by Smith to file on a claim in the Katalla District.

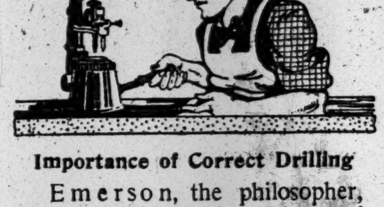
Mr. Smith said there never had been any intention of holding the claims for some outside corporation. He said that he knew it would be impossible for one man or three men working together to operate successfully a mine in the Katalla district because of the isolation of the properties and the great expense that would be required to get the coal to tidewater.

Mr. Smith said that it was his understanding that they would join to carry on olyl work that could not be successfully carried out by claimants acting separately. Mr. Smith said he had paid $2,200 as his share of the expense of making the filings and carrying on the prospective work.

Smith told of a meeting he had with L. R. Glavis, at that time a special agent for the Government. Cunningham brought Glavis into Smith's office after the claims had been held up. Cunningham said that Glavis wanted them to sign an affidavit setting forth that they had no intention of holding the claims for the Guggenheims.

When Glavis explained that he wanted these affidavits to clear up a belief prevalent in the land office that the claimants were working for the Guggenheims, Smith consented to sign the desired statement.

Mr. Glavis will not be called as a witness.



Importance of Correct Drilling

Emerson, the philosopher, said, "Perfection is made up of trifles, but perfection is no trifle." One of the seemingly unimportant details in making Harris Glasses is the accurate drilling of holes in lenses.

A correct eyeglass adjustment is only possible when the lenses are so drilled that they appear properly centered when in front of the eyes.

DON'T NEED NEW LAW IN 11TH AVENUE CASE

ASKS CENTRAL FOR ITS PLAN

Utilities Board Certain That Franchise Terms Can Be Reached Without Appealing to the Legislature.

The Public Service Commission sent a letter to the New York Central Railroad yesterday notifying the road of the commission's belief that the Rapid Transit act as now existing is adequate to allow the railroads to find a solution for the long-standing problem of surface tracks on Eleventh Avenue. If the Central is disposed to act under the provision which enabled the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to get a franchise to build its tunnels under the streets of Manhattan, and will make proper application to the Public Service Commission, the commission is convinced that the Eleventh Avenue situation can be cured.

Officers of the New York Central have been quoted recently as saying that the road is ready to spend $60,000,000 in removing its tracks from the surface of the streets on the west side and only awaits additional legislation before going ahead with its plans. A bill was introduced having to do with this west side situation, and was passed by the last Legislature, but it contained so many jokers that it was quickly vetoed by the Governor.

Section 23 of the Rapid Transit act empowers the Public Service Commission, with the approval of the Board of Estimate, to grant franchises to trunk line railroads to extend their lines within the City of New York. Under this section the company could obtain any kind of a franchise that the commission was disposed to grant, there being no limitation on the power bestowed in the act. Hence, a perpetual franchise, like that which the Pennsylvania Railroad obtained, or a limited term franchise reserving the right of the city to purchase after a stated period, could be granted.

Under Section 24 of the act the commission has power to grant to any company operating a railroad within New York City the right to extend its lines by either subway or elevated road, but this section allows only an indeterminate grant at an annual rental, subject to readjustment at the end of the franchise period.

Chairman Willcox of the commission sent this letter to the New York Central yesterday conveying this suggestion:

Nov. 23, 1909.

New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, New York City:

Sirs: The matter of the existence at grade of tracks of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company along the west side of Manhattan has been a serious one for many years. At various times, bills have been before the Legislature dealing specifically with this subject, but none of them has become law. The Legislature, however, did, at its last session, pass certain amendments to the Rapid Transit act, which, together with the existing provisions of that act, give to this commission very broad powers with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city, in the matter of granting franchises.

The commissionp desires to invite your attention to the provisions of the Rapid Transit act, as it now stands, and to suggest that your company make application to the commission under the provisions of that act, for the granting of a franchise along the west side of Manhattan, which shall have two objects, namely, the elimination of tracks at grade, and the furnishing of an adequate method of handling the transportation problem in that part of the city.

It has been stated in the public press that your company has plans practically completed for the engineering treatment of this problem, and that your company is prepared to spend a large sum of money in carrying out such plans. It is very possible that if you and the commission can agree upon a plan adapted to meet the various engineering requirements, and in conformity with the new law, a franchise can be granted, satisfactory both to the city and to your company, without the necessity of any additional legislation.

If the provisions of the Rapid Transit act are found to be sufficiently broad to deal with this subject, the matter of details as to plans can be handled much more satisfactorily than if attempt was made to embody matters of detail in legislation, which can not be changed without further act of the Legislature. Yours very truly,

WILLIAM R. WILLCOX, Chairman.

The Commission will be glad to confer with the New York Central in regard to the matter.

TASTE OF WINTER BRINGS DISCOMFORT

to-day. All shipping ready to sail from Hampton Roads to-day was storm-bound there. Many coasting schooners caught in the gale off the coast hurried into the Roads for shelter.

During the storm the Old Dominion steamer Mobjack and the Baltimore Steam Packet Company's steamer Virginia were in collision at the latter's wharf off Town Point, in Hampton Roads. The Mobjack's wheel was smashed and she was towed in for repairs. The Virginia's flagstaff and some of her joiner work were smashed. The severe wind is said to have bdown the Mobjack into the Virginia.

Caught in the gale off the Virginia Capes this afternoon, the tug Piedmont, from Boston, with three Consolidated Coal Company barges in tow for Baltimore, was forced to anchor two of the barges outside Hampton Roads and put in with only one. Late to-day only one of the barges was visible from Norfolk, six miles off shore, laboring heavily in seas running mountain high. The Baltimore tug Cumberland, in Hampton Roads, has been ordered to proceed to sea with the Piedmont to pick up the anchored barges, if they are able to ride out the storm.

Snow began to fall in Northern Virginia early to-day. Much of the corn crop there is still in the fields.

DAMAGE IN WEST IS HEAVY.

Oregon, Washington, and Idaho Suffer—Passengers Marooned on Trains.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 24.—The storm that has prevailed in the Pacific Northwest for two days shows no signs of abating. In Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington the rain is of secondary importance to a wind storm, which has caused considerable financial loss. So far as reported no lives have been lost. No damage to shipping is reported, except the stranding of the schooner Mary Winkleman, near Port Townsend.

In Northwestern Washington the Sooksack River, after a temporary fall yesterday, began to rise again. The ranches on the low lands are flooded and the railroads have lost a number of bridges. Train schedules are demoralized.

Along lower Puget Sound the streams are all out of their banks and flooding the lowlands and destroying bridges and railroad tracks. The Great Northern Railroad, which crosses the Cascades east of Everett, is tied up, several trains being stalled in the mountains.

In the Gray's Harbor country the greatest loss has been to logs, one raft alone, valued at $200,000, being swept out to sea. Along the bank of the Columbia River landslides have put the railroads out of business temporarily. In the Willamette Valley all rivers are torrents.

At Oregon City the water is sixty-three feet above low water mark. The locks have been closed, and all the mills shut down.

The false work to the new Southern Pacific Railroad bridge at Oswego has been torn out, and at Portland the water is over the lower docks and still rising.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 24.—A relief train bearing passengers of Great Northern No. 3, due in Seattle Monday, arrived last night. The passengers told of the havoc of the floods in the Cascade Mountains. Walking nearly a mile, climbing over rocks and temporary footbridges, they reached the relief train.

Shortly after the arrival of the train a message was received here stating that the railroad bridge over the Skyhomish River had been destroyed. The passengers of three other Great Northern trains are marooned between the Cascade tunnel and Tonga, ninety-five miles east of here. It is feared damage to the Great Northern is so great that it will take weeks to open the line.

Lawyer of 62 Takes a Young Bride.

William Henry Dodge of 147 West Forty-seventh Street, accompanied by a handsome young woman, who gave her name as Evelyn Maude Dodge of 1,468 North Redfield Street, Philadelphia, appeared in City Hall yesterday, and applied for a marriage license, naming his companion as his bride to be. Mr. Dodge gave his age as 62 years, and that of Miss Dodge as 28. He said that he was a lawyer, and his companion a housekeeper. He said they were related.

PAYING CITY LIGHT BILLS.

Costly Tangle of Several Years Nearly Straightened Out Now.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Burr, Chief Engineer Lacombe of the Bureau of Light and Gas of the Water Department, and Charles S. Hervey, Chief Statistician of the Department of Finance, who were appointed by the Controller as a committee to adjudicate the long-standing claims of various lighting companies against the city for its gas light supply, met yesterday afternoon in the Controller's office to try to expedite the payment of the bills.

Effort is being made to get this straightened out before the present administration goes out of office. Already about 80 per cent. of the bills have been paid and the companies to which the city still owes money will obtain a settlement in the very near future.

The amount involved originally was in the neighborhood of $12,000,000. The city's gas bills were first held up in 1903 by Robert Grier Monroe, who was then Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity. He maintained that the contracts had not been awarded under competitive conditions. Then came the start of the agitation to cut down the price of gas in New York City and finally the succeeding contracts were made on the basis of the prices in 1902. Edward M. Grout, as Controller, realized that the unpaid bills were amounting to a large sum in interest alone and endeavored to pay them off. He was forestalled, however, by injunctions sworn out by the Hearst agitators, and the majority of the bills for 1905-6-7-8 remained unpaid until this year.

This cost the city a great deal of money, but now the settlements are being made on the basis of the new rate of 75 cents, and in all probability the matter will be brought upto date within a few weeks.

OBJECT TO SALARY INCREASE.

Bar Association Members Urge Mayor to Oppose Higher Pay for Justices.

Mayor McClellan received a letter yesterday from the Bar Association protesting against the proposed increase in the salaries of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the city in which Justice Seabury was upheld in his contention that the action of the Board of Estimate was unconstitutional.

The Mayor declined to make the letter public on the ground that it was a personal communication. When Edmund Wetmore, President of the association, was asked about the matter he declared his willingness to have the letter published, but said he would prefer that the Mayor give it out. In the meantime the Mayor had gone to Princeton, where he will remain until the first of the week.

Mayor McClellan expressed himself earlier as doubtful as to his power under the charter to veto the resolutions granting the salary increases. There is little question, however, that this contingency will arise, it being the general impression about the City Hall that the Board of Estimate will rescind its action at the special meeting called for Monday afternoon.

May Be Ousted as Wife's Guardian.

Algernon S. Norton, special guardian of Mrs. Mary Metzger, who for some time has been in the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island, obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice McCall yesterday, directing her husband, Joseph Metzger, to show cause why he should not be removed as committee of his wife's estate. Metzger was appointed in 1908. He was directed subsequently to file an accounting, but did not do so, and Norton was made special guardian to bring proceedings against him. Norton alleges that when Metzger was appointed he came into possession of about $6,000 of his wife's money, and since then has failed to pay for her maintenance.

Protest Over City Ferry Service.

Borough President Cromwell of Richmond, with a delegation of Staten Islanders, waited on the Mayor yesterday to protest against the service on the new municipal ferry to Stapleton. The Mayor assured them that everything will be done to improve the service as soon as possible, and that the present conditions and the presence of old boats on the line were caused by the simultaneous breaking down of several of the best boats in the city's fleet.

NEW YORK TO FEAST ON 500,000 TURKEYS

Thanksgiving Dinners for All Needy Families and None to Go Hungry.

SERVICES IN THE CHURCHES

Charity Societies Will Distribute Well-Filled Baskets—Brooklyn Is Thankful Indeed.

There seemed to be a chance late last night that New York might have the old-fashioned Thanksgiving that artists like to picture on magazine covers. There was enough snow and sleet yesterday to make the city realize how uncomfortable the Puritan maidens must have felt as they trudged through the snows of New England, and the weather man promised for to-day continued cold with brisk winds and issued northwest storm warnings along the middle Atlantic and New England coasts.

However, the weather did not stop the rush of those who hurried away last night to join the circle at their old homes in the country, or those who came to New York to spend the day. They thought only of the associations of the season and hastened to make merry at one of the home-going feasts of the year.

New York laid in, it is estimated, 500,000 turkeys for the festival. The price is undeniably high this year, but if the traditional birds were not enough to go round, the economically disposed made up with chickens, young porkers, and rabbits. Cranberries are cheaper than usual, and for this small mercy housekeepers seemed to be as thankful as the day requires.

The religious celebration of the festival began yesterday. At old St. Paul's Church, Broadway and Fulton Street, an English Harvest Home service was held at noon. The St. George's Society and the British School and Universities Club and other British organizations attended, and there was a special programme of music under the direction of Edmund Jaques.

Joint Church Services.

The congregations of the Northminster and the Morningside Presbterian Churches united last night at the former church, 141 West 115th Street, in a special patriotic service. An address on "Coming Americans," illustrated by stereopticon views, was given by the Rev. Charles Stelze of the immigration department of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions.

Nearly all the churches will have their regular Thanksgiving services to-day, and congregations will be gathered at the Salvation Army Headquarters, in Fourteenth Street, at 3 and 7 P. M., if the plan of Col. William A. McIntyre is carried out. He announced yesterday that he was looking for an audience entirely composed of "gentlemen who have not only stepped off the water wagon, but have lost all hope of ever regaining a seat thereon."

With this intent he is organizing a hunt for drunkards, and will send members of the Salvation Army all over the city to try to get a representative crowd of drinkers to the hall. There he promises to confront them with men who have been in as bad condition as themselves and have been reformed. Among them he announces a resident of Elizabeth, N. J., who twenty-seven years ago lived in Hell's Kitchen He dropped in at a Salvation Army meeting one night and was converted. He is now a foreman for a sewing machine company.

Another speaker will be a woman who has a jail record of 200 convictions for drunkenness. Col. McIntyre is known in the Salvation Army as "Ten-Minute Talmage," and his aim is to win over a drunkard for every one of the 200 reformed characters he has mustered to his support.

The Salvation Army has not done much this year in preparing Thanksgiving Day baskets of food, as it is keeping its energies in reserve for Christmas. The Volunteers of America, however, will distribute a large number of dinners, which it has provided out of its regular funds without recourse to outside contributions. The baskets will be distributed from 512 West 125th Street, Manhattan, and 140 Lawrence Street, Brooklin, and each of them will contain a turkey, groceries, bread, crackers, and fruit.

Dinners for the Needy.

William J. Wollman of the firm of J. S. Bache & Co. has provided 1,000 baskets for the poor and is sending them out through nine charitable agencies. The Charity Organization Society and the St. Vincent de Paul Society have each undertaken to find 200 worthy families. The United Hebrew Charities is receiving 225 baskets, the Beth-El Sisterhood 120, the Emmanuel Sisterhood 75, and the Little Mothers' Aid Association, the Christadora House, the Widowed Mothers' Fund, and the Shearith Israel Sisterhood 50 baskets each. Each of the dinners is reckoned to be enough for a family of five and consists of a chicken, tomatoes, turnips, bread, graham biscuits, raisins, oranges, and a half pound of tea or coffee.

The Bowery Mission's mode of celebration this year is the opening for the Winter of the regular bread line distribution of rolls and coffee at 1 o'clock this morning, the giving out of baskets to poor families with enough provisions for a dinner of five at 9 o'clock, and a thanksgiving dinner for men at 7 o'clock this evening. This will be followed by the annual "family gathering," over which "Mother Bird" will preside and at which the Rev. C. H. Mead will make the address.

The Rescue Society will deliver its annual message to-night at the Doyer Street Midnight Mission to the drifters and other frequenters of Chinatown and the Bowery. A thousand will be gathered into the mission house and there furnished with a meal consisting of roast turkey and cranberry sauce, mince pie, vegetables, fruit, and tea or coffee. Late comers will also be fed, and when the roast turkey, cranberry sauce, and mince pies have all been consumed, roast chicken and ducks will be served to the homeless men and women. Corned beef and boiled ham will be the reserve dishes. Celery, apples, oranges, and bananas will be among the extras served between sundown and dawn.

Cowperthwait & Sons of 121st Street and Third Avenue and Park Row followed yesterday their old-time custom of giving to each of their employes of both establishments a Thanksgiving turkey, from their oldest employe to the newest office boy.

Feast for the Newsboys.

At the expense of the estate of the late Mrs. William Astor about 500 newsboys will have a feast at the Newsboys' Home, 14 New Chambers Street, to-night.

At the Navy Yard in Brooklyn the bluejackets, who have not received shore leave, are preparing for a feast provided by the Navy Department. The Connecticut, Ohio, Rhode Island, Nebraska, and Massachussetts, and the colliers Panther and Celtic, and the receiving ship Hancock are in port, and among them they can muster 6,000 men. Then there is the Half Moon with a complement of one.

About 2,000 of the men will have shore leave till to-morrow, but the rest expect to fare well aboard ship. The Hancock's men have arranged a big smoker with boxing, jig dancing, and other delights for to-morrow night in Saengerbund Hall, Smith Street, Brooklyn. About 1,000 sailors are expected to be present.

Brooklyn Is Thankful.

Brooklyn will have its happiest Thanksgiving Day in years. It will have many things to be thankful for, including the possession of the incoming Mayor and Controller, half the vote in the new Board of Estimate, its long-sought Fourth Avenue Subway, a "reunited and harmonious" Democracy, the promise of a real Oscar Hammerstein opera house, and an end to the long Metz-Coler war.

The day will be observed in all the churches with special thanksgiving services, and there will be dances, entertainments, family reunions, dinners for the poor, and football and other sports among the athletes. Union thanksgiving services will be held by neighboring churches in the Central Congregational, Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian, Classon Avenue Presbyterian, Grace Presbyterian, First Place Methodist Episcopal, Greene Avenue Baptist, St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal, Sixth Avenue Baptist, Central Presbyterian, United Congregational, Park Congregational, and other churches.

THANKSGIVING AT THE HOTELS.

Many Out-of-Town Visitors Here for Family Reunions.

Many out-of-town visitors will partake of turkey in the big hotels to-day. There will be many family reunions at the hotels, particularly where the parents have come from the Far South and West to spend Thanksgiving with their sons and daughters who are attending colleges and private schools in or near this city.

A children's party will be held this afternoon at the Gotham, and an old-fashioned pumpkin pie, such as mother used to bake, will be served. W. R. Wood, the proprietor, had 100 turkeys brought down from his farm near Saratoga, and they will all be served up to-day together with a special New England menu.

Among those who will eat their Thanksgiving Day turkey at the Gotham are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, Gustave Amsinck and party, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Clendenin.

Over at the St. Regis a special dinner menu has been prepared. Among those who will partake of the Thanksgiving dinner are Mr. and Mrs. George S. Dearborn, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. George W. McKintock, Count and Countess de Beauford, Sir Guy Francis Laking, and William Speer Kuhn of Pittsburg.

There will be several family reunions at the Plaza. Prominent among these will be the families of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hearn, Commander F. G. Bourne, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Knight, William Butterworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Carstairs, and Cyrus McCormick, and family of Chicago.

Scores of out-of-town folks arrived at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, among them being the Misses Taggart of Indianapolis, Mrs. Joseph E. Widener, Mrs. Albert Pancoost, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Disston of Philadelphia, L. H. Armour and Miss Mary A. Armour of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Mann of Troy, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Brent Keyser of Baltimore.

Souvenirs, fashioned like turkeys, will be given at the Thanksgiving dinner at the Belmont. Among the families represented are those of Charles Steinway, W. W. Cole, H. G. Campbell, Mrs. E. M. Davis, Guy Phelps Dodge, C. A. Willetts, and L. E. Fuller.

Bayard W. Livingstone, James Pass, and Mr. and Mrs. George Chaboon will entertain at dinner to-day at the Manhattan.

Notable among the Thanksgiving diners at the Astor will be Mr. and Mrs. John D. Green of Albany, Dr. C. A. Stickel of Stuttgart, Mrs. L. Lefkovits and daughter of Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moody of Chicago.

Special menus have also been prepared for the day at the Netherland, Savoy, and Knickerbocker.

MONSTER 'POSSUM FOR TAFT.

Added to Enormous Turkey and 50-Pound Pie for Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—With the fifty-pound mince pie presented by the bakers of New York, an enormous turkey sent by Henry Vose of Westerly, R. I., and a twenty-six-pound 'possum, reputed to be the largest that ever came out of Georgia, President Taft will be confronted, gastronomically speaking, with rather an exacting Thanksgiving Day. The President is said to have ruled that his military aid, Capt. Archibald W. Butt, shall assist in eating the pie, and Capt. Butt is now trying to have the order amended to bring the General Staff to his assistance.

All the President's family with the exception of his son Robert, who remains in New Haven, will dine with him in the White House.

In the morning President Taft, Vice President Sherman, and most of the members of the Cabinet will attend a pan-American Thanksgiving service in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church. Cardinal Gibbons and Mgr. Falconio, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, will be present. A luncheon will follow, at which many of the Ministers of the Latin-American countries will be present. President Taft will be the guest of honor.

THEY GET NO TURKEY.

Thanksgiving Dinners Sent Out by Day Nursery Substitute Chicken.

There was much bustle at the Little Missionaries' Day Nursery, 93 St. Mark's place, last night, for between 900 and 1,000 baskets containing Thanksgiving dinners for families averaging five to eight members each, were sent out, or were called for by those for whom they were intended. Last year nearly 700 dinners were given away, but last night saw the biggest free distribution of dinners which the nursery has managed since its organization in 1896 by Miss Sara Curry.

Each basket contained potatoes, turnips, cabbage, onions, rice, coffee, tea, milk, sugar, besides pies, canned soups and vegetables of other kinds, as well as a whole chicken, the size of the latter depending upon the number of persons in the family for whom the basket was intended.

The Day Nursery is a private charity supported entirely by voluntary subscriptions, and about 150 children are cared for daily while their mothers work. In addition, Miss Curry the manager, makes about forty calls a day to families in the neighborhood where there is sickness or poverty. Cooking classes, clubs, and mothers' meetings are a part of the routine of the nursery.

CELEBRATION IN PARIS.

Thanksgiving Eve Banquet of American Club a Brilliant Affair.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Thanksgiving Eve banquet of the American Club to-night was an exceptionally brilliant affair. Two hundred members and guests gathered at the Hotel Palais d'Orsay and after the dinner, at which American turkey and pumpkin pie were the features, there were appropriate Thanksgiving speeches. Prominent among the guests were Georges Lecomte, Prof. Bliss Perry of Harvard, Baron D'Estournelles de Constant, and Frank Mason, the American Consul General.

M. Lecomte paid a notable tribute to American prosperity and literature, as well as to American optimism, which kept always looking to the future in the development of that great country.

Jury Exonerates Mrs. Machlett.

In the second trial of the suit for divorce brought by Julius E. Machlett, secretary and manager of a paper box company, against Mrs. Lulu C. Machlett, a jury before Supreme Court Justice Platzek brought in a verdict yesterday exonerating Mrs. Machlett. He accused his wife of misconduct with Johannas Bruening, a violinist. [illegible] denied the allegations. The Machletts have been married twenty-one years. The first trial resulted in a disagreement.

Ellis Island Employes Organize.

At a meeting of Government employes yesterday on Ellis Island the organization as a branch of the United States Civil Service Retirement Association was perfected. Some 300 employes were present, the Custom Service and Post Office being represented. The new organization is said to have the support of Washington, and it is expected that all the employes on Ellis Island will be enrolled before the end of the year.

SEEK THIRD PERSON IN GLOVER MYSTERY

Police Accept Neither Dying Man's Charge Against Girl Nor Her Suicide Story.

SHE IS ACCUSED OF MURDER

Widow of Slain Waltham Man Watched by Police and Told Not to Leave Her Home.

WALTHAM, Mass., Nov. 24.—Unable to place credence in the ante-mortem statement of Clarence F. Glover that he was shot by Miss Hattie Le Blanc on Saturday night, or to believe the story of the Le Blanc girl that Glover committed suicide, the Waltham police to-day conducted their investigation of the mystery on the theory that a third person will be able to furnish a satisfactory solution.

Mrs. Glover, the widow of the victim of the shooting, is keeping closely in her home on Main Street. The house is guarded by the police, and Mrs. Glover has been notified that she must not leave without their permission under threat of arrest.

To-night Mrs. Glover was taken from her home to the police station, following the arrival here of State Officer Burns to co-operate with the local police. She was questioned for two hours. It was the first extended interview which the police have had with her. Shortly after Mrs. Glover was sent home, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Freeman, friends of Mrs. Glover, were called and submitted to an examination. The police said that they had learned nothing new of importance.

Mrs. Glover did not go in to see her husband when he was dying, although he asked that she be brought to his bedside. She told the police last night that she had no idea that the Le Blanc girl, who was found hidden in a closet at her home, had been at her house since the shooting.

The authorities expressed the opinion to-day that the Le Blanc girl will later alter the story she told them last night, and they believe that she will be able to tell them some facts regarding a third person concerned in the shooting. They also look to Mrs. Glover to give them information eventually that will throw light upon the identity of the third person, who, the police are convinced, played a prominent part in the case.

The suicide story told by the prisoner is not seriously considered by the police, inasmuch as one of the wounds was in the back, and could not have been self-inflicted.

Glover's will, filed for probate at East Cambridge late to-day, leaves the greater part of his estate in trust for his widow.

Only court counsel and police were present when Miss Le Blanc was brought into the Waltham District Court to-day and formally charged with causing the death of Glover. The young woman was held without bail for a continued hearing on Dec. 8. She was not called upon to plead to the complaint.

On her own statement that she is but 16 years of age, the girl had a hearing in the Juvenile Court, and, as is always the case in this court, the proceedings were conducted with the strictest privacy.

When she was brought into the Court House from the police station the girl presented a pitiful spectacle. She was dressed in a green suit and wore a thick green veil, which hid her face, but her figure seemed to be that of a mere child. She showed extreme nervousness and appeared to be very weak.

The finding of Miss Le Blanc last night in the home of the man she is charged with killing added to the sensational features of the murder. The Glover house had been searched twice before. Miss Le Blanc said, and her appearance corroborated her tale, that she had been in the Glover home without food since Saturday night.

Throughout her examination by the police last night Miss Le Blanc maintained that she did not shoot Glover. She said that she had met him at his laundry by appointment, and that after he had attacked her and produced a revolver she fled, hearing shots as she was escaping by a window.

TURKEY HIGH IN CHICAGO.

Material for Thanksgiving Dinner That Cost $1.95 in 1899 Up to $4.25.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The price of Thanksgiving turkey in Chicago has again advanced. In 1907 it could be bought for 25 cents a pound, in 1908 it climbed a little higher, selling at 26 and 27 cents. This year it will cost from 28 to 30 cents a pound.

Ten years ago a Chicago department store advertised the following bill of fare for $1.95:

Nine-pound turkey.
Enough plum pudding for four.
Mincemeat enough for three pies.
Bunch of celery.
Turkey seasoning.
Pound of parsley.
Quart of cranberries.
Pound mixed nuts.
Three pounds of sweet potatoes.

The same bill of fare this year will cost $4.25.

Vegetables, however, are much cheaper than they have been in past years. This year cranberries can be had for $7 a barrel. Last year people who wanted a barrel of them paid $12.

LYNCH NEGRO IN ALABAMA.

Promptly Caught, Shot, and Body Burned After Attack on Woman.

ANNISTON, Ala., Nov. 24.—Ray Rolston, a negro, was riddled with shot, and his body burned yesterday by a posse of citizens. He had assaulted Mrs. W. C. Cheatwood, wife of a farmer, near Edwardsville. Her condition is critical.

According to reports received here the negro went to the Cheatwood home, and, battering down the door, seized Cheatwood, saying, "We've got you now, and we're going to kill you." Cheatwood escaped and fled through the woods to arouse his neighbors. While the husband was absent Rolston attacked Mrs. Cheatwood, dragging his victim by her hair to the woods near by and beating her over the head with sticks and rocks. Mrs. Cheatwood afterward crawled back to the house.

A posse found the negro asleep in the woods, and vengeance was summary.

Cheatwood's three small children fled from the house when the negro entered. It had been raining and was cold, and they were in an exhausted condition when found several hours later.

Interborough Settles Damage Suits.

Just before the damage suits brought in the Supreme Court against the Interborough Rapid Transit Company by two of its employes for personal injuries were called for trial yesterday, the company settled. Thomas J. Nolan, a switchman, who lost a leg when a derrick car on which he was riding struck the bridge over the Thirty-third Street station on the Sixth Avenue line, will get $10,000. Martin Costello, a laborer, whose left leg was broken in the same accident, will receive $5,500. The accident occurred on Nov. 18, 1908.

WANTS PERKINS TO TESTIFY.

Independent Telephone Stockholders' Lawyer Says Trust Is Getting Control.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—Following the institution of injunction suits in St. Louis and Cleveland to prevent the dissolution of the voting trust agreement, under which the United States Telephone Company and the Cleveland, Indianapolis and Toledo Telephone Company are prohibited from merging with any other corporation, S. B. Jeffries, counsel for the minority stockholders of those corporations, announced to-day that he would apply to the St. Louis Circuit Court for the appointment of a commissioner to take the testimony of George W. Perkins, a member of the banking house of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Theodore Vail, President of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company; R. W. Day, Edward Hall, United States Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts, representatives of the New York banking firm of Harvey Fisk & Sons, and others identified with the new telephone and telegraph merger also may be summoned.

The testimony of these men, according to Mr. Jeffries, is expected to show that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has obtained control of the four independent companies, which operate chiefly in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan.

Mr. Jeffries is preparing a communication to the Attorney General of Ohio calling attention to the alleged merger and asking that proceedings be filed against the American Telephone and Telegraph Company under the laws of that State.

"We have already ascertained that Wall Street brokers have been quietly buying the voting certificates of the independent telephone companies," said Mr. Jeffries. "The certificates are held by the Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis and the Cleveland Trust Company as Trustees for the stockholders, and they have been joined as defendants in the injunction proceedings."

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The Supreme Court jury in the case of Charles M. Lane against the Directors of the United States Telephone Company this afternoon brought in a verdict as follows:

"There is no cause of action against defendants George Eastman, Hendrick Holden, James S. Watson, H. W. Sibley, or Henry A. Strong, and the jury is not able to agree as to defendants Thomas W. Finucane, Eugene Satterlee, Albert O. Fenn, and William H. Page."

The case is a test one, thirty other cases, involving $2,000,000, being affected. Lane sued for $4,000, which he said he invested in stock and bonds owing to fraudulent representations.

WORK FOR CIVIC CONGRESS.

It Will Take Up Many Deep Problems When It Meets Here.

The National Civic Congress, which has been called by the American Civic Alliance and a Committee of One Hundred, will convene in New York on Dec. 8, 9, and 10, concluding with a dinner at the Hotel Astor.

"This congress is called to consider and devise a means for co-ordinating our numerous civic activities throughout the country," says an advance notice sent out about it, "and also to consider and devise a more effective method for the study and solution of our fundamental political problems."

The National Civic Congress will meet in the Metropolitan Temple and at Carnegie Hall. The sessions of the first two days will be executive, and only members with the proper credentials will have the right to take part. The meetings of Dec. 10 will be open to the public.

The President of the American Civic Alliance is A. Lafayette-Savay, who is written down in "Who's Who in New York" as a Count, though he denies it stoutly, saying that the misapprehension arose because some women who wished to make social capital out of him introduced him thus.

It is understood that at the coming congress, which is the first National assembly called by the American Civic Alliance, Mr. Lafayette-Savay will resign the Presidency and take up again his full practice of law, which has not had all of his attention since he began working up the Civic Alliance nearly a year ago.

BARNEY ESTATE SUES.

Wants Half the Profits Made in a Hoyt Realty Deal, Alleging Partnership

The estate of Charles T. Barney has brought an action in the Supreme Court against the estate of Alfred M. Hoyt to establish a half interest in the property bounded by Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh Streets, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue. The Barney executors allege that in May, 1890, Mr. Barney entered into an agreement with Mr. Hoyt whereby thoy were to purchase the block. Some $750,000, it is alleged, was advanced for this purpose by Mr. Hoyt, it being understood that Mr. Barney was to pay up his half of the money as partner in the venture within three years.

It is alleged that Mr. Barney failed to do this, and Mr. Hoyt "carried" the property for some time. Finally the Hoyt estate organized a company to erect the Belnord apartments on the site. This was done and it is understood that the profit on the enterprise is ahead about $474,000.

The Barney estate, after a lapse of nineteen years, now claims a half interest, or $237,000, alleging a partnership in the venture on the strength of the agreement between Mr. Barney and Mr. Hoyt. It is understood that the Barney estate contends that Mr. Hoyt extended Mr. Barney's time limit for payment. The Hoyt estate replies that Mr. Barney never paid his share, even if such extension of time was agreed to.

Yesterday the Barney estate made application to examine, previous to trial, the executors of the Hoyt estate—Henry R. Hoyt, John S. Hoyt, and two others. Decision was reserved.

GRIDLEY TABLET UNVEILED.

Memory of Dewey's Flag Officer Honored at Naval Academy.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—The memory of the late Capt. Charles W. Gridley, who was Admiral Dewey's flag officer aboard the cruiser Olympia at the battle of Manila Bay in 1898, was honored at the Naval Academy to-day when a bronze tablet was unveiled. The tablet has been placed on a wall of Memorial Room in Bancroft Hall. The funds for it were procured by popular subscription through the instrumentality of Mrs. Allyn Capron of Washington, widow of Gen. Capron of the army, who was killed in the land battle at Santiago.

Miss Charlotte Gridley pulled the cord that released the flag with which the tablet was draped, after which Commander George R. Clark, head of the department of modern languages at the Naval Academy, delivered an address in presenting the tablet. The acceptance in behalf of the Government was by Capt. John M. Bowyer, Superintendent of the Academy.

RECLAMATION ACT TO STAND.

Senate Committee Finds It Impracticable to Amend It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—After a trip of fifty days during which practically all the Government reclamation projects were inspected, the Senate Committee on Irrigation has come to the conclusion that it is impracticable to make any modification in the reclamation act without the risk of losing many of its present advantages.

While the committee's report will not be ready for some time, the expressed opinion of the Senators during the inspectio ntrip was to that effect, according to Director F. H. Newell of the Reclamation Service, who has returned from the trip with the committee.

The sentiment to expedite the work by the issue of bonds or other interest-bearing obligations if necessary is unanimous in the committee, and the Senators are said to stand together on the demand that every dollar that has been spent by the Government in the work of reclamation must be refunded. It is considered impossible to amend the system for repayment provided in the law.

150 BODIES PILED UP IN MINE AT CHERRY

Men Died Together on a Ridge Where They Made Their Last Stand.

TWENTY ARE STILL MISSING

Fire Starts Again, Preventing Recovery of the Dead—Shaft May Be Sealed for Weeks.

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 24.—After more than 150 bodies had been discovered in the St. Paul Mine to-day efforts to carry them to the surface were abandoned temporarily while an effort was made to check a fire which again threatened the main shaft. If the efforts to control the fire are not successful to-morrow it is probable that the mine again will be sealed and will remain so for weeks.

That no men survive in the mine now is generally conceded. The only part of the mine as yet unexplored and in which living men possibly could be found is the east working of the second vein, at the entrance of which fire is burning fiercely.

It is now believed that all but a score of the missing men have been accounted for.

The bodies were found to-day in the lowest level, 500 feet from the main shaft, on an elevated surface where the men had retreated before the advancing water and the black damp. They died after a struggle that may have continued for two days.

Messages scrawled on wood and the natural slate cropping from the walls placed the number of dead at 160 or 168. One message read: "We are all here to die together."

This is accepted by mine officials as indicating that many men whose escape from the second vein had been cut off by fire had descended to the lowest level and that only about twenty bodies will be found in other sections of the mine.

To take out the bodies to-day a skiff was brought from the Illinois River seven miles away. When the fire has been checked the skiff will be lowered 560 feet to the vein in which the bodies were found. It will be rowed across the four feet of water in the vein to the spot where the bodies lie, and they will be transported to the main shaft for removal to the surface.

The exploring party of four, led by Anton Lodiycieni, was in the gallery for more than an hour before the bodies were found. The men waded in water waist deep, through the circular tunnel, making their way toward the elevation of the shaft or "ridge" where they had expected to find the men, living or dead. The signals given by the rescuers and the usual cry, "Anybody alive in here?" were not answered.

"When we climbed up on the ridge," said Lodiycieni, "we almost stepped upon the bodies, piled up on top of each other in heaps. Some had their heads rested on folded arms as if sleeping. Others were lying across each other, and some were sitting as if resting against the wall.

"Nailed to the wall were two fans, made of timbering tied about pick handles. Under the fans the largest heaps of bodies were found.

"One man had his hand up holding the fan. I think he died as he was turning it. Another had a bucket in his hand. He was flat on his back, and must have died as he climbed up on the ridge. The bucket was half filled with black water that he must have gone some distance to get.

"The black damp surely killed them long before the water reached them. We were in the shaft more than an hour, and though the air was fairly good, we knew it was time for us to get out."

Many of the former workers in the mine protest angrily that the men would have been safe from the deadly gas had not the ventilating fan of the mine been reversed shortly after the discovery of fire.

AS TO ROOSEVELT'S FUTURE.

Declined to Run for Mayor, Parsons Says—Nor Did He Want to be Senator.

Following the admission by Republican State Chairman Woodruff that Theodore Roosevelt was in the mind of some of the Republican leaders as a prospective nominee for Governor, President Herbert Parsons of the Republican County Committee told yesterday how he had asked the former President to become his party's nominee for Mayor this Fall, prior to Mr. Roosevelt's departure for the African hunting grounds.

"Mr. Roosevelt declined to run," said Mr. Parsons. "He has every desire and intention to be as useful as he can to State and Nation as a private citizen. But he felt that after the seven years of hard work he had just put in in the White House we had no right to draft him into the public service again, especially into an office that requires so much hard work and painstaking detail as does that of Mayor of New York City."

"Do you believe Mr. Roosevelt could be induced to become the Republican candidate for Governor next Fall?" Mr. Parsons was asked.

"I did not ask him," was the reply. "I would say further that when I talked with Col. Roosevelt he had no intention of becoming a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Depew."

AS TO EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

Commission Hears the Views of British Witnesses and Samuel Gompers.

The commission which is investigating the question of employers' liability heard yesterday from A. H. Gill, M. P.; J. R. Clynes, Secretary of the Gas Workers' and General Laborers' Unions of Great Britain, and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor. The subject of the discussion by these three witnesses was "The Employers' Liability Act of Great Britain," which goes under the title on that side of the Workingmen's Compensation act, and provides a fixed compensation not to exceed one-half the wages paid in case of any accident without regard for the placing of the blame therefor.

Mr. Gill said he believed that the working of the British act was generally satisfactory, and that unions and employers alike were inclined to favor it. He described a plan of weekly payments in the compensation for injury except where a workman is incapacitated for the work in which he has been engaged and desires to enter another business. In this case the man receives a lump sum.

Mr. Gill said that the workman who chose to go into court and take his chances under the Employers' Liability act could have the privilege, in case he lost, of taking up his case also under the Workmen's Compensation act, but in such an event he would have to pay the costs of the trial.

Mr. Clynes, whose organization represents 40,000 workmen, explained that the basis of compensation under the British act was inability to earn wages rather than suffering occasioned by accident. He believed that the act had operated greatly to decrease litigation over accidents, and was in favor of it as he had observed it in actual practice. It appeared from Mr. Clynes's testimony that $2,000 was the amount generally awarded by juries for death when suit was brought under the common law or Employers' Liability act. Assemblyman Phillips, who is a member of the commission, remarked that the general award was $5,000 over here.

"Well," said the witness, "it costs more to live over here, and so, I suppose, it costs more to die."

Mr. Gompers expressed his approval of the compensation act, but opposed the suggestion by Joseph Cotton, Jr., counsel for the commission, as to mutual contributions by employers and employed toward an accident fund. Mr. Gompers said that American workmen did not receive such high wages that they should be compelled to contribute to a special fund of this kind, and he voiced again his belief that employers should be held criminally liable for any negligence on their part as the result of which workingmen were injured.

SUGAR MEN MUST FACE TRIAL.

Judge Hough Dismisses Motion to Quash Indictments Against Them.

The indicted ex-employes of the American Sugar Refining Company who are accused of complicity in the customs frauds for which the Sugar Trust has already paid $2,000,000 to the Government, will have to go on trial next Monday, according to schedule.

Judge Hough, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday denied the motion to quash the indictment against James F. Bendernagel and dismissed the demurrer filed on behalf of Oliver Spitzer. Bendernagel until a few weeks ago was Superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery of the Sugar Trust, and Spitzer, up to the time of his indictment nearly a year ago, was foreman of the Havemeyer & Elder dock, in Williamsburg.

At the hearing yesterday Lawyer Henry F. Cochrane asked to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury that indicted Bendernagel on the ground that the evidence he gave in common with the other defendants before the Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn had been used against them in violation of their constitutional privilege. Assistant Attorney General Frankfurter, on behalf of the Government, opposed the motion and denied that any of the statements made by the men before the Brooklyn Grand Jury had been used against them. Judge Hough remarked he did not think the testimony before the Grand Jury entitled the men to immunity, and accordingly dismissed the motion. He rendered decision at the same time on the Spitzer demurrer, which was argued some weeks ago.

Collector Loeb, who returned from Washington yesterday, denied positively that Richard Parr, who was active in unearthing the sugar frauds, was slated to succeed Gen. James L. Clarkson as Surveyor of the Port. Neither Parr nor George W. Aldridge of Rochester, the up-State Republican politician, was being considered, the Collector said. It is understood that no additional removals from the Custom Service will be made for several days on account of the time required to select proper men from the civil service list to replace those who have gone and those who are listed to go. Mr. Loeb would not discuss his conference at Washington.

The Bronx Grand Concourse Starts Its Career Under Stress of Weather.

Borough President John F. Murray of the Bronx officially opened to the public the new Grand Boulevard and Concourse yesterday afternoon in the presence of about seventy-five borough officials and prominent residents.

The exercises, planned to be very simple originally, had to be curtailed on account of the discomfort entailed on the spectators by the severe weather. From the steps of the pedestal of the monument to be erected to Louis J. Heintz, originator of the plans for the roadway, the Borough President, Borough President-elect Cyrus C. Miller, and former Borough President Louis F. Haffen delivered short addresses outlining the history of the work, which the latter said was first thought of in 1890, and speculating enthusiastically on the benefits of the new road would bring to the Bronx. After the exercises the entire party was taken in automobiles over the length of the new roadway.

The Grand Boulevard and Concourse is a thoroughfare four and a half miles long designed to connect the Bronx park systems with those in Manhattan. It passes over the highest and most beautiful section of the borough, beginning at 161st Street and ending at Mosholu Parkway, where the latter joins Van Cortlandt and Bronx Parks. It is 182 feet wide throughout its length. It has cost in construction, aside from that of nine transverse sunken roads which will greatly augment it, $1,049,609.

MRS. TEAL LEAVES PRISON.

Her Bail Until the New Trial Is Set at $1,000.

When word came on Tuesday from the Court of Appeals in Albany that Mrs. Ben Teal, wife of the stage manager, was to have a new trial, it found her too ill to appear before Judge Swann and claim her release on bail. This was fixed at $1,000, however, and the certificate of discharge was placed in the hands of her counsel, Maurice B. Blumenthal. Accompanied by her doctor, Mrs. Teal left the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island yesterday afternoon and went to her apartment at Ninety-fifth Street and Broadway.

She has suffered from nervous prostration since her conviction last March of subornation of perjury. It was charged that she had tried to induce Mabel MacCauslan, a girl in a millinery store, to swear that she once found Frank Gould in the apartment of Bessie Devoe, an actress.

Bessie Devoe Not a Co-Respondent.

A dispatch printed in THE TIMES yesterday from Albany relating to the Mrs. Ben Teal case said that Bessie Devoe had been named as co-respondent in the Frank Gould divorce suit. That was an error; Bessie Devoe was not named as co-respondent in that case. The dispatch told of the reversal by the Court of Appeals of the verdict of the lower court, according to which Mrs. Ben Teal was sentenced to one year's imprisonment on the charge of subornation of perjury in the case.

Frenchman and His Wife Objected When the Simians Began Biting and Scratching.

SUE EMPLOYER FOR $2,300

Want to Go Back to Paris, Now That Mme. Abreu Won't Take Them to Cuba.

Mme. Rosianna Abreu, a Cuban woman, who came here recently from France with two monkeys, three dogs, several servants, and a few vanloads of trunks, is being sued by two members of her entourage for $2,300, and when the case comes up in the Supreme Court the conduct of the monkeys will play a prominent part.

The suit has been brought against Mme. Abreu on behalf of Jean Huss and his wife, who were hired in Paris a few months ago to accompany her to Havana, where Jean was to be her butler and his wife was to cook in the palatial Abreu home.

But the Husses have changed their minds about going to Cuba. They want to get back to Paris, and are anxious for their damage suit against Mme. Abreu to be pushed along on the calendar. Mrs. Huss alleges many uncomplimentary things against Mme. Abreu's monkeys in her complaint. She says among other things that one of the monkeys bit and scratched her severely a few days ago at the Earl apartments, in Waverley Place, where Mme. Abreu and her entourage went after leaving the steamship Oceanic, which brought the party here from Cherbourg.

Huss and his wife say that while Mme. Abreu was in Paris late in the Summer she employed them. They have a contract signed by her by which they were to be in her service for two years at an annual wage of $1,440 for both. Mme. Abreu, they say, told them of the ideal climate of Cuba and of her palatial home there, where she has a private zoo, with lions and tigers and other beasts of the jungle.

Huss and his wife say they knew nothing at that time of any monkeys, but that a few days after they were employed Mme. Abreu introduced them, not only to two valuable monkeys which she had procured in Australia, but to three large dogs, which they were told they would have to care for until Cuba was reached. This did not appeal strongly to them, but they began, they say, to play nurse to the monkeys and the dogs, took them out for an airing every clear day, and in other ways looked out for their comfort. They say it was sometimes difficult on shipboard to make the monkeys behave.

But New York was reached in safety, and the Husses believed that their troubles were nearly over. When Mme. Abreu took apartments at the Earl the monkeys and dogs were quartered there also. The servants were instructed, so they say, to spend most of their time with the monkeys. But one day the Simians, bored with indoor life, attacked Mrs. Huss, she says, biting and scratching her arms.

According to their story, the Huses told Mme. Abreu that they did not care to remain longer as "monkey nurses," whereupon Mme. Abreu dismissed them. They then sought a lawyer and brought suit for $2,300 in Part II., Special Term of the Supreme Court. They got a summons for Mme. Abreu to appear in court and answer the claim against her, but she did not appear. Last Saturday one of the Deputy Sheriffs accompanied the Husses to the Earl and notified Mme. Abreu that she was under arrest for contempt of court. She at once gave a cash bail bond for $2,300, the amount of the claim. This was later changed to a surety bond by her lawyers.

HANDING OUT ICE TRUST IDEAS

Witness Admits He Got His Views of the Business from President Oler.

That the Maine icefields were abandoned by the American Ice Company because they were unprofitable and not to close them to the markets of the world, was contended by the defense yesterday in the trial of that corporation before Supreme Court Justice Wheeler for violation of the Anti-Monopoly act.

Isaiah K. Stetson, a Bangor ice dealer, described the growth of artificial ice production in the South as the chief reason for the decay which has spread over the Maine fields. He said that he had formed his ideas from talking with other men, and he admitted on cross-examination that his latest informant was President Oler of the American.

In reference to the two boats in the hire of the American which went up the Hudson in the Spring of 1900 to the destruction of the independent harvests, Capt. Gage of the smaller boat testified yesterday that their instructions had covered only the smashing of the ice gorges. He admitted to Prosecutor Osborne that the larger boat was made of wood and was the oldest boat of its kind in the world in active service.

INSTRUCTORS FOR THE TRADES

New Course at Teachers' College for the Industrial Arts.

There has been established at Teachers' College a course for the training of teachers in the industrial arts. Designed for young men with technical ability, the new course has been instituted to satisfy the demand for teachers in trades like woodworking and machine shop working.

A three-year night course leads to a diploma as teacher of industrial arts. The subjects taught include mathematics, drafting, design, woodworking, machine shop work, and industrial chemistry.

Mechanics not otherwise fully equipped for the teaching profession will have an opportunity to qualify therefor by pursuing the course of study as planned.

One Thousand Columbia Students Petition the Trustees.

A petition containing 1,000 names will be presented to the Trustees of Columbia University at their December meeting requesting the appointment of Prof. J. Howard Van Amringe as Dean Emeritus, when he retires next June, after fifty years of service to the university.

These 1,000 friends of Dean Van Amringe have signed their names to parchment rolls which eventually will be presented to "Van Am" as a token of the esteem in which he is held by Columbia men.

The names will also be attached to a resolution, a parchment done in colors, which will be framed and hung in the Earl Hall trophy room.

No Alimony for Mrs. George Archer.

In a recent report in THE TIMES it was erroneously stated that the court had granted $40 a week alimony to Mrs. Margaret E. Archer of 169th Street and Jerome Avenue, who is suing for a separation from her husband, George Archer. The motion for alimony came up before Justice McCall, but was dismissed on the ground that insufficient notice had been given to Archer. The court also decided that certain parts of Mrs. Archer's complaint must be stricken out as irrelevant.

Talks on Teeth

BY

G. Gordon Martin

(Incorporated)

About "Tooth Carpenters"

How many of you who may read this have at some time or another been the victim of a "Tooth Carpenter"?

There are some lucky people who get into good hands, gentle, sympathetic hands, who, along with goodness, gentleness and sympathy, were possessed of skill of a high order.

But the percentage is small.

Most of them (the Tooth Carpenters) begin hunting around to see how many teeth they can saw off, to make room for a "bridge," and generally they find a plenty.

What matter if the teeth are sound—away they go—and once gone, gone forever.

Down in Hammond, Ind., is a well-known and successful physician, Dr. J. F. Jones, who was particularly unfortunate in his selection of dentists, it appears, until his attention was called to our Martinolar Method. He came to us, as a last resort, and frankly told us he had little faith.

READ THIS LETTER FROM DR. JONES:

"Hammond, Ind.

"G. Gordon Martin, Inc.:

"Gentlemen—An unsolicited testimonial from one who has always felt that testimonials were too easily secured by those who were inclined to impose upon the credulous, will at least be appreciated by you, as my intention is simply to advise you what I think of the work which you have done for me and the manner in which you have handled my case.

"Incompetent dentists with the ever-present and almost insatiate desire to dig holes into my teeth, saw them off or put caps on them, had not caused me to look extra favorably upon the dentist as one knows him, generally speaking, for at an age when my teeth should have been perfect I had lost at least six teeth which were solid and in perfect condition because dentists had SAWED THEM OFF to make bridges which were unsatisfactory, which became a lever upon the teeth solid in the jaw to begin with, and which left me two teeth short with each change of dentists. This continued until I had practically no teeth at all in my upper jaw (only three).

"I have had a set of 'MARTINOLAR' Teeth put in by you and have forgotten all of my teeth troubles, for the upper set fits as nicely and is as satisfactory as any teeth possibly could be, not to be your own natural teeth, and is so perfect that they cause not the least worry at all. I eat everything just as I could when a boy, and assure you that my satisfaction is far greater than I can possibly express by words or on paper.

"Kindly believe me when I say that it will be a pleasure should I at any time be able to satisfy one who is inquiring as to my belief in the stability and perfection of your work, not only from the dentists' standpoint, but from the standpoint of him who suffers from imperfect teeth. Yours very truly,

(Signed) "J. F. JONES, M. D."

You have nobody to blame but yourself if you don't at least let us make a free examination of your teeth.

We are teeth savers, and set a high value on nature's teeth. Where they are missing we put others in their place that are as near the real thing as it is possible to imagine.

Our handsomely illustrated book, the Martinolar Method, 40 pages of help for toothless people, and for those who have suffered through poor dentistry, is yours for the simple request.

SCHOOLS MAY HAVE THEIR OWN FOOTBALL

Committee to Which the Game's Fate Is Referred Will Submit New Rules to Board.

FINAL ACTION PUT OVER

Friends of the Sport in Board of Education Secure Postponement of Vote for Two Weeks.

While the fate of football in the public schools was not decided yesterday afternoon by the Board of Education, it became evident at the meeting that a strong element had resolved to save the game to the schools by every possible means, even to the extent of having the board itself frame the rules.

From the day that the Board of Superintendents, following the death of Cadet Byrne at West Point, adopted a resolution asking for the elimination of football from the schools, Commissioner James E. Sullivan and Gen. Wingate, Chairman of the Board of Education's Committee on Athletic Fields, set to work to win friends in the board for the game. Yesterday the board agreed to let the matter lie over until the next meeting.

Commissioner Sullivan asked twenty members for a postponement. When the matter was reached on the calendar, he was able to announce that nineteen out of the twenty agreed to a postponement. President Winthrop informed him that he needed the consent of but six members, but Mr. Sullivan said he wanted to be on the safe side. It is the hope of the friends of the game, and of the high school boys themselves, that the sentiment against the game will have subsided considerably in another two weeks.

Commissioner Sullivan followed up his victory yesterday in the board by obtaining the consent of Chairman C. J. Sullivan of the High School Committee, to whom the Board of Superintendent's recommendation would ordinarily go, to have it referred to the Committee on Athletic Fields. It is understood that if this had not been done the latter committee would have presented a revised set of rules for the game to the board as a substitute for the Superintendents' recommendation.

It is believed now that Gen. Wingate's committee will spend much of the next two weeks in a revision of the present rules, so as to eliminate mass play.

Commissioner Sullivan said yesterday: "Football ought not to be abolished from the schools and I am determined to do everything in my power to keep it there. Every member of the Athletic Fields Committee is heartily in favor of retaining it."

He thought the rules could be revised to make the game safe.

JERSEY GIVING UP THE GAME.

Appeals of Parents Lead to the Cancelling of School Matches.

Appeals from the parents of pupils in various educational institutions of the Oranges, in New Jersey, have resulted in the cancellation by several schools of the few games of football that remained for this season. The death of Albert P. Wibiralske, the West Orange High School student, whose neck was broken in a game last Friday between the High School team and the Trinity Chapel eleven of New York, was the cause of the appeals.

Carteret Academy has cancelled two games of the first and second elevens, and the Choir Athletic League of the Oranges has also abandoned the game at the instance of the Rev. Charles T. Walkley, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, the Supervisor of the league. With the death of Wibiralske the pupils of the High School voluntarily gave up the games scheduled for the balance of the season.

The winner of the pennant in the Choir League is undetermined now, as both Grace Church and Christ Church have won seven out of eight games.

The school game of the season is to be played in East Orange, however, to-day, when the East Orange High School and the Newark High School will play for the championship of Northern New Jersey. The city authorities objected to the playing of the game during the time when people would be at church services, and it is therefore called for noon.

WOULD SAVE FOOTBALL.

Coaches and Educators in Washington Think Slight Changes Will Serve.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Football experts and educators of the District of Columbia met in District Commissioner Macfarland's office this afternoon and unanimously decided that there was too much good in football for it to be throuwn out altogether. The consensus was that the game could be modified slightly and preserved almost in its present form. The meeting was attended by Thomas Kirby, coach at Georgetown University; S. M. Whiting, coach of the Western High School; "Jack" Gass of Lehigh University, who is referee in most of the big games on the local gridiron, and others. Commissioner Macfarland presided. Mr. Kirby will be sent to represent Washington at the coming meeting of the Football Rules Committee in New York.

Thomas Rice said that the fatalities charged to football during the past season had been greatly exaggerated by the press. "I have been connected with the game in different capacities for fifteen years," he said, "and young Christian was the first man I have ever seen fatally injured. Football is no more dangerous than other games, and whether the rules are revised or not will be just as likely to result fatally in some cases as it does now. What has accentuated to an exaggerated degree the dangers of the game is the fact that two accidents of this season have occurred at the Military and Naval Academies."

Percival Hall, representing Gallaudet Institute, said he thought the game could be amended so that its valuable developing features need not be decreased. Thomas Kirby, representing Georgetown University and delegated to attend the meeting by Father Himmel, President of that institution, said that he thought the most needed change in the game was the shortening of the periods of play. "Men out of breath in a game of football are constantly in jeopardy, as half of the time they have not enough energy to protect themselves and get out of the way quick enough. I suggest that the halves of thirty and thirty-five minutes, which now constitute a game, be cut and that the rules be revised so that the game be played in three fifteen-minute periods. I also suggest that the 'flying tackle' be abolished."

Mr. Gass said that there were no injuries recorded as the result of football in the local High Schools. He did not suggest any changes.

"I think there is too much good in the game," said Emery Wilson, Principal of Central High School, "for American young men to think of abolishing it, but I am heartily in favor of having the game modified, and feel sure that it will be done. I am also satisfied that with the proper revision the good in the game can be saved. If there could be devised some rule which would make the game a strictly open-played affair I think it would meet with popular favor, as it would practically eliminate danger."

Dr. W. B. Hudson, physical director of the public schools of the city, said he favored the game as it was played, and thought that the only bad feature about the present form was that the players did not stop quick enough on the blowing of the referee's whistle.

LIKES AMERICAN FOOTBALL.

Capt. Amundsen, the Arctic Explorer, Will Recommend It to the Norwegians.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, said to-day that the American college football game appealed to him very strongly as against the game played in Norway.

"I saw the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge last Saturday," said Capt. Amundsen. "I am not a football critic and am not perhaps qualified to judge of the fine points of the game. At the same time it was very evident to me that Yale's team was superior in every way to the one that represented Harvard.

"The American college game seems to me to be in every way superior to the game in Norway, where the Rugby rules are played. The American game allows greater action and requires greater skill and athletic ability. As soon as I return to Norway I shall talk to the university Presidents there and shall attempt to persuade them to adopt the American college rules. I believe that a change in the playing rules would be a good thing for the Norwegian players. If they could see an American game I am sure that this change would be made."

In another interview the Norwegian explorer is represented as saying that for danger involved polar exploration was not comparable to American football.

"Still," he said, "it was not so bad as I had been led to believe. I thought it would be much worse."

Capt. Amundsen, who arrived in this city yesterday, is arranging for pemmican and canned goods at the Chicago packing houses for his projected voyage of four years duration across the arctic.

He arrived with his classmate of the Christiania University, F. Herman Gade, Norwegian Consul at Chicago, who, with his wife, went to New York to meet him.

TOBACCO POOLS IN COURT.

Receivers Are Appointed and Farmers Say Officers Seek Monopoly.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 24.—Two receiverships pending in the courts for two Kentucky tobacco growers' pools represent the present status of the organizations which led the revolt of 1908 against the so-called Tobacco Trust. This revolt included night riding, the loss by arson of millions of dollars at the hands of night riders, the killing of one independent grower, the use of the State Militia to suppress night riding, and finally the organization of the $8,000,000 burley pool and lesser pools of last November.

To-day, at Winchester, the bonds of Rufus Lisle and Lee S. Baldwin, appointed receivers for the 1906 and 1907 pools of the Burley Tobacco and Insurance Company, were fixed at $200,000 pending the appeal which the company will take.

At Elkton to-day, Ben S. Street, a warehouseman of that city, applied for an attachment for the funds of and a receiver for the Dark Tobacco Growers' Protective Association of Kentucky and Tennessee, a smaller concern.

Mismanagement of the affairs of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association and the squandering of its assets are charged by Street, who makes the projected regrading of the 1907 crop of the association a basis for his complaint. He wants the funds of the association attached, asserting that all its convertible property is in Tennessee.

The two actions are taken to indicate a revolt of the growers against the officers of the pools. The farmers of Kentucky, though united in spirit against alleged tobacco monopolies, intimate that monopolies exist among the organizers of their pools.

SOLD MURDER TRIAL TICKETS.

Attendants in Philadelphia Court Charged 25 Cents Each for Admission.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Attendants of the County Criminal Court in this city confessed to-day to selling for 25 cents each tickets entitling the holders to admission to the court room where Harris Rosenzweig is being tried for the killing of Harry Victor, a cigar merchant, by whom he was employed.

The District Attorney learned of the transactions, and James Robinson, janitor of the court room, was arrested. George Birrell, colored, another janitor, said that nearly all of the minor court attendants were involved in the selling of the tickets, including two policemen who were stationed at the door. They had agreed, Birrell said, upon a uniform price of 25 cents, and after the trial they were to meet and divide the profits. Judge Wiltbank ordered that the matter be laid before the Board of Judges for their action.

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early.

It's An Old Argument, But It's Just As Good As It Ever Was.

We are ready to-day to get you ready for Christmas. There will be no time between now and December 25th when you can find more holiday goods in this store than you can find to-day.

If you CAN buy your Christmas goods this week and next, do so. There is every argument in favor of so doing and not one against it.

You lose nothing by making your selections at once. There are as many bargains in the store to-morrow as there are likely to be at any other time through the month. If you desire, we will hold any goods you buy for delivery on any day you desire. And of course it is better to buy from large, fresh stocks than from stocks which have been picked over.

Every Christmas purchase you make in the early days of the season, lessens the burden of the later days on salespeople, packers and delivery men. This store is organized and equipped to handle a large business with the least possible strain on its personnel. But there can be no doubt that early Christmas buying would be a real benefit to every one here and we are glad to encourage the general movement for early buying by offering our best values now.

DEMAND ON ZELAYA WAITS FOR REPORTS

Action of United States Depends on Exact Status of Groce and Cannon.

FORTY SHOT FOR CHEERING

Zelaya Has Corinto Citizens Killed for Acclaiming Insurgent Victory—Americans Reported in Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Government of the United States has not yet made any formal demand on President Zelaya of Nicaragua for reparation for the shooting of the two young Americans, Cannon and Groce, and there is a possibility that no demand will be made. From the best information the State Department has been able to obtain, however, that possibility is slight. The probability is that a demand will be made in due time.

The question that awaits determination is the exact status of Cannon and Groce when they were captured. It is a problem in international law. Zelaya had not recognized the belligerency of the Estrada forces, nor had any other country. As far as Zelaya is concerned, and in law, the Estrada forces are rebels. Zelaya is entitled legally to arrest and punish them, and if the ordinary police machinery is not adequate for that task he is entitled to employ his military forces. That, of course, it what he has done.

Now, whether he violated any international law or rule of warfare in the summary execution of Cannon and Groce depends entirely on the circumstances of their capture and the nature of their activities at that time. If they were members of the regularly organized revolutionary forces they were not subject legally to summary treatment. They were entitled to be treated as prisoners of war, and prisoners of war may not be shot out of hand.

If they were not connected with the revolutionary forces, however, but were acting on their own initiative, they could be classed as outlaws, bandits, pirates, spies, or what not, and treated summarily when caught. The process of drumhead court-martial is often invoked by more solidly established Governments than that of Zelaya, and in itself offers no legal ground for interference by any other Government.

Definite Conclusions Reached.

It is to determine as exactly as possible, therefore, the status of Cannon and Groce that this Government is now delaying definite action toward Zelaya and is conducting the most searching investigation possible in the circumstances. Very definite conclusions have been reached by the Administration as to the course it will take in case it is found that Cannon and Groce were members of the revolutionary force and entitled to treatment as such. Even if it is found that they were acting on their own initiative it is not improbable that Secretary Knox will call on Zelaya for an explanation of his conduct.

Whatever may be the outcome of the incident it will certainly be demonstrated to the Central American republics that this Government will not tolerate summary action toward its citizens. It will be shown that the United States will find out the why and wherefore of such treatment of Americans hereafter, and that it will be best for any of those dictatorial Governments to respond to the protest of United States diplomatic or Consular officials when they undertake to intercede in behalf of American citizens with the request for such delay in process as will afford opportunity for full and fair investigation.

In this respect the policy of the Taft Administration under Secretary Knox will be somewhat different from its predecessor under Secretary Root. It is felt in Administration circles that too much leniency has been shown toward those Governments in certain circumstances. That leniency was due to the desire on the part of this Government to avoid anything which could be distorted into indicating a wish on our part for territorial or other aggrandizement at the expense of any one of them. The great bogie with all the Latin-American republics for many years has been the fancied possibility that the United States some day would gobble them up in whole or in part. In the effort to avoid giving semblance of ground for that fear this Government has time and again submitted to indignities from one or other of them that would not have been tolerated for a moment if offered by a responsible nation. It was exactly that fact which so delayed and hampered the United States in securing settlement of the several just claims against Venezuela held by its citizens.

Firmness the Present Policy.

President Taft and Secretary Knox feel that this Government can afford to be firm and strong as well as just, and that such firmness and justice will be recognized throughout Latin-America for what it is, without being distorted into a menace of aggrandizement.

For a time during the last Administration there was a hope that the new arrangement with Mexico, resulting in the establishment of the peace court in Costa Rica, would facilitate the peaceful administration of affairs generally throughout Central America. It was the expectation then that Mexico would be the policeman to enforce that system. But it has developed that reliance cannot be placed upon Mexico for such service, and the United States, under the direction of Secretary Knox, will have to undertake its own policing in that region.

The problem before this Government is simply one of teaching responsibility and respect for decency to such countries as Nicaragua and Guatemala. There is every indication that the problem is thoroughly understood by the Administration and that its solution is faced with unflinching determination.

While the activities of the Government are now mostly in the direction of ascertaining facts definitely before proceeding to action, one new development to-day was an order sent to the New Orleans, now at San Francisco in readiness to sail for the Philippines, to remain in American waters until the Central American situation has been cleared. At the Navy Department it was said that there was no immediate intention of ordering this ship to Nicaragua, but that the precaution of holding her within reach was taken because her small draught made her peculiarly suitable for operations off the Nicaragua Coast.

While the investigation of the circumstances under which Cannon and Groce were taken is going on the Government is also sounding the four other Central American Republics on the feasibility of a suggestion which was made recently to the State Department by a distinguished Central American who has had a good deal to do with the foreign affairs of his country. This suggestion was that the four neighbors of Nicaragua should join hands to depose Zelaya and set at rest the troubles of that Republic.

Such a settlement of the difficulty would have the pleasing feature, so far as this country is concerned, of not involving any show of force on the part of the United States, and would therefore have no tendency to stir up Latin-American suspicion of our intentions.

It seems doomed to failure, however, before it is really undertaken. The response from Guatemala to the first tentative inquiry was decidedly unsatisfactory. Guatemala is in the hands of Estrada Cabrera, a dictator after Zelaya's own heart, and he has not the slightest intention of doing anything to Zelaya that might easily be done to himself afterward.

A further obstacle was encountered in the case of Honduras, which is so much influenced by Nicaragua as to have no power now of doing anything against Zelaya. The result of the suggestion, therefore, is that no reliance can be placed on any substantial effort by Central America to straighten out the Nicaraguan tangle.

Says Americans Were Tortured.

PANAMA, Nov. 24.—A Nicaraguan revolutionist, who has just arrived here from Bluefields, reports that Cannon and Groce, the Americans who were executed by the Zelayan Government, were simply taking bearing sight from a height in Costa Rico, and were not in Nicaraguan territory when they were captured. They were with only three soldiers of the revolution when Zelaya's troops crossed the frontier, and put them under arrest.

Cannon and Groce were then taken to an old fort named El Castillo, on the Colorado River, where, according to the story of the revolutionists, they were tortured, and were shot within twenty-four hours after their capture.

A prominent Nicaraguan resident here, in answer to a message which he sent to Dr. Julian Irias, Minister General, has received a reply from that official that President Zelaya is thinking of resigning his office because of threatened American intervention.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—The steamer City of Para, which arrived to-day from Central American ports, brought a report that forty citizens of Corinto were shot to death recently by order of President Zelaya for having received with cheers the news of an insurgent victory.

Corinto was under a heavy guard while the City of Para was there, and the passengers made no attempt to go ashore.

A communication from President Figueroa of Salvador was received to-day by E. Mejia, Salvadorean Consul General in San Francisco, denying that trouble existed there. Reports of disturbances, the President said, were based on the fact that a number of citizens had conceived the idea of organizing in Nicaragua a force to invade Salvador. These malcontents, however, were arrested in Honduras, where they are held, he said.

Americans Reported in Jail.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—A cable dispatch from Panama to-day says that Edgar S. Harris of Columbus, Ohio, an American commercial traveler who has been touring Central America, declares that several Americans are in jail at Managua and other places in Nicaragua, having been arrested on orders from Zelaya. Every American in business in Nicaragua, who refused to contribute to the war fund levied by Zelaya was promptly arrested and thrown into prison, Harris says. A few of the Americans who were arrested bought their way out of jail by paying the price demanded, but a number are still held incommunicado. Harris says it is unsafe for an American to appear in the section of Nicaragua controlled by Zelaya. He was himself subjected to jibes and insults at Corinto and left the place on the first available steamer.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 24.—The report that President Zelaya has put many Americans in jail because of their refusal to contribute to the war fund is untrue. The Americans here have been assured by the Government that they are perfectly safe. There are no Americans in jail at Managua, and there has been no request, according to the Government's statement, for a contribution for war or any other purpose.

PORTO CORTEZ, Spanish Honduras, Nov. 19, via New Orleans, Nov. 24.—Telegraphic advices from Managua say it is believed in Nicaragua that the Government authorities in Port Limon, Costa Rica, and former President Rafael Iglesias and his following have aided the Nicaraguan revolutionists. This information came from a high official of Nicaragua, who said that this aid had been stopped through the petitions of the Charge d'Affaires of Nicaragua at the Costa Rican capital, backed by Ricardo Jiminez, a Costa Rican Presidential nominee, and his party.

COLON, Nov. 24.—The United States protected cruiser Tacoma, which arrived here Monday, departed last night after taking on coal and a large quantity of lumber, cement, nails, and similar building material. The destination of the Tacoma is not known, but it is believed that she is bound for Nicaragua, probably Bluefields, where camps may have to be erected for the marines.

MRS. CHAPIN GETS 7 MONTHS.

Miss Neilans Also Sentenced for Disturbance at Polls.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Alice Chapin, the militant suffragette, who injured a polling clerk at the Bermondsey by-election when she smashed a bottle containing corrosive acid on a ballot box, was sentenced in the Old Bailey Court to-day to seven months' imprisonment. She was convicted on the charges, three months of her punishment being for interfering with a ballot box, and the rest of the term for assault on a polling clerk.

Miss Alison Neilans, who made a similar attempt to express suffragette sentiments at the by-election, but with less serious consequences, was also convicted and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The Octoberists to-day introduced in the Duma a bill designed to abolish the extraordinary powers now exercised by the political police in the preliminary investigations which they make in preparation for the trials of political offenders.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—Minister of Communications Rukhloff has ordered the officials of the Russian railroads to equip their lines in Finland with officers and managers chosen from the staffs in direct control of the general management in anticipation of strikes.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 24.—In the Second Chamber the Finance Minister announced that the proposed bill to revise the customs tariff would still allow the prime necessaries of life to be admitted free of duty.

ROSEBERY PREDICTS DISASTER TO LORDS

Warns Them That Their Continued Power Is More Vital Even Than Rejection of the Budget.

STRONGLY AGAINST BILL

Says It Is Taxation Without Representation, Which Lost England Her American Colonies.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Some further differences of opinion among the Unionist Peers as to their course on the budget exist to-night as the result of a strong speech in the upper house by Lord Rosebery, the former Liberal Prime Minister, in which he warned the Lords of the grave risks they were running if they adopted Lord Lansdowne's resolution to reject the budget.

Lord Rosebery declared that the measure would poison the sources of national supremacy, and that this was vital, but in view of the immediate, and even the remote, future there was something more vital to the country, and that was the strength, efficiency, and security of the second chamber.

It is impossible to-night to judge the effect Rosebery's warning will have. It is known already that a considerable section of the Unionist peers have held grave doubts as to the expediency of Lord Lansdowne's course, and there is almost certain to be a large number of abstentions when the resolution comes to a vote.

All expectation that a vote would be reached to-morrow was abandoned to-day, when it was found that a large number of peers still desired to speak, and it was announced that a division would not take place before next Tuesday. The prolongation of the debate in the House of Lords is due to the fact that there is no machinery to bring a discussion to a close, all the peers expressing a desire to speak having a right to do so.

It was announced to-night that the House of Commons will adjourn to-morrow until Dec. 1, when Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, will make an important statement explaining the policy of the Government, in view of the rejection of the budget, which is anticipated.

At a prolonged meeting of the Cabinet to-day it was decided to call an immediate meeting of the Liberal Party for the purpose of outlining a plan of campaign.

Interest in Debate Grows.

If possible, still greater interest was manifested in the debate to-day than on former days. There was not sufficient room to seat all the peers attending, while the public galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity. The Duchess of Connaught headed a long list of the foremost peeresses, many of whom were compelled to stand throughout.

Lord Salisbury resumed the debate with a speech supporting Lord Lansdowne's resolution after the Archbishop of Canterbury had said that the Bishops would stand aside from the discussion, as the matter was one of a strict party character. Lord Rosebery followed, giving the Lords plain warning of the danger of their proposed course.

"I am quite dissociated," he said, "from any party and speak from my sense of the awful gravity of the situation. This is the greatest political moment in the lifetime of any man born since 1832."

Lord Rosebery admitted that by the letter of the law the House of Lords was competent to reject finance bills, but since 1832, to which time the Lords had practical control of the House of Commons, it was not possible that the Commons should send up a budget which the House of Lords should go to the length of rejecting. He considered that the only possible circumstances justifying the Lords in exercising such a dormant power would be the direct authority and condemnation of the nation itself. Such a circumstance might arise if a budget were presented which lowered the defenses of the country to a point which the nation considered dangerous.

He doubted whether the Lords were choosing the best battlefield. They were playing for too heavy a stake, and were risking the very existence of the House of Lords.

A winning policy would be to allow the Budget bill to pass and give the country six months' experience of its intolerable impositions, loss of capital and employment. They would then achieve, when they next approached the polls, a victory that would surprise themselves. He looked with considerable apprehension to the result of an appeal to the country on an unreformed second chamber mixed up with such other issues as would be raised.

"I do not speak of menaces," he said. "The House of Lords has lived on menaces ever since I can remember, and it is still thriving. But the menaces now used are used by men bent on having a single chamber. Their efforts are revolutionary in essence, if not in fact."

Refers to Loss of America.

Dealing with the question of the reform of the House of Lords, which Lord Rosebery has long advocated, he expressed the conviction that no final adjustment of the differences between the two houses could ever be arrived at without some form of referendum. He denounced the budget in the strongest terms and said that one maxim burned into them by bitter experience was that there should be no taxation without representation.

"Disregard for that maxim," he said, "lost us the United States of America, and we are not likely to offend against it again."

Lord Rosebery contended that the budget taxed the Lords freely and abundantly without their having a word to say or a vote in the matter. After referring to the budget as having spread over the country like a fog want of confidence and want of credit, the worst diseases that could affect commercial nations, he uttered a solemn warning that the pressure of great armaments was eating out the heart and hurrying Europe toward bankruptcy.

Expressing regret that he could not support the resolution, Lord Rosebery resumed his seat, having spoken for fifty minutes. His picturesque and glowing eloquence produced a tremendous effect, leaving his hearers somewhat bewildered. There was an immediate exodus of Peers to discuss the situation in the lobbies, and although the debate continued until midnight, the other speeches fell rather flat.

Lord Milner spoke of the abnormal manner in which the budget was driving capital out of the country. He declared that all the proposed new taxes were bad and unnecessary. All the money required, he contended, might have been raised by import duties, not only without injury to business and employment, but with actual benefit to both.

Lord Curzon will continue the debate to-morrow.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—From the tone of editorials in the London morning papers, Lord Rosebery's remarkable oration, which from a rhetorical viewpoint is universally praised, is likely to have small effect on the attitude of the peers. Rosebery is dubbed the "Hamlet of British politics," and his characteristic infirmity of purpose is regarded as having received another striking illustration. The proposal which he made half seriously in the course of his speech, that the House of Lords should delegate 150 of the most distinguished peers to vote on Lansdowne's motion, as being a method more likely to impress the country than a large vote of a heterogeneous gathering of peers, many of whom have no claim to distinction, and seldom attend the debates, is commented upon almost with ridicule.

The prolongation of the debate in the House of Lords deranged the Government's plans, and no decision has been reached as to what course shall be followed regarding the prrorogation and dissolution of Parliament. A movement has been started in favor of a great, peaceful demonstration of Londoners outside of Parliament on the night the House of Lords rejects the budget, as a protest against its action.

PARIS BUYS ZEBU MEAT.

Project Being Pushed to Substitute It for Beef.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The colonial authorities have inaugurated a serious attempt to introduce in the French market the zebu of Madagascar as a substitute for beef. The first batch of a dozen carcasses sold in the Paris stalls brought the prices of the highest grades of cattle. Larger shipments are now on the way here.

M. Carrougeau, the manager of the government stud in Madagascar, is enthusiastic over the project. He says the herds of zebus, otherwise known as Indian oxen, which have been threatened with extermination, are now being rapidly restored, and that probably 4,500,000 head roam the plateaus of Madagascar. He describes the meat of the zebu as savory and nutritious, and the equal of beef.

He estimates the prospective annual importation into Europe at from 150,000 to 200,000 head.

GERMAN NAVAL EXPENSE UP.

Total Appropriations Proposed Show Increase of $7,000,000.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The Norddeutsche Allgemaine Zeitung prints to-day the chief feature of the naval budget. These provide for a total expenditure of $108,500,000. This is an increase of $7,000,000. The shipbuilding and armament requirements are estimated at $60,875,000, an increase of $5,950,000 being necessitated by a final appropriation for the construction of the battleships Ostfriesland, Helgoland, and Ersatz Beowulf. Provision is also made for the completion of the cruiser-battleship Von der Tann.

The sum of $3,750,000 is also asked for the construction of and experiments with submarines, this being an increase of $1,250,000 over the previous budget. The expenditure for naval artillery is estimated at approximately $19,000,000, an increase of $2,500,000.

And judge for yourself

HOW are such perfect soups possible at the price?

Because price is the last thing we think of. We make Campbell's Soups as good as soups can be made, regardless of price. And in consequence our output is so large that we buy and operate on a large and economical scale.

Our plant is close to the famous New Jersey market-gardens; so that we obtain the finest and freshest vegetables, and without heavy freight charges. We pay cash so that we command the most favorable terms and the pick of the market for every ingredient of

Campbell's Soups

By condensing our soups we save money on cans, boxes, packing, freight, etc. And you do not pay for water.

In one day we sometimes use more than 25,000 pounds of choice beef; 21,000 pounds of prime mutton; 12,000 pounds of selected poultry; 18,000 pounds of celery; and many other things in proportion. We have used in a single day 25,000 baskets of tomatoes, making more than 420,000 cans of our Tomato Soup. And our patented automatic machinery fills, seals and labels thirty thousand cans of Campbell's Soups in an hour.

These are some of the reasons why we give you for 10 cents a can the best soups made anywhere at any price. But try them. Judge for yourself. If not satisfied the grocer returns your money. Isn't that the best guarantee?

All he needs is just one bowl Of Campbell's Soup, to kick a goal.

INDIANS AT POW-WOW OBSERVE OLD RITES

ANCIENT FAITH IS TAUGHT

Chief Cornplanter Expounds Religion of Handsomelake and Braves Dance and Tell of Their Sins.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 24.—Five miles from this city to the southward, lies the reservation of the Onondaga tribe of Indians that once flourished in and ruled this region. The remnants of the tribe now number a few less than 500, gathered with an equal number of other tribes, making their homes with them in a huddle of squalid frame houses in a picturesque valley shut in by hills.

At this reservation this week is being held the annual pow-wow, the religious meeting of the Six Nations. Some 300 delegates from all the reservations in this State and from some in the Province of Ontario, Canada, arrived last Saturday to participate with the Onondagans in these rites. They arrived by trains from all directions. They were met by delegations of Onondagans and taken on the street car line which ends a couple of miles from the reservation. At the end of the route were a number of the Indians' wagons—a set of wheels with a long "running board" between, the outfit drawn by tough, fleet Indian ponies. Visiting braves, squaws, and pappooses piled on to the wagons, the Indian drivers cracked whips about the ponies' ears, and they were off on a gallop for the reservation.

There the delegates are being entertained at the dwellings of the Onondagans, already crammed with humanity, pups, and hens. The Onondagan is hospitable, however, and there is always room in his lodge for one more.

Indians Confess Their Sins.

It was not until Monday that the pow-wow began, to continue four days, ending with a confession by the redskins of their sins of the last year and the renewal of their vows. For the religion of the Six Nations, or old Iroquois Federation, is to-day an odd mixture of Christianity and paganism handed down by Handsomelake, the famous Iroquois chieftain contemporaneous with Cornplanter and Redjacket of the times of the American Revolution.

There are delegates on hand from the Senecas, quartered on three reservations—that near Akron, on Tonawanda Creek, in Erie County; Cattaraugus, on the creek and in the county of that name, near Gowanda, and Allegheny, on the Allegheny River in that county. The Tuscaroras came from their reservation near Lewiston, in Niagara County. The few remaining Cayugas, living with the Senecas, sent their delegates. The Mohawks came from the St. Regis Reservation, near Hogansburg. The Oneidas proceeded from their reservation on the shores of the lake of that name. There are also delegates from the Caledonia and Brantford Reservations of Ontario Province, Canada.

In the gathering are all types of Indians, from the dignified old chiefs and braves, in their later years, who never saw the inside of a schoolhouse, to the Carlisle graduates. The dominant figure of the annual meeting (Gie-weh-u, "Good Story,) is Edward Cornplanter, the direct descendant of that famous Cornplanter of the days of Washington. The present chief is from the Cattaraugus reservation of the Senecas. In the councils of the Six Nations he is supreme, and to him falls the task at these annual meetings of preaching the doctrines of Handsomelake to the assembled tribes, his sermons being supplemented by those of subordinate chiefs.

Chosen Twenty Years Ago.

It was twenty years ago that the present Cornplanter was chosen by the Six Nations for his post, succeeding his late father. He is married and has six children. His son, a youth of 20 years, will likely succeed him as chief, but apparently not for many years. For, though Cornplanter is 54 years old, many a Caucasian of 30 looks older than he.

Each morning for the four days of the meeting Cornplanter preaches the doctrines of Handsomelake to the assembled tribes. He preaches from 9 till 12 each day. Then for one hour, to the beat of the tom-tom and the singing of Indian songs, the braves dance the "Great Feather Dance," consecrated to the Great Spirit. In the afternoon there is elucidation of the lessons given by Cornplanter by various sub-chiefs. Each evening, in the Long House, where all the ceremonies are held, there is the so-called "dance of diversion," in which men, women, and children join.

This is the version of the origin of the present Iroquois religion given by Cornplanter, as he sat upon the stoop of the dwelling of Harry Isaacs, Onondaga Chief and Keeper of the Long House.

"Handsomelake, the great teacher of the Iroquois, he learn lessons he teach us from the Great Spirit, and he learn them in this way. He fall sick, very sick, for four years, and at last he lie dead before his people. He die in strawberry time, in the morning, at the hour of dried-up dew. His young men and old men and women, they mourn for him and are to bury him. But before they bury him he come to life and send for Cornplanter, that other great Chief of the Senecas. And to Cornplanter Handsomelake tell that while he lay dead the Great Spirit send four messengers to him.

The Great Spirit Grieved.

"And these messengers say to Handsomelake, whispering in his dead ears, that the Great Spirit grieve over sins which lose Him souls of the red children and send them to the place of devils. They say he grieve, he feel bad, and they tell teachings to save the red children from evil spirits and bring them to him in the good place. And then Handsomelake rise up from death, to the wonder of his braves and their women, and walk among them again alive."

Handsomelake taught among the Six Tribes, in different places about the State, for fifteen years, passing away in a lodge where the Onondaga reservation now lies. A monument there perpetuates his memory.

The present Cornplanter sketches the teachings of Handsomelake in these words:

"Handsomelake, he teach us many lessons of good, and point out the evil, too. It is a long story, I cannot tell it all. But he tells us we got to have wife always, and keep her and no others, and have children, too, for that is very good. He tells us keep good and keep wife well. Marriage, take care of it, it is bad to forget it.

"He tell us not to drink and not to steal, like greens and vegetables. They see nobody looking and they take it. Great Spirit say this is wrong, we may have what is ours, but not take others' things without pay.

"He tell us to give thanks to Great Spirit, and tell us when. So we have sermons and teachings and sacred dances at times like the Green Corn, Indian New Year's, and Strawberry Time the year round

"Handsomelake has not come back again; he is gone. But we remember him and he love us, as he did those before, as he love those to come."

TO CURB WHITE SLAVERY.

Taft Consulted on Plan to Reach Traffic Through Inter-State Commerce Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Taft took up to-day with District Attorney E. W. Sims of Chicago and Representative Mann of Illinois, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign and Inter-State Commerce, the so-called "white slave" question. Mr. Mann, who is to introduce a bill on this subject at the coming session of Congress, believes the Government can prevent this traffic through the exercise of its power to contral inter-State and foreign commerce.

In Mr. Mann's view the Government is the only authority strong enough to cope with this evil, and the bill which he has drafted, and in which the President to-day expressed his deep interest, provides a heavy penalty for the enticement of a woman or girl from one place to another and thereby causing her to go as a passenger over any transportation line engaged in inter-State or foreign commerce.

"The investigations in Chicago under the direction of District Attorney Sims and others elsewhere," said Mr. Mann to-day at the close of the conference, "have disclosed a situation startling in its nature as to the extent of the traffic in young girls, both within the United Sates and from France and other foreign countries. Most of these American girls are enticed away from their homes in the country to large cities. The police power exercised by the State and municipal governments is inadequate to prevent this—particularly when the girls are enticed from one State to another or from a foreign country to the United States."

TO HEAD PENSIONS BUREAU.

James Davenport Appointed Commissioner to Succeed Vespasian Warner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—James L. Davenport, First Deputy Commissioner of Pensions, has been selected for the office of Commissioner, made vacant by the resignation of Vespasian Warner. Mr. Davenport is from New Hampshire and has occupied the position of Deputy Commissioner for twelve years. He has been in the pension office since 1881.

Mr. Davenport is a veteran of the civil war, having entered the service in 1864, when he left his home in New Hampshire and went to Wisconsin. There he enlisted in Company B of the Fortieth Wisconsin Regiment. He served in that organization until September of that year, when he was enrolled in the Forty-ninth Wisconsin.

For a short time after the war Mr. Davenport's occupation was that of a store clerk, and then for twelve years a traveling salesman. In 1881 he came to Washington and entered the pension office, where he has remained ever since. The new Commissioner is a Republican. He is 64 years of age.

WILL TAKE McHARG'S PLACE.

Benjamin Cable Named Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—After an interview with President Taft this morning Senator Cullom of Illinois announced that Benjamin S. Cable, an attorney of Chicago, would be appointed Assistant Secretary of Commerece and Labor to succeed Ormsby McHarg, whose resignation has been pending for more than two months. Senator Cullom filed a number of formal indorsements of Mr. Cable with the President, and announced that he was a "good Republican all the way through."

For a number of years Mr. Cable was a member of the staff of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, of which his father was one of the organizers. He was bor nin Illinois about thirty-seven years ago. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1896, and later took up a special course in law. While at Yale he was a member of the Skull and Bones Society. After leaving college he practiced law in Chicago for several years, much of his attention being devoted to corporation and administration work.

BIG DAYTON PLANT FOR WRIGHT AIRSHIPS

PLAN A TRIAL AERODROME

Expect to Employ Eighty Men and Turn Out Four Tested Aeroplanes a Month—Work Soon to Begin.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 24.—"We propose to have the first and largest airship factory in the country—to have it here at home and to conduct it for the manufacture of aeroplanes and for the testing of new devices and new improvements which we have thought out," said Orville Wright here to-day.

"Our plan is to build a big oval aerodrome and a shop where all the mechanism in our patents can be manufactured. We will employ probably eighty men and will be able, I think, to turn out about four ships each month. That will be an unusual number, considering the fact that they will have to be each tested fully and found perfect before they leave our shop."

The Wright brothers say that they own a large piece of ground at Third Street and Broadway, Dayton, which might be used for a factory. If they can secure the property next to it, they will tear down the buildings now there and build their factory at this place. If this plan fails, they will build the aerodrome at Edgmont, a suburb of Dayton.

This latter place seems the most suited to their wants, since they will have room there for flights and trials, as well as to get away from the crowds that might embarrass the work were the plant situated in the city. All the machines used in this country and made on the Wrights' patents, it is explained, will be manufactured in Dayton. Those for European use will be manufactured in Europe. One of the brothers will go abroad every few months to test the machines and see that they are complete before they leave the foreign factory.

Already, the brothers say, they have orders to keep them busy for the first year, provided they can turn out their machines as quickly as they say they can. The work on the new factory will be started within the next few months.

FORCED TO SERVE ON JURY.

Men Found in Office Buildings Impressed for Duty at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Drastic measures were again taken to-day to obtain a jury in the suit of eleven bituminous coal companies against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to recover damages aggregating $1,000,000 for alleged car discrimination. Last Monday the jury panel was exhausted and the unusual method of sending court officers into office buildings and other places to impress citizens for service was put in force. In this way the jury box was finally filled, but to-day when the case was called counsel for the coal companies objected to one of the jurors and he was excused.

Judge Holland directed that Monday's procedure be again resorted to. Three men were quickly brought in. James Kerr, a member of the Union League, who was found in an office building, was selected to complete the jury, and the case was begun.

AMERICANS IN AUTO SMASH.

C. W. Webber of Lockport and His Chauffeur Hurt Near Rome.

ROME, Nov. 24.—A serious automobile collision occurred to-day near Cisterna, about thirty-eight miles from Rome, amid the Pontine marshes. One of the automobiles contained a party of Americans, including Charles W. Webber of Lockport, N. Y.; his son-in-law, Irving Bissell of Michigan, and his wife and a chauffeur, George Morrell. The other car contained a party of Italians, who were not injured.

Webber suffered a fractured thumb and a severe gash above one eye. Morrell, who was thrown against the other car, was more seriously injured, although the nature of his injuries has not been definitely ascertained. Mr. Bissell and his wife had a remarkable escape. They were thrown a considerable distance, but apparently only suffered from shock.

Word of the accident was taken to Caetani Castle, near by, and the Duchess Caetani, who was formerly Miss Wilbraham of London, telephoned to Rome for medical assistance. A physician hastened to the castle, where Mr. Webber's injuries were dressed. The chauffeur, Morrell, was removed to the Anglo-American Home in Rome. Mr. Webber and his daughter and son-in-law remained at the castle. They expect to return to Rome on Thursday.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Mr. Webber is a retired merchant. His daughter was married to Irving Joy Bissell, a Detroit manufacturer, last June. They went to Europe for their honeymoon, Mr. Webber joining them about a month ago.

CANADA AND FAVORED NATIONS

Privileges Conferred by Franco-Canadian Treaty Explained to Britain.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24.—In reply to a query from the British Foreign Office as to what favored nation countries would be entitled to benefit by the provisions of the Franco-Canadian trade treaty, the Canadian Government cabled the following:

"Any most favored nation country claiming advantages of the convention must accept them on the same conditions as France as regards the mode of shipment. Goods must be sent to Canada by direct ship from such countries or from a country enjoying the preferential or intermediate tariff.

"Continental favored nation countries would have to send their goods direct from their own ports or by way of Great Britain, which enjoys the preferential tariff. Switzerland could send goods by the most convenient channel to Great Britain and ship thence to Canada. The ministers hold that France is not entitled to send goods through favored nation countries."

TO PROTECT SEA MAMMALS.

International Conference Proposed to Save Seals and Other Species.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The recommendation for an international conference with a view to regulating the killing of seals, whales, and all other mammals of the sea, along with other recommendations adopted at a conference of the Fisheries Commission yesterday, was laid before Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel to-day by President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford University and Commissioner of Fisheries Bowers.

The committee recommended an agreement by which the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and Japan shall cease pelagic sealing in Alaskan waters on satisfactory terms to be determined by these nations. It also recommended a worldwide agreement by which all nations shall adopt regulations for the preservation of mammals of the sea wherever found.

SAYS PROTECTION IS DOOMED.

German Statesman Tells Londoners System of High Duties Must Go.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Addressing the London Chamber of Commerce to-night in the presence of the German Ambassador, Herr Kaempf, Second Vice President of the German Reichstag, expressed the belief that the system of high protection, of which Germany, France, and the United States furnished examples, would soon become insupportable.

Whatever might be the future of development of the economic policy of Europe, he was convinced that the period of high protection was approaching its end.

DWYER BY 45 VOTES.

Fallon's Counsel So Figures It After Getting Justice McCall's Decision.

Supreme Court Justice McCall rendered a decision yesterday on the 170 void and contested ballots in the Eighth Municipal Court District in which Joseph P. Fallon ran against John J. Dwyer in the recent election. The ballots had been submitted to the court after the Board of Aldermen had recanvassed the vote and declared Dwyer elected by a plurality of about twenty-five votes.

Justice McCall did not mention the name of either candidate in his decision, but allowed 141 ballots to be counted, rejected twenty-eight, and marked one "spoiled." In his decision the Justice says:

"I sought to maintain the right of the citizen to cast his ballot and have it counted, seeking to avoid technical construction that would lead to disfranchisement, but in every case where a ballot was marked to distinguish it it was rejected as void."

The last remark would seem to indicate that some of the ballots had been tampered with in order to show how the voter had voted.

Abraham S. Gilbert, counsel for Fallon, said last night that after a hasty glance at the ballots affected by the decision he is convinced that the recount makes Dwyer elected by a plurality of about forty-five votes. He says that he will undoubtedly take an appeal from the decision.

DEATH FOR WIFE SLAYER.

Texas Ex-Constable at First Called Insane Now Gets Full Murder Penalty.

Special to The New York Times.

McKINNEY, Texas, Nov. 24.—Louis Coffman, former constable at Melissa, was convicted to-day on a charge of murdering his wife and received the death penalty. The jury deliberated eighteen hours. This is the second white man ever sentenced to death in Collin County, and the first in the last thirty years.

The murder occurred near Melissa several months ago. Following the tragedy Coffman was adjudged insane and placed in the North Texas Insane Asylum at Terrell, but the insanity decree was soon withdrawn and a charge of murder followed.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS GROW.

Lava Flows Rapidly and Threatens Great Damage in Teneriffe.

SANTA CRUZ, Teneriffe, Nov. 24.—The volcanic eruptions continued with increasing violence to-day. The great stream of lava flowing toward Santiago is moving more rapidly.

It threatens great damage throughout the Valley of Santiago, where many have already suffered by the destruction of their homes and the laying waste of their land.

Two streams of lava from neighboring craters united at the bases of the volcanoes, and the stream is now proceeding at the rate of 3,600 feet in twenty-four hours.

The old crater of Pico de Viejo, which was believed to be extinct, has become active. Earth shocks have been felt at Guia de Teneriffe.

BANKERS TAKEN TO SING SING.

Col. Britton and Frederick H. Schroeder Begin Their Prison Terms.

Col. Edward E. Britton and ex-Quarantine Commissioner Frederick H. Schroeder were taken from Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, to Sing Sing yesterday to begin serving prison terms for stealing funds from the Eagle Loan and Savings Company, of which they were officials. They left this city on the 1:15 o'clock train in charge of Warden Richard Wright and Deputy Warden C. H. Francisco of the Brooklyn jail. Britton must serve a minimum of fourteen months and Schroeder twelve months. The maximum sentence for both men is four years and six months.

Since their conviction for grand larceny in March of this year they have made a vigorous fight to keep out of jail. After being refused a certificate of reasonable doubt by the Court of Appeals they asked for a new trial on the ground that a conspiracy existed between Assistant District Attorney Elder and their former counsel, ex-Senator Thomas H. Whitlock, to obtain their acquittal. They, therefore, did not oppose their counsel when he refused to allow them to go on the stand in their own behalf. Justice Stapleton, a few days ago, refused the request for a new trial. An appeal from this decision will come before the Appellate Division.

DOUBLE OPERA BILL AT METROPOLITAN

"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" Given for the First Time This Season.

Conductor, Egisto Tango.

The familiar combination of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," which go together as if they were made to provide operatic managers with a highly successful "double bill," was given last evening at the Metropolitan Opera House. It has a strong attraction for the public, especially when Mr. Caruso appears in one of them, as he did last evening in "Pagliacci," and there was a large audience, which heard the two operas for the first time this season. The performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" had the distinction of Mme. Destinn's superb impersonation of Santuzza, an impersonation of thrilling power and intensity both in action and in song.

It made a deep impression last season, and the impression is deepened whenever it is heard again. Mr. Martin's Turiddu had also been heard before; he was in excellent voice and sang well. The Alfio was Dinh Gilly, who made his first appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House in this part and also as Silvio in "Pagliacci." He had sung in "Werther" at The New Theatre, and had then disclosed excellent qualities as a dramatic singer. These qualities were in evidence last evening in still larger measure in both of the parts which he took. They were neither of them of the first importance, but he gave them a distinctive and peculiar artistic significance by the admirable skill that he brought to bear upon them. He is an accomplished actor, and while his voice is not of a power and quality that will make a sensation at the Metropolitan, it has a real beauty and is used with such skill and discretion as to make all its effects tell to the best advantage.

Another first appearance was made in "Pagliacci" by Mme. Noria, who took the part of Nedda. She has sung in New York before in opera as it used to be provided by Col. Savage. She was not then, and she is not now, a singer of the rank that ought to be intrusted with leading parts at the Metropolitan Opera House. Her appearance upon the stage is attractive, but her voice is small, unsteady, without beauty of quality, and her impersonation was feeble and unskillful from a dramatic point of view. Her participation in the performance was a step toward a standard lower than that to which the frequenters of the Metropolitan Opera House have been accustomed.

Mr. Caruso aroused all the old enthusiasm with his singing as Canio. He put forth most of his old power and fervor and let loose the lachrymose flood gates in his air at the end of the first act; and it brought him, in the old way, a storm of applause and many recalls after the curtain had fallen on that act. Mr. Scotti was again, as he has been so many times, the clown, admirable in his acting and in his singing, especially in his delivery of the prologue.

Both operas were conducted by Mr. Tango. There were evidences of a fine dramatic purpose in his readings, but there was much that was unfinished in the playing of the orchestra. Perhaps this is accounted for if it be true that he had to carry them through without a rehearsal of all the forces concerned therein.

NEW RANKIN INDICTMENTS.

Six Tennesseeans Will Again Be Tried for Reelfoot Lake Murder.

UNION CITY, Tenn., Nov. 24.—Indictments were returned by the Grand Jury here to-day against "Bud" Morris, "Tid" Burton, "Boy" Ransom, "Bob" Huffman, "Sam" Applewhite, and "Ed" Marshall, charging them with the murder of Capt. Quentin Rankin on the night of Oct. 18, 1908, near Walnut Log, on Reelfoot Lake.

All of those indicted except Marshall have already been tried and found guilty. Burton and Ransom got a twenty-year sentence, and the others were sentenced to be hanged. Their cases were reversed by the Supreme Court and sent back for a new trial.

Benefit for Roland Reed's Sisters.

A performance for the benefit of two sisters of the late Roland Reed, the comedian, will be given at the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia, on Dec. 7. Laura and Florence Reed are said to be destitute. The benefit performance will be given by members of various companies playing in Philadelphia on Dec. 7, and by several stars who will go from New York for that purpose.

German Company Appears in Farce.

At the Irving Place German Theatre last night a three-act farce, "Rechts Herum!" ("To the Right About!") by Hans Gaus, was presented by the dramatic stock company. The entire strength of the company appeared, and the piece was elaborately set. This afternoon, "Die Fledermaus" will be sung by the operatic company. "Rechts Herum!" will be repeated to-night and Saturday afternoon.

"Herodiade" Repeated at Manhattan.

"Herodiade" was sung for the third time at the Manhattan Opera House last evening. The cast included Mmes. Cavalieri, who has done away with her red wig, and Gerville-Reache, who appeared in a new costume, and Messrs. Renaud, Dalmores, and Vallier. Mr. de la Fuente conducted the orchestra.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Charles Dillingham has engaged Bessie McCoy for a term of years, and will present her next season in a musical play that George Edwardes is to produce in London in the Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hamilton are in Florida, where they will spend the Winter. Mr. Hamilton is forming a class in acting and elocution, and plans to present the most apt of his pupils in a performance of an old English comedy next April.

Charles Frohman has obtained from Edmond Rostand all the rights, outside of France, to "L'Aiglon." He intends to present Miss Adams in that play in London, in conjunction with her appearance there in a new play by J. M. Barrie.

Frederick Carr, the English comedian, is returning to London to join Billie Burke's company, to appear in a new play.

Gladys Moore introduced a new imitation of Adeline Genee in her specialty in "The Midnight Sons," at the Broadway Theatre last night.

S. W. Gumpertz, general manager of Greater Dreamland, Coney Island, will sail for Europe this morning on the Cedric. He will remain abroad for several months, getting attractions for Dreamland and for the new amusement resort oat Long Beach.

Frederick Fenn, the English dramatist, author of "'Op o' My Thumb" and other plays, has arrived in New York for the purpose of reading to Margaret Anglin his adaptation of Kistemacker's play, "La Rivale," the rights to which Miss Anglin obtained in Paris last Winter.

Liebler & Co. have established a new office, that of official photographer, and Tom Hadaway, now playing in "The Fourth Estate," has been appointed its head. Mr. Hadaway is an amateur photographer of much experience. He will be kept in New York during the Winter to make photographs of the new productions made by his managers.

Henry B. Harris announces that rehearsals of "The Heights," a new play by William Anthony McGuire, in which Frank Keenan will star, will begin at the Hudson Theatre on Nov. 29.

TAFT TRAMPS WITH CROWD.

Takes Walk with Capt. Butt Along Pennsylvania Avenue.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Taft walked the streets of Washington this evening and mingled with the people on Pennsylvania Avenue with only a few signs of recognition from other pedestrians. Whenever he was addressed he doffed his hat. Incidentally it might be remarked that Mr. Taft is the first President of the United States to take such a stroll sinc teh days when Gen. Grant, smoking his black cigar, walked about the capital.

When 7 o'clock struck, the President sent the man who guards the door of his private office in search of Capt. Archibald W. Butt, his military lad.

"Butt, let's walk for a while to-night," said the President, stretching himself luxuriously. "It's too slippery on the pavements to take out the horses. We'll have a stroll, and don't bother about the Secret Service chaps."

Accordingly, the President and the army officer spent more than an hour in stepping along at a lively pace over the sidewalks spotted with sleet and snow. The President was clad in a rough suit of tweed, a derby hat, and a light overcoat. He seemed much interested in the shop windows. When the two returned to the White House dinner was ready, and Mr. Taft seemed glad of the fact.

BURGLARS THROUGH A TOWN.

Five Houses Entered and a Girl Waylaid, All in One Night.

RIDGEFIELD PARK, N. J., Nov. 24.—Five robberies and an attempted assault on a young Westview girl last night have stirred up the village. The girl, who was about 19 years old, entered the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad station at Little Ferry at 11 o'clock and inquired about the next train to Ridgefield Park. She was told there would not be a train for about an hour. As it is only a twenty-minute walk between the stations she started out on foot.

Along Ridgefield Avenue a man seized her. When she screamed for help, Charles Sedore responded, and the girl's assailant fled. Sedore started to escort the girl home, and when they had gone a short distance the man who had run away returned and went for Sedore with a knife. He was beaten off, and the girl got home all right.

Later in the night thieves effected an entrance to five houses. From the house of F. H. Friend, in College Place, $15 in cash was taken.

Then the thieves got into the house of Mr. Hedden on Union Street. They picked up two suits of clothes that were ready for the cleaner and dropped them on the back porch. Then the house of John Barnett, on Edison Street, was entered, and more money taken. The last house entered was that of John Anderson, on Maple Street. Attempts were made to enter four other houses, but the efforts failed.

Girl Left Alone by Brother Disappears.

Fourteen-year-old Minnie Reed of 111 East 118th Street went to a moving-picture show on Tuesday night with her brother. Before it was over the brother said he was tired, and wanted to go home. His sister told him to go on; she would come on later. She has not been seen since. A general alarm was sent out for her last night. She is a light-haired, blue-eyed girl, 5 feet and four inches tall, who wore a dark cloak when she left home.

PRAISE MRS. STETSON AS THEY LET HER GO

First Church Trustees, Still Loyal, Accept Her Resignation with "Unfeigned Regret."

HIGHLY COMMEND HER WORK

Christian Science Congregation's Growth Due Solely to Her, They Say—To Keep Her House.

Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson is no longer connected with the First Church of Christ, Scientist. At her own request the Board of Trustees last night accepted her resignation from the church and from their board. Her annual salary of $5,000 will be discontinued. The action of the Trustees will come up for approval at the annual conference of the church on Jan. 1.

Edwin F. Hatfield, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, said last night, that the house that Mrs. Stetson occupies is her own property, and that the board has nothing whatever to do wit it. This house is in Ninety-sixth Street, adjoining the church.

The resolution accepting Mrs. Stetson's resignation from the Board of Trustees reads as follows:

"Moved that the Board of Trustees spread upon its minutes the following expression of appreciation, and that a copy of the same be sent to Mrs. Stetson:

"Resolved, That we accept with unfeigned regret, and only at urgent request, the resignation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson as a member of this Board of Trustees.

"In her official relations, Mrs. Stetson has given us a service for nearly a quarter of a century in the effort to further the cause of Christian Science in this community. Whoever knows anything of the progress of the movement in the period covered by these years is aware that, so far as this branch church is concerned, she has been beyond all comparison the foremost contributor to the labors required for the results accomplished, and that the cardinal precept of her teaching and example has always been, as it is now, that of unswerving loyalty to our beloved leader, Mary Baker Eddy, and to her teachings.

"Both from the standpoint of material achievement, as well as from that of spiritual attainment, she has left the evidence of her untiring devotion in the structure which houses this congregation, in the large body of adherents which assembles here regularly for worship, and above all in the spiritual growth of the membership of this church.

"But for the inspiration of her faith and the stimulus of her high and earnest purpose, none of these results would have been attained in any such measure. For ourselves, therefore, as Trustees, we rejoice in the work which she has done, we are grateful in that we have been permitted to share the work with her as colaborers, and we desire to record our recognition of the great spiritual blessings which have come to us in official association with her."

Mrs. Stetson would make no statement.

E. F. Hatfield, Chairman of the Trustees of the First Church, wrote to THE TIMES last night to deny that either he or any of the other Trustees were aware of Mrs. Stetson's intention to withdraw from membership in the First Church until they learned it from her letter to the board on Monday. "No member of the board had suggested such a course to Mrs. Stetson," says Mr. Hatfield. "She determined upon this action of her own accord, after what she considered due deliberation, and despite the fact that this branch church had voted to approve the report exonerating her.

"Aside from any questions raised and adjudicated one way or the other by the Mother Church and by this branch church, the Trustees of First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York City, from their own knowledge, were fully aware of the fact that this branch church is the outgrowth in the main of Mrs. Stetson's efforts. Under such circumstances there was great reluctance to accept Mrs. Stetson's resignation."

OLD GUARD OUT IN HAIL.

After Parade Col. Gardiner Tells Them New York's a Foreign City.

In a downpour of hail and rain about seventy members of the Old Guard, under the command of Major S. Ellis Briggs, left the Metropolitan Rink, Broadway, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third Streets, yesterday at 12:30 P. M., on their annual parade in celebration of Evacuation Day. They proceeded to the Subway and took a downtown train.

It has been the custom in the past to ride to the City Hall and be reviewed by the Mayor before starting on the march to the Battery. Owing to the weather, however, this was cut from the programme. The Old Guard simply got off at the City Hall station of the Subway and formed in line as quickly as possible and started down Broadway.

At Battery Park, with the rain and hail still pouring down, they were formed in review, and the flag was raised. From there they marched to Fraunces [illegible], where they had luncheon.

"There is one thing," said Col. Gardiner in his speech, "that I want to mention. That is that it does me good to have an occasion once in a year, and sit down in a room where I can look arond me and see nothing but good American faces. This historic city is no longer an American city, it has become a foreign city. If it was not for such organizations such as this, and if it was not for demonstrations such as to-day, how would we be able to preserve the old traditions."

Early in the morning the Second Battery of Artillery started from the Bronx in the rain to fire a National salute at the Battery front. At Fourteenth Street the men riding on the caissons became so chilled that they dismounted, and made the rest of the march to the end of the island on foot. Here as the flag was raised a salute of twenty-one guns was fired under command of Lieut. G. E. McRickard, being responded to by the batter at Castle Williams, Governors Island.

ROBBER ATTACKS A WOMAN.

Strikes Her on the Head as She Waits on Him in Her Shop.

Mrs. Esther Gordin, who keeps a small stationery store at 532 Tenth Avenue, was beaten over the head yesterday by a boy who entered the place ostensibly to make a purchase. While not seriously injured, the woman had to be taken to New York Hospital for treatment.

As soon as her husband went downtown to work the youth entered the store, and, pointing to a shelf, said to Mrs. Goslin: "Give me some of that."

As she turned around to see what it was he wanted from the shelf he struck her over the head with some blunt instrument, and as she turned toward him again and began to scream he struck her several more blows. Then the robber took to his heels, and the police have found no trace of him.

SAVE JANITRESS AT A FIRE.

Police to Her Rescue When Overcome Fighting the Blaze.

Mrs. Augusta Schultz, wife of the janitor of the row of apartments at 477 West 142d Street, which extend around the corner to 1,661 to 1,669 Amsterdam Avenue, heard a series of light explosions at 9 o'clock last night, and running to a storeroom in the back of the cellar of No. 477, where the gas meters are, she found the place in flames. She ran back to her apartments, goat a pail of water, and returned to fight the fire.

The pungent smoke drove her back, gasping, toward the cellar stairs, but before she could mount them she was partly overcome, and falling, cried for help. Policeman Lober and Wigge of the West 125th Street Station heard her and ran down. They dragged her into the street and sent in a fire alarm.

There are more than fifty families in the house, and although the blaze was confined to the cellar, there was nearly a panic among the tenants until all reached the sidewalk.

Mrs. Schultz was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital by Dr. Weil, where it was said that she would recover.

"Magic Boots" Doctor Must Pay for Injuries.

The Appellate Division denied yesterday an appeal by Matthew Hilgert, sometimes known as the "magic boots doctor," from a judgment of $3,000 obtained against him before Justice Goff in the Supreme Court last January by Henry Lubbe, infant son of John P. Lubbe, for injuries suffered through removing the child from a hospital and permitting him to wear a pair of specially constructed boots without braces.

THE SAFETY OF SMALL MORTGAGES.

Small mortgages are usually on small houses. The owner generally lives there, takes care of the property, mends the breaks, does necessary painting and keeps it all in order. ## CAN'T RESUME LAW PRACTICE.

Nathan B. Levenson's Petition Denied by the Appellate Division.

Nathan B. Levenson, Deputy Commissioner of Taxes in the Department of Taxes and Assessments for the Borough of the Bronx, who was suspended eight years ago from the practice of law as an attorney, cannot resume practice. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, yesterday refused his petition. Before and since he was suspended on Oct. 24, 1901, after charges had been filed against him by the Bar Association, Levenson had been employed in various city departments.

In connection with his petition to the court to terminate his suspension, Levenson produced affidavits from officials in the city departments testifying to his good character while employed therein, and as a token of his atonement declared to the court that the one indiscretion for which he had been punished was the only questionable act of his life.

This Is the Highest Price Ever Given for a Book Printed in This Country.

She Was a Widow—Her Tears Could Not Win Her a Share in Proceeds, $950, of the Next Sale.

The chief topic just now among collectors of rare books is the extraordinary price, $3,800, paid by J. Pierpont Morgan at the sale of Frank Maier's collection of first editions of American authors last Monday evening at Anderson's for a pamphlet of only thirty-two pages containing "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" and "The Man That was Used Up," by Edgar Allan Poe.

There is connected with this transaction a romance which would have delighted the heart of Thomas Frognall Dibdin, who knew so much and wrote so entertainingly of book rarities and the pursuit of them by enthusiastic collectors.

It is not only the record price for a Poe work, but the highest price ever paid for a book printed in America. Its distanced rivals are the Chamberlain copy of Poe's "Al Aaraaf, Tamerlane, and Minor Poems," presentation copy from his sister Rosalie, which sold for $2,900 in February last; the Maier copy of the same work, autograph inscription, "For my cousin Elizabeth, E. A. Poe," which Dodd, Mead & Co. bought last Tuesday for $2,900, presumably for Stephen H. Wakeman, and Eliot's Indian Bible, which fetched £580 at Lord Hardwicke's sale in June, 1888.

William H. Graham of Philadelphia in 1843 issued No. 1 of "The Prose Romances of Edgar A. Poe." It is the work for which Mr. Morgan paid $3,800. Publisher Graham's price was 12½ cents. The expression, "worth its weight in gold," does not properly apply to this pamphlet, as it is worth more than its weight in gold.

One of the stories in connection with the sale is this: A wide-awake commercial traveler named Louis B. Cole was roaming through Dutchess County, N. Y., in 1906 picking up at as low a price as he could unconsidered trifles in the old book and print line from countrymen, and it so happened that in one village he gave a widow 25 cents for a small lot of homely looking books that did not seem to be worth the room they occupied. When he looked them over Cole's book lore led him to believe that in the pamphlet "The Prose Romances of Edgar A. Poe" he had found something of more than ordinary value. He had an acquaintance, a book dealer in Twenty-third Street, this city, to whom he was in the habit of forwarding for sale such good things as he picked up, the division of profits to be equal. To him Cole sent the pamphlet and soon received an answer to the effect that the work was a good one, worth $20, and please to find his half share, $10, inclosed.

When Cole returned to town, however, he learned, to his astonishment, that his book-dealer friend had parted with the pamphlet to the Thomson-Pitt Company of Fifty-sixth Street and Eighth Avenue for $950.

The widow in Dutchess County, about the same time, learned to her dismay, from a New York newspaper, that the pamphlet which, with others, she had sold for only 25 cents, was valued by its latest owners at $2,000. She promptly came to New York and protested at the East Twenty-third Street book dealer's shop. Her arguments and tears, it is believed, were unavailing, and she returned home a wiser if not a richer woman.

With Cole, however, it was far different. He met his whilom friend with both a gun and an officer of the law, and parted from him with just half of the proceeds, $475, in his pocket.

The above is the really vital part of the romance. What follows is more matter of fact:

At that time the Thomson-Pitt Company had a bright young fellow by the name of Peter Maher working for them, and he was acquainted with Frank Maier of this city, then and now known as a collector of Americana. One morning in October, 1906, Maher called upon Mr. Maier at the latter's Wall Street office, told him about "the find," and Mr. Maier promptly got into communication with the Thomson-Pitt Company. There was only one other copy of the pamphlet known to Mr. Maier, and that was the one owned by Frederick R. Halsey, the well-known book collector of this city.

One day in 1896 or 1897 Mr. Foote, another well-known book collector whose library had been sold at auction, called at Dodd, Mead & Co.'s and told Mr. Dodd that he understood George D. Smith, the book dealer, had a rare Poe item. Luther S. Livingston, as representative of Dodd, Mead & Co., went to Smith's, bought his copy of No. 1 of "The Prose Romances" for $62.50, and turned it over to Mr. French for about $90. In the French sale in 1901 this same copy was bought by Dodd, Mead & Co. for Mr. Halsey for $1,000.

Mr. Halsey allowed his copy to be compared with the one the Thomson-Pitt Company had, and, they being found exactly alike, except that the Halsey work has both wrappers and the other lacks the back cover, Mr. Maier, according to his story, paid Thomson-Pitt $1,400 for the treasure and gave Peter Maher $50 for his part in the transaction.

Mr. Thomson, in his store at 35 West Forty-second Street, yesterday said that the amount his firm received was $1,450, and it was divided equally among the four persons in the Thomson-Pitt concern.

At last Monday's sale a number of persons present took part in the contest for possession of the rarity, but toward the end only two were left to struggle for it, Frank P. Harper, representing J. Pierpont Morgan, and Walter M. Hill, a well-known Chicago book dealer, representing a wealthy Western collector. Mr. Hill gave it up at $3,750, and Harper got it for an additional $50.

The 32-page pamphlet, with its phenomenal raise in value in the short space of three years from 25 cents to $3,800, will be one of the rarest Americana treasures in the Morgan library.

P. K. Foley, in his work on American authors, published in 1897, mentioned the existence then of two copies, neither of them the Halsey or the Maier copy, and says that one of them was catalogued by the owner at $250.

It was rumored yesterday that one of these, since Monday's record price, is now for sale by its possessor, and if Bookdealer Hill's Western patron is still enthusiastic it is likely to become his property at about the same figure Mr. Morgan gave for the Maier copy.

There seems to be no let up in the rage for Poe items. Mr. Livingston of Dodd, Mead & Co. said yesterday that he thought a copy of Tamerlane, if offered at auction now, would fetch almost twice as much as "The Prose Romances." The McKee copy in 1900 sold for $2,050. It is Poe's first published work. Mr. Halsey is said to own two copies of it.

An interesting question is: "Did Graham ever issue No. 2 of the 'Prose Romances'?" Not a copy can be found.

STOLE GOLD FILLINGS.

York (Penn.) Police Think They Have Caught Man Who Robbed Dentists.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., Nov. 24.—Several months ago nearly every dental office in York was robbed of a quantity of gold filling and of instruments of value. The police department and the detectives have been hunting for a clue i norder to arrest the guilty party.

The thief was traced to Harrisburg, and yesterday Frank Carter, employed in the dental office of A. H. Knauff for the past eleven months, wsa placed under arrest, and it is alleged has made a partial confession to Chief of Detectives Charles S. White of tihs city and Detective James Walter of Harrisburg.

The discovery was made by Chief of Police Bush o fthis city, who recovered from a York dealer a quantity of gold such as is used by dentists. The officer secured a description of the man who pawned it, and this satisfied him that Carter was the person. The man is about 38 years old and has a wife and five children. Detective Walter swore out a warrant for him, and he was committed to jail.

TAKE MARY GARDEN'S SIDE.

Indications at Customs Hearing That the Board of Appraisers Is Hers.

Mary Garden, the prima donna, demonstrated yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers that she is thoroughly in earnest in her contention that as a non-resident she is not liable for customs duties on twenty-eight hats, nearly forty gowns and other articles of wearing apparel, as contended by Collector Loeb. Counsel appeared for Miss Garden, but she proved amply able to take care of her own interests. When she left the witness stand, although the three members of the customs court made no formal ruling, two of the General Appraisers seemed to be of the opinion that she would have her own way.

When Miss Garden arrived from Europe she was required to pay duties aggregating $1,100 on hats, gowns, and toilet articles. To obtain possession of the goods she paid the tax, and filed an appeal with the Board of Appraisers. It was brought out yesterday that two trunks containing dresses used on the stage while assessed for duty were not included in the protest heard by the board.

William A. Robertson, the Government counsel, attempted to argue yesterday that Miss Garden is a resident of the United States, but his contention was cut short by Judge Waite, the presiding member of the board. The board will hand down a formal decision in a few days.

"I intend to fight this case of extortion on the part of the customs officials to a finish," said Miss Garden, "even if I have to go through all of the Federal courts, including the Supreme Court."

SEEK MISSING MAN HERE.

Pennsylvania Postmaster Wrote to His Family and Disappeared.

George Eli Washburn, Postmaster of Wyncote, a fashionable suburb of Philadelphia and intimate friend of many men of wealth and prominence in that vicinity, is being sought by the police of this city. His wife is almost prostrated over his unexplained absence from his home since Wednesday of last week.

Some years ago on a trip he was attacked by aphasia, and wandered for two days before he could make known who he was. According to his friends, his accounts, as far as the Post Office are concerned, are in perfect shape, and there is nothing that would cause him to leave home.

The day Mr. Washburn left he told his wife that he was going into Philadelphia to attend to some business. The next day she got a postal card dated New York saying that he would be kept away a day or two more. He said he was stopping at the Hotel Imperial. Since that day not a word has been received from him.

The missing man's son, Harold E. Washburn, and Harry White of 1,423 St. Nicholas Avenue are looking after the New York end of the search for Mr. Washburn. Mr. White says that Mr. Washburn is a strict Episcopalian and a scrupulously honest business man, and is undoubtedly suffering from loss of memory or has met with foul play.

HE'LL REFORM AT 13.

Young Vogle Says He'll Die Before He Picks Another Pocket.

Admitting a career of dishonesty, thirteen-year-old Moses Vogle of 9 West 112th Street and small for his age, took a vow in the Children's Court yesterday to kill himself if he did not come out of the Jewish Protectory, to which he was committed, entirely reformed.

"I've been a fierce chap," said Moses, "and nobody knows it any better than I do. But I just got in wrong and have chummed with too swift a gang. I know I oughtn't to be crooked, and I've come to my senses."

Moses, owing to his record of picking pockets and defying his parents, is known in the Children's Court as "New York's worst boy." He himself unfolded some of the chapters of his record. His parents thought it best that he go to some institution.

Of his travels he said yesterday:

"We had lots of money, and it was easy to get from town to town. We stole watches right in the front of detectives' eyes; they were too slow for us. We stopped off at Detroit, Cleveland, and Chicago, and finally landed in Los Angeles, where we stayed two months, living on what we picked from men's pockets.

"I'm not a bum. I never have been. I have made honest money and I have made crooked money. If I had $50 now to start on I bet I could make all sorts of honest money in a short time. I have a gang of boys whom I supply with candy to sell in front of half a dozen of the big theatres, and I rake in the profits."

POTATO MASHER HIS WEAPON.

Porter Hits Landlady on the Head with It—Both in Hospital.

Mrs. Ellen Sullivan, proprietress of the boarding house The Helene, East Thirty-first Street, was enticed to the cellar of her house last night and there tripped and beaten on the head with a large wooden potato masher by a man whom, according to the police, she had hired as a porter yesterday morning. He fled when the cries of Mrs. Sullivan brought boarders to her aid, but he was captured after a chase by two chauffeurs, Robert Jones of the St. Louis Hotel and Louis Soulier of 8 East Thirty-ninth Street.

The prisoner acted in so irrational a manner that he was hurried to Bellevue Hospital, but when the police of the West Thirtieth Street Station found two big bags, the property of the hired porter in the basement areaway, they had their doubts as to the reality of his raving, and concluded that he had planned his escape before attacking Mrs. Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan's condition was so serious that she was removed to the New York Hospital. She was suffering from three scalp wounds and a possible fracture of the skull. At Bellevue the prisoner, believed by the police to be Edward Kane of Everett, Mass., a medical student or nurse, was placed in the prison ward, a charge of felonious assault having been made against him.

Confirm Big Sewer Assessment.

The Board of Revision and Assessments, consisting of the Controller, Corporation Counsel, and President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, at a meeting held on Tuesday confirmed the assessment of $123,490 for sewers and outlets in Avenue G, between Coney Island and Flatbush Avenues, Brooklyn.

COLER ANNOUNCES HE'LL SUE FOR LIBEL

Sends Directions to His Secretary to Reply to Commissioners of Accounts.

REPORT IS SPITE, HE SAYS

Mayor Urged to Hurry His Decision on the Report Accusing the Borough President.

Feeling that he has been libeled by their report as to the conduct of his administration, Borough President Bird S. Coler of Brooklyn is threatening to sue the Commissioners of Accounts. Mr. Coler is at present in Charlotte, N. C. The announcement that he contemplated a suit was made by his secretary, John A. Heffernan, yesterday.

"I have received directions from Mr. Coler," said Mr. Heffernan, "to transmit the report of the Commissioners of Accounts to his counsel, in order that an action for libel may be brought against them. Mr. Coler is determined that the issues raised by Mr. Mitchel shall be tried out and that the trick of waiting until the end of the administration to report on an investigation begun in October, 1907, and not, as falsely stated in his report to the Mayor, in the Summer of 1908, shall not prevent a determination of the truth or falsity of his charges by an impartial tribunal."

Superintendent of Highways Patrick F. Lynch, Superintendent of Public Buildings Joseph Lawrence, and Chief Inspector of Elevators Edward A. Langan, all of Mr. Coler's official staff, were also talking yesterday of following the lead of their chief and suing the Commissioners for libel.

Mayor McClellan received yesterday from John A. Heffernan, Secretary to Borough President Coler of Brooklyn, a communication urging him to expedite a decision on the findings of the Commissioners of Accounts in their investigation of the Borough President's office.

The Mayor declared that he would review the report of the Commissioners as soon as possible, and then determine whether or not he would ask them to prefer charges for submission to the Governor.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Nov. 24.—Bird S. Coler, Borough President of Brooklyn, arrived here early this morning from Charlotte. When a New York dispatch, telling of the charges of neglect of duty, mismanagement, extravagance, and political favoritism in selecting subordinates, was shown to him, Mr. Coler simply smiled and said:

"Things like that are always happening in New York politics. This is merely one of the many instances of personal political grievances of the retaliating kind instigated by the spite of disappointed and disgruntled small men, and amounts to nothing save cheap notoriety."

Mr. Coler leaves here to-night for Brooklyn. He said he would take up the matter of the the charges against him immediately on his arrival in New York. After his term of office, he says he is going Southt to develop some of his private resources there, making Greensboro his headquarters.

C. S. SIMS AND FIANCEE HERE.

But He Won't Tell Why He Returned Marriage License in Baltimore.

Clifford Stanley Sims of Albany, New York manager of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, who took out a license in Baltimore four days ago to marry Miss Martha Lee Jenkins of that city, is at the Hoffman House. The taking out of the marriage license did not interest Baltimore society half so much as did Mr. Sims's return of it to the bureau within an hour after he had asked for it. Since then there has been much speculation over the affair, and yesterday from Baltimore came a rumor that Mr. Sims and Miss Jenkins are to marry soon in this city.

It was practically admitted at the hotel that Miss Jenkins and her mother, Mrs. Edmund Plowden Jenkins, had arrived from Baltimore and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Loree, who occupy a suite of rooms at the Hoffman House. Mr. Loree is President of the Delaware & Hudson Company.

Mr. Sims, accompanied by two women, went to the theatre last night, and did not return to the hotel until late. Mr. Sims would not discuss his affairs. When told that the story of the return of the marriage license had been made public he said:

"The story that we are to be married secretly here is untrue. We are to be married, but it will not be until the first of the year. He refused to explain the taking out and return of the marriage license in Baltimore. He is 41 and Miss Jenkins is 25.

CHASED RUNAWAY TO DEATH.

Fell Into Subway Shaft and Was Killed While Trying to Save Wagon.

Following a runaway yesterday from the Bowery and Houston Street to Delancey, and thence eastward to Chrystie Street, where the wagon was ditched in the subway excavation, Charles Olsen of 321 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, a one-armed man, fell fifty-two feet to the bottom of the excavation while trying to extricate the wagon. He died in Gouverneur Hospital.

The horse was owned by Emanuel Lipschitz of 1 East 115th Street. The driver was Samuel Nelson. He had left the rig standing at Houston and the Bowery, while he went into a store.

The wagon was about to topple over into the big ditch, when Olsen, with a number of other men, ran to save it. Olsen was so excited he lost his balance, and fell into a shaft.

To get down it was necessary to go to the Bowery, and enter by an extension ladder. Policemen Mahoney and O'Gorman did this.

Dr. Carr had arrived from Gouverneur Hospital by this time, and he joined the policemen. The three men had difficulty in getting Olsen to the surface, for the extension ladder would admit but one man at a time.

Finally Olsen was taken up in one of the earth scoops used for digging the subway.

CUBA DOING QUITE WELL.

American Resident of Havana Says the Government Lives Below Its Income.

W. M. Talbott, who was a Captain of the Signal Corps in Cuba during the first intervention period, and is now general manager of the Cuban Telephone Company in Havana, is at the Hotel Imperial. According to Mr. Talbott the people of this country are misled in regard to present conditions in Cuba.

"Reports that the Government is living beyond its income are absolutely without foundation," said Mr. Talbott yesterday. "On Sept. 30 there was a balance in the Treasury of $1,038,302. The collections for the port of Havana alone will probably reach $2,000,000 for the present month, a gain of over half a million for the same month under the provisional Government.

"Immigration for six months shows a gain of 72 per cent. Confidence is fast increasing in the stability of the present Government. President Gomez is perfectly familiar with the finances of the Government, and is introducing economy wherever consistent with the general good.

"Order prevails throughout the entire republic, and local elections are held in peace. Cuba as a developing proposition under the present Government makes a very satisfactory showing altogether."

TO QUIT FLAT "13."

Mrs.Mrs. Seidman Once Doubted Signs, but Burglars Visited Her.

Because the number of her flat robbed by burglars a week ago was 13, Mrs. Rebecca Seidman of 135 Avenue C announced yesterday that she was going to move. She appeared against two alleged burglars in the Essex Market Court yesterday.

"Thirteen is an unlucky number," she said with a shrug of the shoulders; "I am going to move at once. I didn't believe in hoodoos and spooky things once, but I have been thinking it over since I met the two burglars, and have decided that it isn't all fiction."

Mrs. Seidman says she found the two men in her flat after she returned from the grocer's. They were on the stairway just outside her room and had bundles under their arms. They bowed pleasantly and wished Mrs. Seidman "good day," she says, but she seized one by the hair. His companion rescued him after hurling the woman down a flight of stairs and both got away.

Detectives Horton and Landers later arrested Joseph Scheartz of 156 Monroe arrested Joseph Schartz of 156 Monroe Street and Louis Freidman of 165 Monroe former as the man she struggled with on the stairs.

Magistrate Breen held each in $1,500 bail for examination. Mrs. Seidman also identified a bundle of clothing found in Schwartz's home as her property.

Policeman Convicted of Assault.

Policeman John Maroney, formerly connected with the Liberty Avenue Police Station in Brooklyn, was convicted of assault in the third degree by a jury before Justice Stapleton of the Supreme Court yesterday. He was charged with assaulting Antonio Ciero on Nov. 24, 1907, at Rockaway Avenue and Dean Street, Brooklyn. Maroney contended that he was riding in a car when he saw a crowd of Italians fighting at that corner and tried to separate them. Ciero, he said, grabbed his club, and he was compelled to turn on him. The policeman is now stationed in Manhattan. His counsel will argue a motion to dismiss the verdict on Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert C. Ogden No Better.

Mrs. Robert C. Ogden, who is ill of pneumonia at her home, 125 East Fifty-sixth Street, was said last night to be still in a critical condition and likely to die at any time.

ZIMMERMAN SEEKS DIVORCE.

Ex-Champion Cyclist Has Doubtful Case, Owing to Wife's Insanity.

Arthur A. Zimmerman, formerly champion cyclist of the world, is a petitioner in the New Jersey Court of Chancery for divorce from his wife, Grace Zimmerman, who is said to be of unsound mind and in the care of her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Riley of Troy, N. Y.

Zimmerman married Grace Ripley in Troy April 8, 1895, and their separation occurred about eighteen months ago. He names four co-respondents. In the defense it was alleged that Zimmerman had signed asylum commitment papers for his wife in 1906, and had stated then that she had been of unsound mind for two years. Infidelity is not a ground for divorce in New Jersey if it can be shown that the defendant was insane at the time of the act, the Chancery Court has ruled.

The Same Delightful Flavor Always

Most cigars run uneven in quality. That's because the tobacco is bought at random—in the "open market."

The tobacco for Optimos is the finest, most aromatic leaf grown in the Vuelta Abajo district—bought by experts in the fields.

Its flavor never varies. For our buyers know the plantations of Cuba like a book. They know where to buy the leaf that produces the wonderful, rich flavor and the delicious fragrance that makes the Optimo the best-selling all-Havana cigar.

A strictly hand-made cigar that will delight you. Smoke one today.

NICARAGUA.

There are grave reasons why our Government in dealing with ZELAYA should proceed with deliberation, and after a full investigation of the facts. We maintain relations of friendship and of commerce with the republics of Central and South America, we desire that these relations should continue, and we are particularly desirous to extend our trade with those peoples. We are a pretty big brother to the nations down there, and some of them, perhaps because they do not understand us very well, are not a little afraid of us. Any action of ours in respect to ZELAYA that was hasty and ill-considered, that appeared to be vindictive and disregardful of law and right, would awaken distrust of us through all Central and South America. It would make more difficult the understanding of our trade relations, and would incline them more and more to do their trading with Europe. Injustice toward any one of them would be an obstacle to our commercial advancement with all of them.

It is not yet established that the two Americans who were shot had acquired that status as members of a regular armed force that would have given them the rights of prisoners of war. There has been talk of "recognizing" the insurgents, which would confer upon them important belligerent rights and might be decisive of the struggle. We must inquire, first, whether they have yet established that status which, in the case of insurrections in Cuba and elsewhere and in the case of most of the South American republics in their struggles with Spain, we have held to be a condition precedent to recognition. ZELAYA is doubtless a disagreeable and very inconvenient person, but we ought to be on our guard against errors of procedure that would be harmful to our interests with our southern neighbors. They have not forgotten, they never will forget, the international crime by which we separated Panama from the United States of Colombia. We do not want to give them further cause to distrust us and to be afraid of us.

ROOSEVELT TO THE RESCUE.

There are numerous and obvious reasons why Mr. WOODRUFF, Mr. BARNES, and Mr. ODELL should desire to have Mr. ROOSEVELT as the Republican candidate for Governor next year. They must all regard the present situation of their party with annoyance and its future, so far as concerns themselves, with something akin to gloom. In their several ways they have contributed to bring the party into considerable discredit, to split its armor wide open at important joints, and to render its weapons of offense and defense curiously useless. They have seen themselves twice forced to nominate a Governor they did not want, and after his election they have shown conspicuous incapacity to work with him, to persuade him to work with them, or effectually to work against him. They spend their time sneering at his gifts of political leadership, they deny that he is a statesman, they withhold their support from him, and, while they have "queered" some of his plans, they have carried out none of any consequence of their own. Since the outcome of the election this Fall they seem peculiarly sensitive to the helplessness and the ludicrousness of their situation. No wonder that they should long for Mr. ROOSEVELT.

They will not get him. That is not to say that he will not in any circumstances accept the nomination of his party for Governor next year, but he will not accept it from them. They may go through the form of giving it to him, but when he takes it, if he does, it will not remove from them the burden of their own ineptitude or make them really any less obviously helpless than they now are. He is not their sort. They have not and cannot have the slightest hold on him. He may use them, as occasion arises; they cannot use him. Whatever part they might be allowed to play would be defined and limited by him. The most they could hope for would be that they would no longer be responsible for the humiliation that they have rendered substantially certain if they remain in control of the rickety machinery of their party. That, of course, would be some relief to them, but it would be small compared with their past pretensions, and their advantage would be wholly negative.

On the other hand, there is no inherent improbability that Mr. ROOSEVELT may see in another term, or two or three, in the Governor's chair a suitable opportunity for the exercise of his undoubted ability both as an administrator and as a political leader. It is not in accordance with precedent, but neither is he. For one thing, no President ever closed a term at as early an age as Mr. ROOSEVELT, except Mr. CLEVELAND at the end of his first term, when, very distinctly, he did not retire. Mr. ROOSEVELT is now barely past 51. He has the average lifetime of a generation before he reaches the age at which JOHN QUINCY ADAMS died in harness, and he has much of the temperament and energy and endurance of that doughty fighter. He is as little likely to let the capacities of which he is keenly conscious "rust in him unused." Other men might fancy it prudent to hold themselves in reserve and not to dull the edge of their popularity with too familiar intercourse with the public. The promptings of his nature would be in the opposite direction. He has too much confidence in himself, too eager an outlook on the opportunities of life, and too wide and notable experience of brilliant success in dealing with opportunities as they arose to feel either timidity or calculated caution in facing any situation.

The Governorship of the State of New York is no small field for so vigorous and trained a nature as his. And it happens that it would now offer scope for certain gifts of his that have not been so fully appreciated as they might have been. When Mr. ROOSEVELT's record as an administrator is made up it will be found that it is a remarkable one, which his adventures in the line of more conspicuous achievement have obscured. He might easily aspire to continue and extend it in the State, and, if he did, there would be such a stirring of dry bones at Albany as has never been seen. Since he left the State Capitol there have been essays of a notable nature in the reorganization of the affairs of the State Government. They have largely been sophisticated by the interference of the party machine. Mr. ROOSEVELT, should he elect to carry these on, or to initiate others, would tolerate no such interference, and none would be attempted. Prediction as to the intentions of the still young ex-President cannot be made with any confidence. He has the habit of foresight and reticence. If he choose to re-enter public life by way of Albany he will have his reasons, and they will be adequate. The "gang" will not dictate, or even know them, and its part in what may follow will be for him to determine. We suspect it will not be large.

THE HOUSE OF GOVERNORS.

In his address at the dinner of the National Civic Federation Tuesday night Senator ELIHU ROOT gave this ample reason for the establishment of a House of Governors:

> Let the Government exercise its constitutional powers to the fullest limit, but do not let us, in our anxiety for efficiency, cast away, break down, reject those limits which are to us the control of our homes, of our own domestic affairs, of our local Governments.

Nevertheless, as a people we must be anxious for efficiency. In one of the ablest political documents of our time Mr. ROOT two years ago laid down the fundamental rule that the States are not complete in themselves and sufficient to themselves. A National spirit has evolved, originating in the need of defense against foreign aggressions, then through the tide of emigration westward from the mother States, and by the sanctification of the civil war. The provision of the Founders for free trade among the States has built up an internal commerce exceeding the entire foreign trade of the rest of the world; this has knit the people in ties of common interest, and has promoted the good understandings of frequent intercourse. Finally, the swift trains, the flashing telegraphic messages, the millions of telephonic communications, and all the marvelous inventions of the past century have served to reorganize the business and social life of the Nation without reference to State lines. Noting this transformation, Mr. ROOT observed:

> The people of the country are coming to the conclusion that in certain important respects the local laws of the separate States, which were adequate for the due and just regulation and control of the business which was transacted and the activity which began and ended within the limits of the several States, are inadequate for the due and just control of the business and activities which extend throughout all the States, and that such power of regulation and control is gradually passing into the hands of the National Government.

We have here two evils: The States have failed to recognize problems that in their nature require concerted action, since they overstep State lines; while the Central Government has few and delegated powers, inadequate by straining to cover every branch of human activities affected by the change in modern conditions.

Nor should Congress have fresh powers. Mr. SAMUEL W. MCCALL has shown this. In his speech before the Republican Club in this city Feb. 12, 1907, one month after Mr. ROOT's historic definition of the problem, Mr. MCCALL declared that even in the head and front of their offending—their improper creation and regulation of railroads and corporations—the States compare favorably with the Government at Washington, which was shaken to its base by the scandals of the Crédit Mobilier and the Union Pacific Railroad, constructed under its control. The corporation laws of the District of Columbia would "make a New Jerseyman blush." More searching and efficient than any Federal inquisition was that conducted by a State into the insurance abuses, and the States now control insurance activities better than they are controlled by Congress in the District of Columbia. The States, not the National Government, have enacted the best laws for the publication of campaign expenses. Massachusetts took the lead on labor legislation, and the other States have followed her lead.

Mr. ROOT and Mr. MCCALL are agreed that the States, each in the way most necessary for its people, can best attend to the vast and complex interests which knit them together. But how? Granted their present superiority to the Federal power in coping with the evils that infect these interests, it remains that abuses exist under which the whole Nation groans.

Mr. WILLIAM GEORGE JORDAN has supplied the only positive programme of which we are cognizant that will satisfy the demand for governmental efficiency. It is the programme of the House of Governors, meeting each year in conference upon questions that are not Federal in the sense that the Federal bodies have power to cope with them, nor State questions in the sense that the States as units can master them. The joint conference held in Washington last year between the Governors, the National Conservation Commission, and other bodies of influential citizens has already borne fruit of guidance to the State Legislatures. Most of them have since then provided committees on conservation of their own.

The States are apprised of wastes of natural resources over which the Government at Washington has no control. There is the daily waste of a billion cubic feet of natural gas, "enough to supply every city in the United States of over 100,000 population." There is the waste in coal—nearly three tons per capita each year, as against five tons consumed. A million a day is lost from fire that can be saved from fire. By the aid of the State Legislatures the area of cultivated land may be doubled and its fertility increased; swamps may be reclaimed and deserts irrigated. According to the court decisions of Maine and New Jersey the States may control in the public interest four-fifths of the standing timber of the country now growing in privately owned forests. Reforestation, equitable tax laws, the establishment of State fire patrols, and co-operation with private owners are the province of the States—there is no Federal solution to this vast problem of conserving the Nation's forests. The States, chiefly, will be depended on to conserve the water powers, enough of which are now wasted "to operate every mill, drive every spindle, propel every train and boat and light every city, town, and village in the country." And the States have power to effect the greatest saving of all, that which concerns the lives and health of the people. Our loss from preventable sickness is greater than can be estimated in money, but in money it is at least a billion and a half of dollars yearly.

These are a few of the subjects of first consequence to the Nation which a House of Governors can consider and on which they can base recommendations to their respective Legislatures. These questions may not be disposed of by the States separately without a loss of efficiency that is proving ruinous, and they cannot be treated by Congress. Most of the Governors have signified their approval of meetings annually to formulate plans of concerted action before preparing their legislative messages. Such a meeting has been planned to be held this coming January, either at Washington or at some State capital. Its convocation, if made regular, will be one of the healthiest signs of these troubled political times.

THE QUIET-SHOOTING GUN.

An improvement on the "noiseless gun," according to our neighbor The Herald, has been submitted to the military authorities by Mr. HIRAM PERCY MAXIM, its inventor. The weight of the "silencer" is considerably reduced, and "the device is less than one inch in diameter"—a reduction of about one-half. This makes the instrument more useful not only to the soldier, for whom the smokeless, flashless, noiseless gun is invaluable in warfare, but to the "pot" hunter, the burglar, and the assassin. For this improvement on Mr. MAXIM's original invention can, if we mistake not, be fitted successfully to a tight-breeched pistol—that is, to a pistol that is "gas tight" at the breech like a rifle.

Mr. MAXIM has hitherto answered the argument that the housebreaker who carries a "silencer" might shoot the inmates without fear of the report being heard by watchman or patrol with the counterstatement that, if fitted to a revolver of large calibre, the "silencer" would be too large for safe concealment on the person. But if he has now reduced its diameter to less than an inch on the heavy army rifle the impediment of size at once disappears, and, unless immediately made the subject of stringent legislation, the silent revolver will become the favorite tool of persons murderously inclined.

THE TIMES has repeatedly urged that, inasmuch as the "silencer" aids in notable degree the concealment of weapons, it should be subject to a statute making its manufacture, sale, or possession, save for strictly military purposes, illegal, felonious, and punishable by years of imprisonment. Assemblyman JOSEPH's bill, introduced at the last session with this end in view, should be reintroduced at the next session, and it should be passed.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Among the almost innumerable letters on the subject of marriage that have come to this office since we printed the evidently very interesting communications of the "Unclaimed Flower," few, if any, have seemed to us more moving or more significant than does one received yesterday from an outlying borough of this city. The writer of it signs her full name and address, and hints no desire for their suppression, but, for obvious reasons, both shall be omitted. After considerable deliberation it has seemed best to print the letter exactly as it was written, since its peculiarities tell much about the author, while they in no degree veil the sense. Here it is:

> Dear Editor: I have read with much interest the letters about marriage and if not taking too much room will give one woman's view from the side of the poor. I have been married many years was only seventeen my husband has always been a clerk never earned more than fifteen dollars a week often less. he has been out of work been sick and I have had to work to sell things and have never known what it was to be free from worry. we have six children and I never had the right kind of care in my life I never know what it is to have them all shoed and have rubbers at one time, never able to have a kiss for them without worry no Thanksgiving and all these things kill love I have four girls and I would rather lose them all by death than have them live the life of care I have had. I loved my husband when I married and never looked ahead more than we should always be together but now I almost hate him not for anything he has done but he had no right and no man should take a girl to wife when he has no way to take care of a family. I sometimes feel as if I could not stand it another day on Sat when I get my money and so much to do with it. I have not had a new thing in years my husband has hardly enough to look respectable. all for the need of a little money. I know ministers will get up in their pulpits Thursday and tell how grateful we ought to be but I am not grateful for health and a roof and food enough to keep life and clothes enough to cover us we ought to have that God put us here we had no choice and if he would send us some of the blessings I would be grateful and love him but he has sent me only trouble and no end of it in sight.

The question this letter raises, first, is, How numerous is the class which this weary, discouraged, and embittered woman represents? Not a few will be ready to tell her that in having had even the bare necessaries of life and none of its most tragic afflictions she should consider herself fortunate and find consolation in the fact that many have reason to envy her lot. She will be reminded, too, that in the lack of foresight for which she blames her husband she had her share—that she took him, voluntarily, for worse as well as for better. After all that, and more of the same kind, the Fact that she is as she is will remain, with the remedy for the Fact still to seek.

Frightened for No Reason.

For people who know anything about sanatoria and the effect which they have on the people and property near them, the fact that certain residents of Lakewood are making desperate efforts to prevent the establishment there of a temporary home for a few children who have been exposed to tubercular infection will be only another illustration of the hard and selfish cruelty which ignorant prejudice can produce.

Of course all those who are fighting the so-called preventorium are, theoretically and in the abstract, in favor of suppressing the "white plague," and not one of them would say a word against saving children now well from falling victims to it. But no part of the noble war must be waged in their own vicinity. Anywhere else it is all right, and more than all right, but they don't want to see anything of the battle, not because it is a terrible sight or because observers are likely to be hit by stray bullets, but because somebody told somebody who told them that these things are so. That the things are not so has been proved with respect to dozens and dozens of sanatoria for those actually tuberculous. In every instance the general death rate for miles and miles around such institutions has decreased on account of the knowledge of sanitation which they diffuse, and, more than that, elaborate investigation has proved that the real estate near them invariably rises in value.

Yet there would be no sanatoria at all for the tuberculous if local prejudice could, as it would, prevent the utilization for this purpose of any selected site. Until recently the law of this State made that prejudice effective, with the result that the campaign against consumption could not advance a foot until the law was changed and general instead of local sentiment became decisive. If the foes of the Lakewood "preventorium" have any care for the sort of place to be awarded them in medical history they may well pray for the speedy failure of their present efforts. Those efforts are worse than outrageous—they are absurd.

A Case for Capital Punishment.

If the actions of the chauffeur who ran down a young woman in upper Broadway Tuesday evening were as described by the excited people who saw them, his conduct was marked by a brutal criminality surpassing anything that has hitherto been proved or even charged against reckless and vicious drivers of automobiles.

According to unanimous report, when the fellow found that the injured girl's clothing was entangled in the wheels or guards of his machine, instead of alighting and releasing her, he tried again and again by sudden startings and stoppings of the car to tear it loose from the screaming victim. Before he succeeded he had dragged her almost a block from the point where the "accident" occurred, thus adding much to the number and severity of her wounds. But he did succeed at last, and, rushing off into the darkness at full speed, he attained the object for which he was willing to commit murder—the avoidance of immediate arrest.

For doing vastly less than this at least one chauffeur is now serving a long prison sentence, and others have suffered less, but still heavy, penalties. The punishment deserved by the driver of that big black limousine, trimmed with silver, it would be hard to say—and even harder to say that death would be too severe. He is at least as much guilty of murder as is the midnight burglar who shoots and kills when discovered by the householder whom he is robbing.

JUDGES' SALARIES

Now Compare Favorably with a Practicing Lawyer's Income of $25,000.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent discussion respecting the proposition to increase the salaries of the Justices of the Supreme Court in this county invites attention to the salaries that they already receive and to the method which we have adopted for their selection.

The salary of each Justice was nominally $17,500, but each Justice is provided with a clerk and with an office at the expense of the city. All his current expenses in the discharge of his current duties are also paid by the city. In fact, therefore, the salary of the Justices is as much as an income of $25,000 would be to a practicing lawyer. The expense of carrying on his business upon the basis of that income would be at least $7,500. It is not too much to say that probably not one of the Justices who has been elected to the Supreme Court in this county within the last ten years ever received when he was at the bar an average annual income of $25,000.

Our method of selection, on the whole, puts mediocre men on the bench. The politicians who make the selection of candidates do not realize the importance of the position, and the people pay little attention to it. In the last election, for example, the Fusion Committee, no doubt with the best intentions, devoted its principal attention to the candidates for executive offices. The bar, almost without exception, was of opinion that the Democratic candidates were the abler men and in all respects better qualified for the office of Judge of the Supreme Court. Many of the most prominent members of the bar signed letters to this effect, which were published in all the newspapers. To these letters the great majority of voters paid no attention. The consequence was that the candidates best qualified were defeated.

Under the Federal system of appointment by the President we get Judges of greater ability and experience, who dispatch business more promptly and efficiently, and whose salaries are only half what are paid in the State courts. True, the salaries in the Federal courts are disgracefully low, but notwithstanding this the honor of the position and the fact that a man who is qualified to fill it does not have to seek a nomination from a political convention has enabled the President to make these appointments from among lawyers of experience and ability.

It would seem that this experience ought to convince our people that the method prescribed by the Constitution of the United States is better for the people than that adopted in 1846 in the State of New York. A CITIZEN.

CHIVALRY IN THE SUBWAY.

Yields Seat to Some of Opposite Sex, but Not to All.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter by "K. S." in THE TIMES of Nov. 24, dealing with the "Decay of Chivalry," demands an answer from one of the "chronic offenders" in this respect.

I am an agent, on my feet from 8 A. M. till 6 P. M. day after day. When I take the Subway at 6 o'clock I am just about ready to drop to the ground. I live "'way up in the Bronx," and take the train at Wall Street. To stand all that distance would practically unfit me for the next day's work. Yet when an old woman or one with a baby, heavy bundle, &c., in her arms enters the car I invariably give up my seat—if I happen to have captured one myself! But when one of those young girls gets into the car, places herself directly in front of my seat, and looks down at me as if to say: "Well, why the deuce don't you get out of your seat?" I harden my heart against femininity in general and "fresh girls" in particular. Some five years ago I was different. I got up every time for any member of the feminine sex, (I had just come from Europe, where politeness of that kind is almost obligatory;) the only thanks I ever got for submitting to the inconvenience of standing in a swaying train for some twelve or thirteen miles was generally a perfunctory nod of the head, followed by sotto voce remarks to "her" companion about my personal appearance.

That settled me after a while. If a woman is weak, tired, so that you can notice it, or old, she can have my seat every time, but skylarking, gum-chewing girls in their teens can better afford to stand a little than a middle-aged man who has to run around streets and up stairs for ten hours a day.

The West Indian Sufferers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our hearts have just been thrilled with a sense of deeply felt sympathy for the many, many sufferers of the terrible hurricane which, for over a week, has wrought havoc in Santo Domingo, Haiti, and fair Jamaica. The whole Cibao Valley, in the northern part of Santo Domingo (the Hispaniola of old, where Christopher Colomb first landed on the 12th of October, 1492,) with the beautiful city and port of Puerto Plata, has been devastated by heavy, continued tropical rains, which destroyed the Central Dominican Railroad, reducing the population to dire sufferings. It appears from direct, reliable reports, that the damages amount to over $3,000,000.

In the near-by French-speaking Haiti, the district of Port de Paix has suffered equally, though not so extensively.

Fair Jamaica, the garden spot of the Antilles, with enchanting resorts like Kingston, Port Antonio and others, the yearly Mecca of our tourists, has been swept by the cyclone, from one end to the other, with incalculable losses.

Here is a new opportunity for our kind-hearted Commonwealth to help cheerfully and generously, for prompt relief from such unexpected calamity.

I suggest that any offered amount be immediately forwarded to the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C., which accepts contributions at any time, and distributes them wisely, as it happened recently, for relief of the flooded districts of Mexico.

ALEXANDER E. BARTHE, Ph. D.

New York, Nov. 24, 1909.

P. S.—Each contributor should mention this paper, and notify the Red Cross Association that his offering is to be allotted to the West Indies sufferers.

Thanks for Offerings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The members and officers of the Island League wish to take this means of thanking the kind friends who so generously responded to the appeal in THE TIMES of Nov. 14 and sent so many magazines, books, &c.

We would like to extend special thanks to the persons who sent the large box of lithographs, calendars, frames, &c.; also Mr. W. R. for the $10 check; Misses I. L. and J. L. for $5 each, and also for the $5 sent anonymously from Post Office Station E.

They may feel sure many hearts will be gladdened by their generosity.

Children Living in Institutions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have observed that children living for some years in institutions, and who are at the ages of 14 and 16, expected to be self-supporting, appear to have had little or no education, and with few exceptions qualify only for positions of menial service.

Can you tell me whether there are educational requirements by the State in these institutions under whose supervision they come, whether they are regularly inspected, and whether the education given in Catholic and other church charity schools is under the city or State supervision? L. G.

COLLECTIVE HALLUCINATIONS.

Admits Them, but They Do Not Contradict a Spiritistic Theory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial note in to-day's TIMES regarding possible hallucinations in the Paladino case leads me to say one or two things which place the matter between two extremes.

I quite agree with the writer that it is extremely improbable that collective hallucinations would take place to any such extent as would be implied in explaining either that case or any other by such an hypothesis. I did not put it forward with that in view. I wanted to insist that there is a mental side for that subject on the side of observers as well as the medium, which must be taken into account in proving whether any genuine physical phenomena occur at all or not. It is an evidential question. Lombroso remarked with the support of his colleague an experiment where there was undoubted collective hallucination of a very remarkable sort in the Paladino case, and I quote Lombroso because this may have its value when we would not attach so much importance to other statements of his, but in the Lambert case, which I published last year, there was a whole group of undoubted collective hallucinations. The English Society for Psychical Research proved beyond question that in certain forms of telepathic coincidence—whatever the term "telepathy" means—hallucinations accompanied them, and they have also shown a number of cases of collective hallucination in spite of the probabilities against them. The existence of such hallucinations was well attested by a large group of observers—very intelligent men—in connection with the experiences of the Rev. Stainton Moses.

Now, this does not mean that we shall be obliged to explain all the phenomena by any such hypothesis, but that we must reckon with it in discriminating between what may be better attested phenomena and those which would seem to the unexperienced psychologist to be real.

To me the most important point to consider in the question of collective hallucinations is that the hypothesis explaining them will not contradict with a spiritistic theory. They may be what we call veridical hallucinations, which means that they are co-ordinated with an extra-organic stimulus, while what we call subjective hallucinations are co-ordinated with intra-organic stimuli, and on that account do not correspond with an external reality. The theory of veridical hallucinations coincides with what we know about our sensations in normal life, and hence consists more easily with the existing body of knowledge than phenomena which seem to contravene the ordinary law of physics—namely, that objects will not move without contact.

There is one decided limitation to this law, and this is in the very large field of magnetism, so that we cannot say that movement is absolutely and universally dependent on contact. It is only a question of whether we can find a familiar cause that will account for actual facts which might be proved. That familiar cause must be either a physical force or some energy like that of our own mind in moving the organism of the body. If definite intelligence be associated with the production of independent physical phenomena you must resort to some extraordinary explanation either in the mind of the medium or in spirits or in the co-operation of both. To me a spirit is nothing but a mental state with a memory—a function of some sort of energy—and if it had been in the habit of moving matter during its life in the body it might be able under proper conditions to move even inorganic matter after death, providing it survives. It is right in the direction of determining whether there is any such thing as mental energy after death that we must seek the solution of this problem.

Browning Misapplied?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in your report of the funeral service for Mr. W. M. Laffan that the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, among the beautiful and significant passages he cited from the prophets and sages of the world bearing upon the true view of death and the hope of a continuing and fulfilling future life used a passage from Browning's "Paracelsus." This passage, however, has no such reference as its citation in this instance implies. Other lines of this great poem have splendid bearing on the matter, but not these. In these the reference is to the great mystic's posthumous reputation, and the changes that would come in men's opinions of him in so far as these were adverse and derogatory. This will be seen if the passage be read with its preceding context.

> "Meanwhile, I have done well, though not all well.
> As yet men cannot do without contempt;
> 'Tis for their good, and therefore fit awhile
> That they reject the weak, and scorn the false,
> Rather than praise the strong and true, in me:
> But after, they will know me. If I stoop
> Into a dark tremendous sea of cloud,
> It is but for a time; I press God's lamp
> Close to my breast; its splendor, soon or late,
> Will pierce the gloom: I shall emerge one day."

The Fate of Coal Miners.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not the paramount duty of the lawmaker to pass an act to curb the cupidity of owners of coal mines? They owe it to the men who work in their mines to put back part of the wealth these workers produce in safety appliances, reducing the risk of mining to a minimum. Thousands of lives are lost every year in the coal mines, making widows by the hundreds and orphans by the thousands. Most of these can be charged to the employers.

We enforce the application of safety devices of every kind upon land and sea, and permit the workers under ground to risk their lives in the work of bringing to the surface a material the want of which would paralyze all industry and bring hardship and suffering upon millions of humanity that live and toil above ground. Is it right to exact such a penalty?

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

Some Remarks Thereon by Mr. Si Peters of Queshawkett.

Read Bill's Proclamation?
  Yes I hev, by Heck!
Glad to hear Good Fortune's
  Got us by the neck.
Hain't seen much round these parts—
  Things is sort of slow,
But Bill's been round the circle,
  And guess he'd ought to know.

Hoss has got the glanders,
  Got 'em mighty bad,
Had 'em twice, but these is Worst he ever had.
Hain't been workin' lately,
  Sort o' slack o' dough—
But Bill's been round the circle,
  And guess he'd ought to know.

Bought some shares in minin'—
  Copper stock, and sitch,
Had a kind o' notion
  I'd be gettin' rich,
But the promised pan-out
  Doesn't seem to go—
But Bill's been round the circle,
  And guess he'd ought to know.

Store teeth doesn't fit me,
  Cider's come out thin,
Bet a dime on Bobtail—
  Bobtail hain't come in!
Bank account looks measley,
  Spirits kind of low—
But Bill's been round the circle,
  And guess he'd ought to know.

Bill says, "Come, be thankful!"
  I says, "Here I be!"
Bill says, "All is lovely,"
  I says, "Rah for me!"
Bill he gives the order
  "Git your horn and blow!"
So you hear me tootin'—
  Guess Bill'd ought to know!

THE HUSBAND'S HABITS.

The Wife Should Not Cling to the Idea of Changing Them.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Listen just a moment to the old family doctor. I have known girls of sterling worth who were not coquettish enough even to keep the heels of their shoes blacked or to see that their lips were moist on windy days. They were hopeless, no matter whether their systems of philosophy included the cultivation of negative or of positive imaginations. I have known other girls who had no charms so far as other women could see, but who have been happily married three times and a half, and who could do the same thing right over again up to the age of seventy. Some of the very finest women of my acquaintance have remained unmarried because of devotion to aged parents or other relatives, and if I were to begin life again my hunt for a wife would begin with this class, which shows prima facie evidence of unselfishness, but which is generally overlooked.

As a matter of fact, it is the women who should do the hunting for husbands, and not wait for the knights to come to them. The hunting can be done very nicely if you please and without the least bit of loss of feminine caste.

One recent writer advises girls that when they marry a man they are simply marrying a bunch of habits, and she proceeds to tell them how to manage the man. She will make a failure of it, because in spite of the best of intentions there is in her subjective mind the persistent idea of changing the man and managing him. In the good old times the man sought the woman. Right now, under the conditions of modern life, the man has to become a mass of habits in order to make successful adaptation to his environment. Incidentally he must have certain necessary habits of comfort, the need for which may not be apparent to his wife, but which are the outcome of his experience.

The successful marrying woman makes a study of these comforts and does not lay plans insidiously to cut them off one by one. The man has a hard fight with the world. He does not mind it any more than he minds the knocks of a football game so long as he knows that when he reaches home there will be some one who thinks him the best man in the world. All day long he has had to meet the opposite idea, and he does not want to meet it in the evening also. I admit that women ought to change everything, but advise them not to begin with their husbands. The average man is always seeking ideals and trying to emulate the example of better men than himself. He will work the problem out in his own way, but more rapidly if he has the cheerful confidence of an unselfish wife. He wants to know that at least one person says she has confidence in him, even though she is in doubt (by herself) at times.

Do not breathe it to a soul, girls, but, to your nice way, let a man understand that you would like to see his family name perpetuated and your own charms transmitted to beautiful and clever daughters. That will be a double grappling hook. Mind what I tell you, for it comes from one who knows.

Further, you must be kittens. A man is the king of beasts, and your lion will not roar unless he knows that in the jungle there is a dear lioness who will purr with him when the chase is over. He does not go back into the jungle to seek a rival in prowess.

Do not be too dignified to "gently place your hand upon a man's coat sleeve." Place your hand there softly and with affection if it is really in your heart, and when you touch him and say, "You're it," notice how quickly he takes up his part of that old-fashioned game. DOCTOR.

THE UNCOURTED ONE.

Reaches the Conclusion That She and Her Letters Are Contentious.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I tell "Unclaimed Flower" about another lady whom I have observed for many years? She is good-looking, in comfortable circumstances, educated and accomplished. She has grown up with a number of brothers and sisters, and is in every way entitled to be sought by a similarly placed man; that is, a "gentleman" who seeks not alone pink cheeks and baby talk, and who would resent immodesty or palpable flattery, these being mentioned because they have come up in the correspondence in your columns.

But the lady is opinionated and argumentative. Her brothers and sisters couldn't take it out of her because it is ingrained, though they are often silenced—or silent. She arranges an affair in her own mind, advances innumerable and unanswerable arguments about it, establishes a perfect Q. E. D., and is blissfully (or painfully) unconscious that she could use her brains to much better advantage another way.

That the cases are parallel I judge simply from the "Flower's" own letters.

That she came out "in print" with a list of her attractions and the query why they didn't attract tells a lot. Her first letter was interesting; her second settled the matter, to my mind. She learned nothing from any of her correspondents, even from the wise "Topics" man, though in all were the grains of truth as it appeared to the various writers. I will gamble that she is at heart pleased with herself and her attainments, and most of all with her clear-sightedness, her ability to lay down the law and back it up by argument. Her pride absolutely forbids her to coax.

Believe me, Flower, "all things are right, but all things are not expedient." The types of men are varied; select the type you want and then study with an open mind what pleases that particular type.

Again believe me, no type is to be won or held by demolition in argument. Discussion is one thing and contention another. A desirable Provider of the Household has all the contest and argument he cares for in his business. He looks for a house where he may relax and rest and obtain sustenance, mental and bodily, to fit him for another daily battle. By so much as he gets what he looks for—and that varies with the individual—by so much the more will he value and provide for it. Life is too short and unsatisfactory for anything else. S. DAVIDS.

Views of a Bachelor.

From The New York Evening Journal.

Writing to a newspaper, (THE NEW YORK TIMES,) a young woman, who says she has brains, darkly prophesies a future for herself as an old maid.

"I am liked, even loved," she says, "till my brains become evident. What my lovers want is a nice little kitten that can purr—yes, and scratch, now and then, just to make life interesting."

So this young woman, because she has brains, believes that she will be compelled to go through life unprotected and alone, while purring and [illegible] kittens, with sharp claws hidden beneath seductive velvet paws, obtain a monopoly of wedded bliss.

In supplying comfort and encouragement to this pessimistic young person we also address all capable and intelligent maidens who fear that their brains [illegible] that a woman [illegible].

Any girl who thinks she [illegible] driven away [illegible] brains make a serious mistake.

It is perfectly true that most men prefer to think themselves the intellectual superiors of their wives, and no clever woman [illegible] ever permitted [illegible] clever she [illegible].

Instead, she apparently looks up to him, admires his [illegible] chin, and [illegible] ever suspect [illegible] the matter [illegible].

Such a woman, after she becomes a wife, continues to direct her husband's [illegible] thoughts, opinions, and [illegible] while he imagines [illegible] driving him toward success—his resistless will that is [illegible].

Could you look into the lives of a half dozen important men in [illegible] you how, unaided [illegible] come opposition [illegible] fame and [illegible] wives.

But their wives know better. Proud of their husbands, and [illegible] understand [illegible] ment it has [illegible] success.

A Flower Claimed.

And now I proffer thanks sincere
  That no unclaimed Flower am I!
Can I be she who but last year
  Held up the wall as he danced by?

He spied me out, and quickly found
  That to support I was then prone;
Then why the wall, with him around?
  And so he took me for his own.

Dance on, O Rose and Violet sweet,
  You may not [illegible]
Dance on, light, metaphoric feet;
  The useful Wallflower's always sought.

HER SOCIAL CLUB KILLED BY QUARRELS

HOST TO MANY NOTABLES

Mrs. Waldo Left Entertainment Club After Mrs. Hitchcock Criticised Her Costume—Mrs. Hanan Followed.

Its President, Mrs. Roswell D. Hitchcock, having gone to India to study occultism, the once well-known Entertainment Club, which was host in its career of four years at the Waldorf-Astoria to many of the notables in the United States and some of Europe, has passed out of existence. The end of the famous club came after dissensions forced many of its members to withdraw.

In two of its historic quarrels Mrs. Rhinelander Waldo and Mrs. John H. Hanan of 37 Madison Avenue figured. They quarreled with Mrs. Hitchcock and withdrew from the club, taking several other members with them. Then Mrs. Hitchcock, according to a woman who remained in the organization to the last, tried to get the members interested in a lecture syndicate. The members did not enthuse, and Mrs. Hitchcock departed for India, leaving the club she had created to go its way.

Mrs. Hitchcock left for India on Nov. 1, but she kept the news of her departure quiet, and it did not leak out until yesterday. How long she is to be gone and whether she is to revive the club upon her return no one who was asked yesterday could tell.

The Entertainment Club jumped into prominence right after its formation. Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of ex-President Roosevelt, usually presided at its meetings. Among the guests which the club has entertained have been Secretary of the Navy Moody, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Admiral and Mrs. Winfield Scott Schley, Francis G. Higginson, Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce, Count and Countess Cassini, Admiral Sigsbee, and Speaker Cannon.

The first trouble which the club encountered came about a year ago when Mrs. Hitchcock criticised the dress which Mrs. Rhinelander Waldo wore at one of its functions. Mrs. Waldo resigned immediately after accusing the President of trying to run the club with too high a hand. The next resignation came when Mrs. Hanan left the club.

Regularly after that other members dropped out until only a few of the stanchest adherents were left. During the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Mrs. Hitchcock attempted to arrange an exclusive luncheon on board one of the British battleships, but the scheme fell through, and it was the last entertainment the club attempted. Right after that Mrs. Hitchcock prepared to go to India, and no more meetings were held.

Mrs. Hitchcock is the widow of a United State naval officer and draws a pension from the Government. She is an extensive traveler and has written several books on travel. She has also appeared in many cities as a lecturer. On one of her expeditions she acquired mines in the Klondike. She said she befriended a miner in the Klondike, who informed her that a treasure of $33,000,000 was located on the Island of Cocos, southwest of Paname. In March, 1906, Mrs. Hitchcock announced her intention of forming an expedition to go in search of it. This was the same treasure for which Lord Fitzwilliam unsuccessfully searched.

MORRISTOWN ASSEMBLY BALL.

Golf Club's House Decorated with Stalks of Corn and Pumpkins.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 24.—The first of the season's assembly balls was given this evening at the Morris County Golf Club, and despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance. The ballroom and adjacent rooms of the clubhouse were appropriately decorated for the season, stalks of corn, with pumpkins, apples, carrots, squashes, and other reminders of Thanksgiving being included in the decorative scheme.

The patronesses were all present, and included Mrs. George G. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Robert Dumont Foote, Mrs. Frederick Winston Merrell, Mrs. Albert H. Vernam, Mrs. David Hunter McAlpin, second, Mrs. Archibald Forbes, Mrs. Ridley Watts, Mrs. William Shippen, Mrs. William Stark Letchford, Mrs. Robert H. McCurdy, Mrs. Wynant D. Vanderpool, Mrs. Robert A. Grannis, Mrs. John I. Waterbury, Mrs. Henry Shaw, Mrs. Alexander Torrance, and Mrs. Elbert S. Kip.

Previous to the ball many dinner parties were given, including several at the club. Among those entertaining there were Mr. and Mrs. William S. Letchford, who had sixteen guests; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Philip H. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Torrance, and Mr. and Mrs. Wynant D. Vanderpool, each having ten guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Ellings.

Abrahams, a brother of Mr. Abrahams. The golden wedding ceremony will be celebrated by the Rev. Dr. Tintner, assisted by the Rev. Cantor Catschmann. About 150 guests will be present, among whom will be Congressman Goldfogle.

Mr. Abrahams was born in Germany and emigrated to this country fifty-three years ago. He was for a long time governor of the B'nai Brith House in Yonkers, and has long been identified with Jewish charity organizations.

PRIEST AIDS POLICE.

Father Curry Got Evidence Leading to Alleged Cocaine Vendor's Arrest.

Health Inspector Hugh H. Masterson, the Rev. Father Curry, pastor of St. James's Church, in James Street, and Capt. Day of the Eldridge Street Police Station joined forces on Tuesday night to suppress the cocaine traffic.

While Father Curry was not actually in the raid on a place near Chatham Square, he aided the police in getting the evidence, and he was in the Essex Market Court yesterday to press the charge of selling the drug against three prisoners. Capt. Day told Magistrate Breen that the place where they found the men was covered by a poolroom protected by a Supreme Court injunction. The hope was expressed of having the injunction dissolved.

"Ever since the law went into effect prohibiting the indiscriminate sale of cocaine by drug stores," said Father Curry in court, "men have trafficked in the drug on the streets, particularly in Chatham Square, which is in my parish. I have seen the terrible effects of the drug among some of my own parishioners, and I have appealed to the judges of the Court of General Sessions to impose the severest punishment possible under the law, the maximum being one year, and $1,000 fine. The judges have usually given the full year sentence, but this seems only a sleeping period for the fiends, and next year I hope an amendment will be passed by the Legislatre making the punishment from three to five years.

"The police have been vigilant, but in spite of their efforts the drug has been sold on a wholesale scale in Chatham Square, and I make a special plea that the court co-operate with the police to the fullest extent in suppressing the sales there, and then my parish, in which I have waged a relentless crusade against the drug habit, will be clean."

One of the prisoners, Thomas Kennedy, of 23 Bowery, was held by Magistrate Breen in $1,000 bail for trial, while the other two prisoners, who said they were John Dydrich of 519 West Forty-ninth street, and Enrice Paguili, 19 years old, of 95 Pike street, were held in $100 as witnesses.

Little Schoolgirls Run Down and One Mortally Injured.

One little girl was probably mortally injured and two others sustained slight hurts yesterday when, on their way to school with other little ones, they were knocked down and dragged by a runaway horse in Dumont Avenue, near Sackman Street, East New York.

Sarah Kratzer, 14 years old, of 180 Thatford Avenue, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in a critical condition. She had sustained lacerations of the head and body, there were indications that she was injured internally, and her spine was injured. Her death was expected last night.

Esther Rosenblum of the same age and address, sustained cuts and severe bruises, and was also taken to the hospital, but later was taken to her home by her tparents.

Nettie Abelbaum, 14 years old, of 203 Thatford Avenue, sustained lacerations of the face and hands and possible internal injuries, but will recover.

Scores of other children escaped injury by a narrow margin when, just as they were making their way toward School 109, at Dumont Avenue and Sackman Street, for the afternoon session, the runaway appeared. The driver, Max Palmetta of 412 Williams Avenue, was thrown from his seat.

The three little girls walking across the street arm in arm did not see their peril until the horse was almost upon them. After hitting them the runaway dashed on with a crowd of men in pursuit, and was captured a mile away by Mounted Policeman William Rogers of the Liberty Avenue Station.

COLLEGE CRY FOR JUSSERAND.

City Students Startle the French Ambassador—Their Guest.

Ambassador Jusserand of France was the guest of City College yesterday at a reception that began at 2 o'clock and lasted till after 5. More than 2,500 students who had crowded the great hall cheered his address with the college yell and three "Jusserands." The yell startled the Ambassador a bit, but he smiled at his fright a second later.

The Ambassador had an opportunity to witness how much interest is taken in the study of his language at the college, for the greater part of the programme consisted of French addresses of welcome, excerpts from Corneille and Moliere's plays, and French recitations and French music by the students.

President Finley welcomed the Ambassador on behalf of the Faculty, and he was followed by Frederic Coudert, who welcomed him on behalf of the Board of Education.

In his address Ambassador Jusserand urged the study of foreign languages, saying they were the keys to the storehouses of all times. He spoke of his recent trip throughout the United States, and said:

"I admired the undescribable, the unique beauty of certain of your landscapes which have no parallel in the world, but I admired more the power of your men."

He spoke of the marvelous rebuilding of San Francisco as an example of this.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, who gave the exchange lectures at the Sorbonne last year, in an address on the colleges of France and the United States, said that what American universities might learn from those of France was teaching their youth how to think.

Fair for St. John's Day Nursery.

A bazaar for the benefit of St. John's Day Nursery is to be held on the afternoon and evening of Dec. 15 in the nursery at 223 East Sixty-seventh Street. A feature of the bazaar will be a Punch and Judy show in the afternoon for children. There will also be a tea room, candy, flower, and various fancy booths, and other attractions. Mrs. Albert Gould Jennings, Mrs. James Traynor, and the Misses Crimmins will be in charge of one fancy booth, and another will be in charge of P. J. Cuskley, Monahan Barron, Mrs. George Gillespie, Miss Katherine McCann, the Misses O'Brien and Lalor.

Social Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Rae H. Rogers (Miss Marguerite Walker) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter about a fortnight ago. Mrs. Rogers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker, Jr., and Mr. Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Rogers, the newcomer being the first grandchild to both sets of grandparents.

Mrs. J. Francis Aloysius Clark will give a luncheon of twenty covers on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at her residence, 13 East Thirty-eighth Street.

Miss Dorothy Bigelow, Mrs. Clark's sister, is spending the Winter in London at 62 Chester Square, with Mrs. Poultney Bigelow.

Mrs. Joseph F. Stillman's coming-out reception for her daughter, Miss Lisa Stillman, on Dec. 3, will be followed by a large dinner, and the guests will then go to Sherry's to attend the dance for Miss Isabel Hoyt.

An authors' dialect reading is to be given by Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart, at the home of Eugene Delano, 12 Washington Square, on Dec. 6, at 4 o'clock, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Union Settlement. The proceeds are to go toward paying for a trained nurse for the Settlement. The patronesses include Mrs. Robert De Forest, Mrs. Cleveland Dodge, Mrs. Edward Harkness, and Mrs. Arthur James.

The annual fair for the benefit of the Manhattan Working Girls' Club and Kindergarten at 440 East Fifty-seventh Street will be held on the afternoon and evening of Friday, Dec. 3, at the Plaza.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt are among those returning to-day on the Koenig Albert.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer have returned to town from Newport.

Mrs. William Grosvenor and the Misses Grosvenor have gone to Providence for the Winter.

The annual costume dinner of the Salmagundi Club will be held on Monday, Nov. 29.

Mrs. Henry Siegel has cards out for bridge parties at her residence, 26 East Eighty-second Street, on Dec. 10 and Dec. 17.

Mrs. Edward R. Ladew will give a reception on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at the Plaza, to introduce her daughter, Miss Elise Wall Ladew.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles's Son Married to Late William B. Noble's Daughter in Washington.

MISS CUSHMAN A BRIDE

Wedded to D. H. Coddington in the Church of the Transfiguration—Cooper-Gibson Wedding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The marriage of Miss Yulee Noble, only daughter of the late William Belden Noble of this city, to Lieut. Sherman Miles, U. S. A., only son of Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, brought to St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, to-day the most fashionable company of the season. The rector, the Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith officiated, with the entire choir rendering the nuptial music. The bride, a debutante of just two years ago, was escorted by her uncle, Wickliff Yulee, and preceded by the following bridesmaids: Miss Joanna Schroeder, Miss Elizabeth Parker, Miss Evelyn Chew, Miss Mary Scott, Miss Margaret Preston Draper, and Miss Trythenia Reed, the latter, like the bride, a granddaughter of the late Senator Yulee of Florida.

Colgate Hoyt, Jr., of New York, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Percy Weeks and Sherman Hoyt, both of New York; Lieut. Philip Matthews, U. S. A.; Chauncey Hackett, and William Emory, Jr., of Washington.

The fashionable assemblage presented a brilliant appearance, as not only the bridegroom but all the officers present appeared in full uniform.

The bride's gown was of rich white satin with enormously long train, and the bodice and sides of the smooth fitting skirt covered in old lace. Her veil was of tulle and her bouquet of white orchids.

The maids were gowned alike in white liberty satin made with full skirts and round bodices, the former with trains of eighteen inches and the latter finished by a bretelle effect of gold lace with girdle of gold tissue, which ended in two long sash ends in the back. Their hats were beret shaped affairs of white velvet.

In addition to Gen. Miles and Mrs. Noble the immediate relatives present were Major and Mrs. Samuel Reber, the latter the bridegroom's sister, with their two small sons, Colgate Hoyt and the Misses Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wiborg and the Misses Wiborg, and Miss Sara Sherman, all of New York; Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Wise of Baltimore, Dr. Wallace Neff, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Harlan, Chief Justice Fuller of the United Supreme Court and his daughters, Mrs. Nathaniel Francis, General and Mrs. Gilmore and Miss Gilmore, General and Mrs. Draper, Mrs. Seaton Schroeder and Miss Schroeder, the Chinese Minister and Mme. Wu, Mrs. Stanley Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Audenried, Miss Alma Ruggles, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Oliver, Miss Oliver, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clover, Miss Clover, Mr. and Mrs. James Marion Johnston and Miss Johnston, Miss Jean Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Gaff, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ridgely, and Miss Morgan.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Noble entertained the bridal party, relatives, and closest friends of the two young people at breakfast at her home on N Street, Lieut. Miles and his bride leaving early in the afternoon for a honeymoon trip of ten days before taking up their residence at Fort Myer, where the former is stationed.

MISS CUSHMAN WEDS.

Becomes the Bride of D. H. Coddington—Reception at Gotham.

The wedding of Dave Hennen Coddington, son of Mrs. Charles E. Coddington, and Miss Violet Cushman, daughter of Mrs. Williams Perkins Draper by her first marriage, took place yesterday afternoon in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration. Roses and chrysanthemums adorned the chancel and other parts of the church. The Rev. Dr. George C. Houghton officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Gotham, where Mrs. Draper makes her home.

Miss Cushman wore white satin trimmed with old lace and orange blossoms. Her veil was of old rose point lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret Wright of Philadelphia was maid of honor. She wore yellow satin and a yellow hat trimmed with fur. She carried yellow roses and orchids.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Gertrude Cheever, Cornelia Hoyt, Angelica Brown, Mary Gillette, Susan Fish Dresser, and Miss Maude Gwynne Shepherd of this city, wore pink chiffon over pink satin and brown velvet hats trimmed with fur. All carried white roses.

Frederick T. Frelinghuysen was Mr. Coddington's best man, and the ushers were Latham Gallup Reed, R. M. Minton, Theodore Jones, Havemeyer Butt, Harold W. Howe, Frank M. Chadbourne, and Woodbury Seamons.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Coddington will live at Pelham Manor, N. Y.

Mr. Coddington is the brother of Miss Kathleen L. Inslee Coddington, whose marriage to George de St. Clair Stevenson of the Royal West Kent Regiment will be held abroad in the late Spring.

Among the guests invited to the wedding were Mrs. Coddington, mother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. J. Maurice Butler, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford A. Cochran, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Cary Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Howland Davis, Miss Lucy Frelinghuysen, Mr. and Mrs. Pierrepont Edwards, David Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. ## CHALLENGE TO HAMMERSTEIN.

Dippel Will Donate Receipts if Statements About Metropolitan Are True.

Andreas Dippel, the Administrative Manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, made still another statement last night in regard to opera in Philadelphia.

"While I do not desire in any wise to engage in any newspaper controversy with Mr. Hammerstein," he said, "yet, in order to show the recklessness and absurdity of Mr. Hammerstein's remarks to the effect:

"That the Metropolitan Opera Company's performances in Philadelphia cost just one-half a performance of what his cost.

"That they cost just one-half of the guaranty which the Metropolitan Opera Company is obtaining.

"We are willing to submit our books for examination by any certified public accountant in Philadelphia, and we invite Mr. Hammerstein to do likewise. If, upon the examination of our books and Mr. Hammerstein's, it is found that the aforesaid statements made by Mr. Hammerstein are correct, then we agree to donate the entire receipts of last night's performance to one or more Philadelphia charities.

"As to the 'little cartload' of singers, to use Mr. Hammerstein's expression, which the Metropolitan Opera Company transported to Philadelphia for last night's performance, it consisted of 9 soloists, 93 members of the orchestra, 76 members of the chorus, 47 stage hands, mechanics, and members of the staff outside of the regular employes, supers, &c., in Philadelphia. No ballet was used in the performance of last night because the score does not call for it; otherwise we would have had forty or fifty additional persons in the company."

LIGHT OPERA SEASON FAILS.

Hammerstein to Abandon Comique Performances in Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24. — Oscar Hammerstein's opera comique season here is a failure. He announced to-night that the last performance would be given Friday night in the following statement:

"The last performance of opera comique in Philadelphia, 'Les Dragons de Villars,' will take place Friday evening. The subscription for boxes for these performances has been so unsatisfactory that the cessation of this delightful entertainment, accompanied, however, by heavy expenses for transportation, becomes a regrettable necessity as far as Philadelphia is concerned. In New York the performance of opera comique will be continued indefinitely three times a week instead of twice as heretofore."

Only four performances in all will have been given—"La Fille de Madame Angot," "La Mascotte," twice, and "Les Dragons de Villars."

Mme. de Ahna's Recital.

Mme. Leontine de Ahna gave a song recital last evening in Mendelssohn Hall, in which she sang songs in German, English, and French, by Schubert, Brahms, Weingartner, and Wolf, Edgar and MacDowell, Faure and Vidal among others. Mr. Kurt Schindler played her accompaniments.

Dudley M. Watson.

Dudley M. Watson, for several years a reporter on the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES and of other newspapers here, died yesterday in Colorado Springs of consumption after a long fight against the disease. Before going to Colorado he spent a year in the Adirondacks. He leaves a widow and two children in New Orleans, where much of his early newspaper work was done.

Mr. Watson came of an old Southern family. As a reporter, he was the author of several newspaper stories, the work in which readers of THE TIMES found much to commend. Notable among them was his graphic account of the death in Long Island marshes of Paul Nocquet, the sculptor and aeronaut, and the gruesome midnight journey in which his body was recovered.

Joseph Everard.

Joseph Everard, a retired brewer, died on Tuesday at his home, 27 West 132d Street, of heart failure. He had been ill only a week. Mr. Everard was born in Dublin in 1842 and came to New York when he was 14 years of age. For a time he was in the contracting business with his brother James, but about twenty-five years ago the brothers established a small brewery, which gradually grew to be one of the largest in the country. For several years Mr. Everard was a member of Fire Engine Company 31 and of the Volunteer Fire Department. He retained his membership in the latter organization until his death. Several years ago he retired from the brewery business, having acquired a large fortune. He was a Catholic and was active in church affairs. He leaves three sons and three daughters.

George Hay Brown.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—George Hay Brown, who laid out the grounds surrounding the Capitol and the White House, died at his home here yesterday of pneumonia. Mr. Brown was Superintendent of the Botanic Garden. Since 1870 he had been in the employ of the Government in Washington. He was reputed to be more conversant with the writings of Burns the poet than any other living man, and had made a practically complete collection of Burns's works and Burns's criticisms, biographies, and sketches.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. GEORGIANNA COLGATE STONE of 524 Fifth Avenue, widow of George F. Stone, died suddenly at Los Angeles on Tuesday. She was the daughter of Robert Colgate.

GILBERT O. HULSE, ex-Surrogate of Orange County, died at his home in Middletown, N. Y., Wednesday, at the age of 85 years. He was for many years an active lawyer in New York City, and will be remembered by older members of the bar. He is survived by three children, Louise, wife of John Wilkin, Esq., and Oliver G. Hulse, both of Middletown, N. Y., and Levi S. Hulse, a lawyer of New York City.

Mrs. MARY ANN GELSTON, widow of John Gelston, a banker well known in New York and Brooklyn, died on Saturday last at the age of 85, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Byron King Stickle, Rockaway, N. J. She leaves three daughters.

SAMUEL A. FLOWER, a manufacturer of Newark, N. J., died at the New York Hospital Tuesday night, following an operation for appendicitis. He was born in 1847, and manufactured his own inventions at Newark. He leaves a widow and three children.

CHARLES A. MORSE, a retired member of the New York Produce Exchange, died yesterday at his residence, 116 Garfield Place, Brooklyn, after an illness of seven weeks. He was in his seventy-seventh year. Mr. Morse was born in Massachusetts, but for the last fifty years had lived in Brooklyn. In 1865 he married Miss Margaret Cheever Sables, who, with a son and daughter, survive him.

ANDREW BRYSON TAYLOR, only son of Dr. and Mrs. John Y. Taylor, died suddenly last Monday near New Castle, Del. Mr. Taylor was the only grandson of the late Rear Admiral Andrew Bryson, U. S. N. He lived with his parents at 1,727 Q Street, Washington, D. C.

H. J. CLARKE, a millionaire furniture and lumber dealer of Grand Rapids, Mich., died in Globe, Ariz., Monday, after a short illness. Mr. Clarke arrived at San Carlos a week ago with other capitalists to investigate a proposed irrigation project. He was preparing to leave for the East when attacked by acute indigestion. The body will be shipped to Grand Rapids for interment.

ALFRED BISSELL TALCOTT, a newspaper correspondent in the civil war, died at his home in Washington, D. C., on Monday at the age of 84 years. He was born near Glastonbury, Conn., and early became engaged in electrical work in New York. He took part in rebuilding the old telegraph lines between New York and Washington, and in 1839 he went to Washington as manager of a telegraph company. In 1862 he became a war correspondent for The New York Herald and reported the engagement between the Monitor and Merrimac. He was connected with newspapers in Washington for many years after the war. He is said to have operated the first field telegraph line used.

ALBERT V. PORTER, who was for many years the consulting architect for the New York City Street Railway Company, died at his home, 267 Madison Street, Brooklyn, on Tuesday. He was born in Gloversville, N. Y., 53 years ago, and is said to have drawn the plans for the first electric power house built in this country. He was a fellow of the American Institute of Architects. His wife, two sons, and two daughters survive him.

FREDERICK BECHTEL, head of the Adelphi Conservatory of Music in Brooklyn, died at his home, 109 Adelphi Street, that borough, on Tuesday. He was 82 years old, and was one of the oldest teachers of music in Brooklyn. He was an uncle of Carl Fique, a well-known Brooklyn composer and musical director. Mr. Bechtel was a widower.

HENRY F. BODINE, Secretary of the New Jersey State Grange, died at his home in Locktown yesterday from paralysis. He was 70 years old. He was stricken a week ago. He had been Secretary of the State Grange for the last seven years.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

THANKSGIVING!

This should be the most grateful community on earth.

New York is the Colossus of cities.

Her wharves are freighted with ten thousand commodities of trade.

Her financial institutions minister to the needs of East and West.

Her stock market commands the interest of two continents.

Her charities are prodigal in their magnificence.

Her enterprises are the product of the best brains from the four corners of the earth.

Her buildings are the wonder of the world and the most fruitful investments of her people.

Is your property developed to yield you an income commensurate with such unparalleled advantages?

SYRACUSE CLASHES WITH FORDHAM HERE

New York State Football Championship to be Decided at American League Park.

TRINITY PLAYS N. Y. U. TEAM

Gridiron Contests To-day Will Close Season—White and Gargan in Fordham Line-Up.

New York will have its concluding football match of the season this afternoon, when the Syracuse eleven lines up against the fast Fordham team, which has attained one of the best records of any of the minor teams. "Tad" Jones has brought his Salt City men into perfect condition, and the New York boys will be able to place their full playing strength on the gridiron so that one of the best struggles in this city during the season will undoubtedly be fought out.

The Syracuse men arrived here yesterday, and, despite several defeats by rival elevens, including the Indians and Michigan, expect to be able to claim the championship of New York State after the contest with Fordham to-day. With Cornell defeated by Fordham at Ithaca, Syracuse and Fordham are the only elevens in the State which can lay claim to such a title.

The inclement weather which prevailed yesterday gave no opportunity for either eleven to get in any practice work, but had it been indulged in there would probably have been nothing but the running through the signals. Fordham will undoubtedly hold to the open play which has characterized the work of the eleven all through the season, with the forward pass as one of the prime factors as a ground gainer.

Syracuse, however, has undoubtedly been well coached to stop this play, or at least make it very uncertain of accomplishment, for the Salt City men have during the past few days been coached by Howard Jones, who was head coach at New Haven this season, and also by Fisher and Stein, who were prominent players at Syracuse when the wearers of the Orange defeated Michigan.

The feature which has in it the greatest amount of satisfaction for the Fordham followers is that "Dad" White and Frank Gargan, two of the strongest backs which the local eleven can boast of, will be able to get into the contest this afternoon. White they consider almost invincible in line plunging, and his speed around the ends also is an important factor.

Another good match will be played at Ohio Field when the unbeaten New York University eleven will line up against the Trinity combination. The local collegians are confident that they will go through the season with an unbroken string of victories, and are prone to consider that the visitors are already out of the running.

A bomb fell into the New Yorker's camp yesterday when it was learned that Nixon, the 'Varsity quarterback, was in bed with tonsilitis and may not be able to play to-day. His loss would seriously cripple the team, for he is one of the best football generals N. Y. U. ever had. Fortunately, Galloway, who has been on the injured list for the past two weeks, is again in good condition and will be able to substitute for Nixon, if the latter cannot play. Scott, another substitute, is also prepared to play quarter, if called upon. He made a good showing when put in the Union game last Saturday.

The N. Y. U. eleven will keep a close watch on Henshaw and Ramsdell, the two Trinity halfbacks, as they are great ground-gainers. Carroll will also come in for a deal of attention, for the New Yorkers are determined to close their season without a defeat.

School football will also be brought to a close with three games of importance. At the Polo Grounds this afternoon the old rivals, Clinton and Commerce, will decide the season's question of supremacy, while in Brooklyn Erasmus and Poly Prep will fight out the big game of the season in that borough at Washington Park at 2:30 P. M. In the morning, at the same place, Manual and Boys' High will be matched against each other.

WEATHER FAVORS CORNELL.

But Pennsylvania Hopes for Victory To-day on Franklin Field.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—A heavy sleet and rain storm to-day prevented the Pennsylvania and Cornell teams from taking any but the lightest kind of practice for their big game on Franklin Field here to-morrow. The Ithacans spent the day at their hotel in the suburbs and contented themselves with a long walk.

The Quakers donned their suits for a short signal practice at Winslow Junction in the New Jersey pines. Weather conditions favor the heavier Cornell eleven, but the Pennsylvania players hope to follow precedents and leave the field with a victory.

There has been practically no betting on the result of the game. Both elevens have been beaten this season, and each has proved a disappointment to its followers. There will be a big crowd out to see the contest, every seat on the big field having been disposed of.

Middies on Duty at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—The trip of the Navy football team to Philadelphia to-morrow to attend the Pennsylvania-Cornell football game will be in the nature of an errand of "duty" and not as a jollification, as many persons believe, according to Capt. John M. Bowyer, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, who discussed the matter to-day. Capt. Bowyer said that the middies would be doing duty, as permission to go was granted in line with their regular course of athletics and outdoor life, which forms part of the routine of the training of a naval officer, and their conduct will be under the watchful eye of the officers who accompany them. The team and substitutes, he said, will proceed to Philadelphia under orders and will go on duty.

Arrangements for the trip to the Quaker City were completed to-day. The party will be made up of forty-five persons, including the regular team, substitutes, Manager Peyton, and coaches. The middies will be under charge of Lieut. Frank D. Berrien, head coach, and Lieut. Henry N. Jensen, Secretary of the Navy Athletic Association. The expenses will be borne by the association. They will return to Annapolis Friday.

LACROSSE FOR FOOTBALL.

Col. Thompson Offers Prizes for Public School Competition.

With the action of the Board of Superintendents of the Public Schools of Greater New York in forbidding the game of football by students, an effort is being made to revive lacrosse as a substitute. Col. Robert M. Thompson has offered for competition among the public schools a series of prizes consisting of a championship trophy, (a figure of Mercury in bronze,) a banner for the winning school and a gold medal to each member and substitute of the winning team.

In order to promote lacrosse among school boys, Col. Thompson has written to Supt. W. H. Maxwell advocating a league among the schools, and pointing out the advantages of the sport as a healthful recreation. The popularity of lacrosse in Canada and at the Crescent Athletic Club, Brooklyn, is advanced as an argument in favor of the substitution. Two decades ago lacrosse was one of the most popular Winter sports in New York. The New York Lacrosse Club and the Staten Island Athletic Club were the pioneers of the game in this city.

The schoolboys will be requested to take up lacrosse and adopt regular training methods. It is intended to start the championship games in 1910, and the final game will be played either in Central, Prospect, or Van Cortlandt Park in order to accommodate the big crowd that would be attracted by the contest.

Col. Thompson, who is President of the Alumni of Annapolis, is very much impressed with the dangers of football and the brutality in connection with the game. In his letter to Mr. Maxwell Col. Thompson calls attention to the state of affairs and says:

> I see by the papers that the Board of Superintendents of New York public schools have decided, on account of the physical danger of the game of football, to abolish it in the public schools of Greater New York.
> Everyone realizes the great benefit that athletic sports properly used have been to the young men of our day, and I can readily see the justness of the action of your body in making rules for the protection of the health of the students under your care.
>
> As a substitute for football I suggest the game of lacrosse, as played for many years by the original American, the American Indian.
>
> Lacrosse is a fascinating and graceful game, requiring one to be fleet of foot, quick of eye, good judgment in the passing of the ball, or what is known as team playing, and it has none of the physical dangers of football.
>
> In order to promote this purely American game it will give us great pleasure to offer for competition among the schoolboys of the Boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx, and Richmond a championship prize, such as a bronze figure, a banner suitably inscribed, to be the property of the winning school, and a gold medal to each member of the winning team and the proper number of substitutes.
>
> As I leave in a few days for Europe, to be gone some months, I will authorize Mr. A. H. Curtis of the New York Athletic Club to act for me in the arrangement of the details.

Sailors' Football Game Postponed.

The sailors of the warships Nebraska and Hancock would not brave the howling weather at Washington Park yesterday, and the football game between the two teams was postponed until Saturday afternoon, at 230 o'clock. A big crowd of blue jackets with three brass bands were on hand to make a noise, but at the last minute it was decided to postpone the game, the gridiron being a sea of mud and water.

Football in the Bronx.

Teams representing the Northwestern and Mohawk Athletic Clubs will play a gridiron contest this afternoon at the Bronx Oval for what they declare is the championship of Greater New York among the athletic club teams. There will be a preliminary game for the championship of Harlem in the lightweight class between the Saginaws and Lakewoods.

McDuff and McKenzie Teams to Play.

The Clan McDuff Football Club will play the Clan McKenzie Football Club this afternoon at 145th Street and Lenox Avenue. As both teams are in the best of condition a hard game is expected. The game will start at 3 o'clock. On next Sunday the Clan McDuff team will play the Maplefield Club of New Jersey at 3 o'clock at the same place.

Erasmus and Poly Prep Game.

The football team of Erasmus Hall High School and the Poly Prep eleven will clash in their annual game for the Long Island Interscholastic League championship at Washington Park, Brooklyn, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

A. J. Joyner has shown his abiding faith in Americans and American methods by having Dr. R. W. McCully go to England from Sheepshead Bay to look over the English string in Joyner's care at Newmarket. Dr. McCully was under contract to attend the horses of Harry Payne Whitney, but it was not thought that he would be sent abroad when so many good veterinaries were available in England. When the work of firing and blistering is completed for Joyner, it is the intention of Joyner and McCully to return to New York together, and it is thought that James McCormick, who trained so successfully in Germany during the season, will come with them.

It develops now that Uncle, the colt recently sold to Mr. Kohler by Sam Hildreth, will stand at the old Ramapo Farm, where J. Otto Donner bred many good horses. Mr. Kohler has taken the farm over and with Uncle to head his stud he ought to make the breeding establishment one of some note.

William Steele, former stud manager of the Chesterbrook Farm, was a visitor at the Old Glory Sale yesterday. Mr. Steele will have a string of horses racing before the close of the Winter season.

Garratt D. Wilson, associated proprietor with Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas in the Iroquois Stud, has named all the foals of Stalwart in the futures for which they are eligible. The yearlings of 1909 are the first crop of the best son of Meddler, and he said yesterday that he realized his mistake in not nominating them freely. The yearlings are all remarkably good looking, and several of them have shown quarters in better than 0:23. When Senator Bailey became interested in the Iroquois Stud and the ownership of Stalwart it was thought that he would race horses on the turf, but he has made up his mind to be content with breeding.

With racing on at two tracks in Florida to-day, word comes of another venture in the same State. W. H. Bickers of Louisville has practically closed a deal for a tract of ground in close proximity to Pensacola for the purpose of building a track. His scheme is to hold a sixty-day meeting, and he is said to be backed by Eastern capital in his venture.

Oakland Bookmakers Arraigned.

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 24.—Charles Brown and Edward Martin, horserace bookmakers arrested at Emeryville track on Monday, accused of violating the anti-gambling law, were arraigned in court to-day. The preliminary examination was set for Friday morning. The men were arraigned on charges of felony. Under the statute the Judge has the option of considering the offense either as a misdemeanor or a felony. To test the law thoroughly the California Jockey Club requested that the men be charged with a felony.

School Athletes to be Examined.

All elementary school Principals have been notified by Dr. William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, that no boy will be allowed to compete in athletics unless he has been passed upon by the school physician. Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Secretary of the Public Schools Athletic League, will not receive any entries unless the physician's certificate accompanies the entry blank, and no school games will be conducted until all the prospective athletes have been passed upon as to their fitness to compete. Dr. Crampton says that this safeguard will eliminate the objection that some cautious educators have urged to athletes in the public schools, and it will be rigidly enforced.

Cathedral Midgets Victorious.

The Cathedral Midgets scored an easy basket ball victory over the St. Francis Goblins yesterday by a score of 20 to 7. The line-up:

| Cathedral Midgets | Position. | St. Francis |
|---|---|---|
| Rapacki | Right forward | Dowling |
| Guerin | Left forward | Davis |
| Donahue | Centre | Quirk |

Goals from field—Guerin (3,) Walsh (2,) Rapacki (2,) Davis (2). Goals from foul—Rapacki (5,) Quirk (3,) Donahue. Referee—Mr. Yarwood.

Baseball Contracts and Releases.

John A. Heydler, President of the National League of Baseball Clubs, last night announced the approval of the following contracts and releases:

Contracts—With Cincinnati, Wingo Anderson, 1910; with Chicago, Roy Miller, 1910; William Edward Stack, 1910.

Releases—By Cincinnati to Fort Wayne, (C. L.,) D. D. Young, Clare Patterson. By New York to St. Louis, (N. L.,) William O'Hara, (claimed under waiver rule.) By Pittsburg to Louisville, (A. A.,) Roy Golden, Gus Soffel.

Pool Victors at Doyle's Academy.

In last night's game of the Class B pool tournament now in progress at Doyle's Academy, Broadway and Forty-second Street, J. Manahan defeated M. Bernstein by a score of 75 to 58. The high run, 14, was made by the winner. In the afternoon T. Seabury defeated J. Patterson 50 to 41.

HORSEMEN JEER AUTO IN OLD GLORY RING

NOVEL AND LIVELY BIDDING

Highest Prices Reached in Third Day of Sale, $5,500 Being Paid for a Trotting Stallion.

Amid the jeers, laughter, and hoots of a thousand horsemen, a lone automobile was sold at auction at the Old Glory horse sale at Madison Square Garden yesterday. It is the first time that a motor car has intruded in such a manner on the premises where horse is king, and the invasion was hailed with derision. The car belonged to John H. Shults, who in the past quarter of a century has paid out nearly a million dollars on harness horses. He put it in the auction along with twenty-five of his horses from Shultshurst Farm in New Rochelle.

The automobile was led on to the track with a halter attached, but it was soon going around the track with Mr. Shults, Al Thomas, W. E. D. Stokes, and others aboard. Auctioneer Bain went through the same form with the auto as he did with the horses. He gave its full pedigree, dam and sire, age and mark. Then the bidding began. Al Thomas offered $5 for the machine and Mr. Shults was alarmed. Senator Bailey of Texas raised the bid to $6, and half a hundred other bidders pushed the price up $5 and $10 at a time until $300 was reached. The automobile in the sales ring became such a joke that the auctioneer had to wait for the laughter and shouting to subside. Then the bidding began in earnest, and the machine finally went to James McClenehan of New Rochelle for $1,000.

The highest prices of the sale were reached yesterday, several of the horses selling for over $1,000. The Sherman Park Farm of Syracuse put up twenty-four horses, and they brought a total of $16,340, averaging $700 a head. A consignment of thirty-five horses from the Cobb Brothers' stock farm at Ithaca brought a total of $12,755, and twenty-four horses from John H. Shults's farm sold for $7,625, an average of $305 a head.

Alonzo McDonald, the Grand Circuit reinsman, reached the top price of the auction, when he bought Aquin, by Aquilinka, by Kremlin, for $5,500. This five-year-old stallion had a trial as a three-year-old in 2:09, and trotted a trial mile last year in 2:06½. This year he did a quarter in 0:29. Aquin won the $10,000 Empire stake at Syracuse this season. Mr. McDonald also bought a three-year-old trotter, Halyard, for $850, and Gracious Peter, by Peter the Great-Grace Appleton, by Onward, for $1,200.

Isador Schlesinger of Vienna was again in the sales ring, and got the eight-year-old stallion Genteel H., 2:08¼, for $5,000. He also bought the trotting stallion Silent for $610.

Leon Lewery, who is a fancier of American trotting horses in St. Petersburg, Russia, made his debut at the sale yesterday and paid $960 for the brood made Lomalta, 2:08½.

Another foreign horseman at the sale was V. W. Crommelin of Belgium, who paid $425 for the eight-year-old trotting mare Dirauna, 2:23¼. The horses bringing the highest prices were:

DRIVING CLUB MEETS HERE.

Amateur League, However, Must Find a Mile Track for Races.

New York may get the annual race meet of the league of Amateur Driving Clubs next year if the Driving Club of this city is able to lease a suitable mile track. The meet is due to be held next season at Pittsburg, but it is understood that the league is willing to have it held here if the local horsemen can obtain a track on which to hold it.

The annual meeting of the league was held at the Hoffman House yesterday, and Chicago and Columbus were the only cities in the league not represented. The delegates present were Arnold Lawson T. L. Quimby, Boston; Lieut. Gov. Horace White and Ernest White, Syracue; W. T. Clark and Thomas B. Hind, New York; S. T. Harbison, Lexington; J. D. Callary, Pittsburg, and H. K. Devereaux, Cleveland.

The officers for the ensuing year are President H. K. Devereaux of Cleveland, Vice President J. D. Callary of Pittsburg, Secretary and Treasurer, and T. L. Quimby, Boston.

Several changes in the rules were discussed, but no action was taken, the decision being left in the hands of the different city clubs. One of the rules most likely to be changed is the one which provides a weight limit of 160 pounds in the league meets. The league will also adopt a new rule in relation to the awarding of the second ribbons in the events where two horses are tied for second place. The ribbon will be given to the horse which finishes second in the fastest heat.

Cadet Wilson Is Improving.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—For the first time since the accident to Midshipman Earl D. Wilson of the Naval Academy football team, by which a vertebrae of his neck was broken, there was shown to-day a decrease of the paralysis, though slight, and the attending surgeons have every reason to believe that it will continue. To-day Wilson's general condition has been excellent and he has had a number of visitors from among his classmates and others. It appears to be probable that the operation has accomplished its purpose and that Wilson is on the way to recovery.

Waterway League Dinner.

The Waterway League of Greater New York and Long Island will hold a dinner on Friday, Dec. 10, at Raub's cafe, Brooklyn, when the cups won by the sail and power boats during the past season's races will be presented to the winners. A regular meeting of the league will be held in the Johnson Building, 8 Nevins Street, Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 14.

SHEPPARD'S EASY VICTORY.

Distances Small Field in 500-Yard Run at Twenty-second's Games.

It was an easy victory that Melvin W. Sheppard scored in the 500 yard run, which was the feature event of the annual Fall games of the Twenty-second Regiment at the armory last night. It was thought that a big field would be on the mark, as there was a long list of entries, but the actual race found only five athletes lined up as competitors, and they were no match for Sheppard. He ran easily until the last lap was started, and had only passed one of the five competitors up to that time. When half a lap remained to be run he jumped out in front and passed the others as if they were tied. He crossed the line about twelve yards in front of R. G. Koch of Company A, who had started with an advantage of nine yards. The non-appearance of Gissing as a contestant against Sheppard robbed the event of much of its interest.

One regimental record went by the board when C. B. Clark, in the opening event of the evening, the 70-yard dash, captured first place from scratch in 07 2-5, which clipped a fifth of a second from the previous figures, which were made a number of years ago.

The obstacle race furnished as much interest as any of the events. Impediments to free running were scattered thickly along the track, and several were of a novel type, one being a paper barrier, in which hidden ropes figured, and another a series of barrels on wheels, which the contestants had to go through. One of the amusing things was the wild antics of one belated contestant, who found all of the barrels occupied with struggling athletes and nothing for him to do but stand and wait for the call of "next." William X. Flood of Company L found the obstacles none too difficult, and raced home an easy winner after a double circuit of the track.

The inter-company relay race was taken by Company L, with Company A second and Company F third. The five men on the Company A combination could not pull down the big handicap of the Company L team. The point trophy, however, went to Company A, with a total of 31, with Company F at 28 and Company L at 23. The summary:

Three-quarter-Mile Novice—Won by O. W. Brieley, Company M; W. J. Doyle, Company F, second; H. Norman, Company K, third. Time—3:46 4-5.

Seventy-Yard Dash. Handicap—Won by C. B. Clarke, Company A, (scratch;) J. M. Sweeney, Company K, (5 feet,) second; S. Johnston, Company I, (12 feet,) third. Time—0:07 2-5.

352-Yard Obstacle Race—Won by W. X. Flood, Company L; R. Schaefer, Company F, second; H. J. Winter, Company M, third. Time—2:08 3-5.

220-Yard Hurdles, Handicap—Won by J. O'Brien, Company F, (12 yards;) H. J. Stevenson, Company L, (3 yards,) second; C. Cossenas, Company L, (6 yards,) third. Time—0:28 3-5.

352-Yard Run, Novice—Won by F. E. King, Company L; H. Gardiner, Company F, second; E. Noel, Company B, third. Time—0:43 2-5.

Putting Twelve-Pound Shot, Handicap—Won by H. J. Grotheer, Company A, (6 feet,) with an actual put of 40 feet ½ inch; F. E. King, Company L, (4 feet,) second with an actual put of 41 feet 1½ inches; F. E. Adams, Company I, (6 feet,) third with an actual put of 37 feet 3¼ inches.

500-Yard-Run, Handicap—Won by Melvin W. Sheppard, Company A, (scratch;) R. G. Koch, Company A, (9 yards,) second; E. W. Hills, Company E, (22 yards,) third. Time—0:59 4-5.

300-Yard Run, Handicap—Won by J. MacEntee, Company A, (scratch;) J. O'Brien, Company F, (16 yards,) second; S. Greason, Company F, (16 yards,) third. Time—0:33 4-5.

Two-Mile Bicycle Race, Scratch—Won by W. P. Vanden Dries, Company A, (scratch;) R. G. Carlson, Company K, (120 yards,) second; W. Buckingham, Company F, (150 yards,) third. Time—5:07 4-5.

220-Yard Sack Race, Handicap—Won by W. A. Foley, Company H, (12 yards;) A. E. Green, Company B, (12 yards,) second; W. X. Flood, Company L, (scratch,) third. Time—0:32.

1,200-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by H. E. Gissing, Company F, (scratch;) I. B. McDowell, Company F, (22 yards,) second; J. Breituresn, Company F, (75 yards,) third. Time—2:59 4-5.

Inter-Company Relay, Handicap.—Won by Company , (58 yards,) with Stevenson, Cassenas, Trerise, King, and Seward; Company A, (19 yards,) with Koch, Clarke, MacEntee, Frank, and Sheppard, second; Company F, (58 yards,) with Walters, Greason, O'Brien, Gissing, and McDowell, third. Time—3:21 4-5.

HILL CLIMB POSTPONED.

Edgewater-Fort Lee Course Regarded Dangerous in Present Condition.

The Edgewater-Fort Lee hill climbing contest, scheduled for to-day, has been postponed until Saturday, Dec. 4, at 1 o'clock P. M. This action was taken last night by the Edgewater-Fort Lee Automobile Association and the Motor Contest Association after a conference held at Edgewater, which was participated in by the referee of the contest and the builder of the new roadway on the Fort Lee hill. The action was taken solely in the interests of safety.

The course was coated with ice and snow, and the opinion was unanimous that any effort to hold the contest to-day would result in disaster. It was found inexpedient to make a postponement until Saturday of this week because of roadwork to be done, and it also was the opinion of the weather sharps present that conditions would not be sufficiently improved by that time. A postponement had been asked for by many of the entrants, and the news of the new date was generally welcomed.

Tuesday was another great day among the codfish at the deep sea fishing grounds. At the Cholera Banks the passengers on the Angler had fine sport, catches of from one to five codfish being frequent. Thomas Kitchen carried off the honors by pulling up a twenty-five pounder, and supplemented this by another one weighing fifteen pounds. S. C. Lowe, in a collection of four, had a beauty weighing twenty pounds. Other notable catches were: Joseph Ebblinger and C. W. Leming, 5 each; L. Undeleiner, J. Glebs, Paul Frey, Emil Pienle, and M. Allen, 3 each. At a conservative estimate more than 300 codfish were taken on the trip.

At Bath Beach on Tuesday John Hamlin and Charles Stetson of the Undine Fishing Club of South Brooklyn caught six codfish averaging more than two pounds each. They also pulled up a few fluke and quite a number of eels.

According to old-time fishermen more fish were caught in the vicinity of City Island Bridge on Sunday than on any day this Fall. Harlem anglers were largely in evidence, and they cut a big swath with flounders and striped bass. Two members of the Harlem Fishing Club left Jordan's headquarters in the morning, and before noon brought back 12 flounders of good size and six striped bass. Few anglers returned without a mess of some kind.

Ling and whiting are biting freely around Coney Island. Off the Iron Pier, the pier of Dreamland, and the Steeplechase Pier fishing was of the liveliest character on Tuesday. At the Steeplechase Pier, which was the rendezvous for Brooklyn anglers, an unusual number of ling and whiting were caught. Henry Justice brought up 12 ling and 8 whiting, and Emil Payson of the East Side Fishing Club of New York made a haul of 8 whiting and 4 ling.

Flounders that are now running at the Raunt in Jamaica Bay are well worth catering to, according to William Grolz, an experienced Jamaica Bay fisherman. Grolz says he has never seen so many flounders caught at this season of the year, while porgies are unusually plentiful. On Monday, between the flood and ebb tides, two Brooklyn men picked up 16 flounders and 8 porgies, one of the best catches of the Fall season.

"The Flume," a famous place for big striped bass at Deal Beach, N. J., has furnished plenty of sport recently for a number of enthusiastic New York anglers. Last week Henry Evans and Lawrence Jackson spent three days there, and was successful on every trip. Evans caught 10 on Friday, one weighing eight pounds, and on the following day Jackson hauled up 6, averaging more than five pounds each.

SENSATIONAL RUNS IN BILLIARD GAMES

TWO STIRRING FINISHES

Cutler and Sutton Go Down to Defeat—Players Improve Their Averages and Show Good Form.

Billiards of a sensational nature marked the third session of the professional tournament for the world's 18.2 balkline championship yesterday at Madison Square Garden Concert Hall. In the afternoon game Calvin Demarest, the youngest player in the tourney, scored a brilliant victory over Albert Cutler with an unfinished run of 163, turning a practical defeat into a brilliant victory. This unexpected ending was duplicated in the evening contest, when Harry P. Cline of Philadelphia took the measure of George Sutton of New York. Cline's victory was perhaps more sensational than that of Demarest's. At the end of the nineteenth inning the Philadelphian was 157 points behind his opponent, while the latter was showing exceptionally clever cue work. Cline made a spectacular run of 146, in which he executed nearly every known and several hitherto unknown shots. He followed this up with several other clever runs, which seemed to take Sutton's nerve, and won out by 21 points.

Owing to the fact that to-day is a holiday the schedule has been changed. The morning game will be played at 11 o'clock, and will bring together Harry Cline and Calvin Demarest, while the afternoon game will be between George Sutton and Albert Cutler. At 8 P. M. George Slosson and Firmin Cassignol will cross cues.

The first few innings of the evening game between Sutton and Cline were productive of little of moment. Up to the seventh inning the two players kept well together, there being little to choose between them. Sutton found an opening in the eighth essay at the table, and proceeded to take advantage of it. He played careful, conscientious billiards, measuring his every stroke with a nicety and accuracy for which he is famous. He held the spheres well together and played a superb position game. He made one bad stroke as Referee McGraw called 130, and experienced considerable difficulty in bringing the balls together. At 145 the object and red ball were frozen, and Sutton played from spot. It was a poor shot, and closed his run, leaving the balls in a good position for his opponent, who piled up 38 points in excellent style. He executed a brilliant masse and then misse and then missed a comparatively easy bank shot.

In the next six innings Cline added 146 buttons to his score, his best contribution resulting in a run of 65, which was a brilliant series of shots. He missed his sixty-sixth shot on a kiss just as he seemed set for a long run. Sutton during this time added 70 to his string with 33 as his best individual contribution. The respective scores at the end of the fourteenth inning was Sutton, 280; Cline, 198.

The play again hung for several innings, although runs of 21 and 36 by Cline and 33 and 38 by Sutton somewhat relieved the monotony. In the eighteenth inning Sutton got the ivories under control and with a contribution of 99 carried his total well past the fourth century. He fell down on an easy shot. Cline followed with a magnificent run of 146. During his entire contribution he occupied the lower end of the table, and, although frequently in trouble, he managed to gather the balls after a couple of efforts. During the run Referee McGraw did not change his position more than three feet. Cline's one hundred and sixteenth shot was a long masse which was splendidly executed.

This gave the Philadelphian confidence, and with runs of 38 and 37 he defeated the veteran after a hard-fought game by 21 points. The score:

Sutton—0 30 5 9 11 2 2 145 25 8 0 40 33 4 38 0 0 99 0 1 12 45. Total, 479; average 20 18-23; high runs, 146, 65, 38, 38.

Calvin Demarest scored a sensational victory over Albert Cutler in the afternoon game by a wonderful exhibition of nerve. With the score 467 to 337 the former amateur champion ran out the game with an unfinished 163. Up to this stage of the contest Demarest looked hopelessly beaten. The ivories would not run kindly for him, while a run of 121 for Cutler in the second inning of the game had a depressing effect on the Chicagoan. Cutler continued to increase his lead, and at the end of the seventh inning was 148 points in the lead. Demarest made a plucky rally in his eighth visit to the table, putting together 92 in splendid style. He nursed the ivories and made them answer his every touch. With the score at 60 the balls were frozen, and he was forced to play from the spot. He counted 32 more buttons before losing his hand on a corner draw.

Cutler was playing consistent billiards, and secured another long lead in the twenty-second inning, when the score was 386 to 224. Demarest again took a hand in the game with a clever compilation of 89, to which Cutler replied with 57. By this time the majority of the spectators had left the hall, thinking the contest at an end, but Demarest, who had not abandoned hope and in one of the prettiest exhibitions witnessed during the tournament, clicked off point after point until he had turned practical defeat into a well-merited victory. At no stage during his long run did he show any hesitancy in the execution of his shots, while his postion play was somewhat of a revelation and stamped him as a dangerous contender in the tourney. The score:

Demarest—0 8 11 10 0 24 1 92 0 3 18 3 15 2 1 3 0 19 0 0 5 9 89 2 4 0 15 3 0 163. Total—500. Average—16 20-30. High runs—163, 92, 89.

Cutler—0 121 30 0 10 9 32 8 0 4 14 11 12 26 2 21 18 2 26 3 36 0 0 57 0 8 16 0 6. Total—473. Average—15 23-30. High runs—121, 57. 36.

VETERAN GOLFERS ON LINKS.

J. P. McFadden Leads Field of "Old Boys" Lakewood Handicap.

To the confusion of Dr. Osler, more than a score of gray-haired golfers braved the elements to compete in the senior's tournament held over the links of the Country Club of Lakewood yesterday. Like the original affair at Apawamis, the age limit on the sunny side was 55 years, and the programme also called for 18 holes of medal play, handicap conditions. It remained for Joseph P. McFadden, a Forest Hill Field Club member, who did not take up the game until past 50, to lead the field with a card of 98—17—81.

Driving a long ball and almost always on the line, McFadden only got into one bunker, quite an achievement, considering that a number of new pitfalls have been added since the golfers last played there in the Spring. Gross score honors went to H. S. Jennings of Kingston, who, despite the wind and rain, went the round in 95.

C. A. Spofford of Apawamis was placed on scratch, an honor which seemed to have been his undoing, for he needed no less than 106 strokes to make the round. As a matter of fact, after the grips of his clubs became wet and slippery he lost all control. About half of the entrants were on hand, but after a shivering glance at the weather, which became worse as the day advanced, they sought shelter at the "nineteenth hole." Among these was Rear Admiral Goodrich of Chevy Chase.

To-day the regular Fall open tournament, for which more than 100 entries have been received, will be got under way with an 18-hole testing round. Although the course is harder than ever Willie Norton, the club's "pro," in a recent round made a 70, two strokes better than the old record held by himself.

| | Gross. | H'cap. | Net. |
|---|---|---|---|
| J. P. McFadden, Forest Hill | 98 | 17 | 81 |

JEFFRIES GETS A TURNDOWN.

Pittsburg Exposition Society Will Not Permit Him to Show in Its Hall.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 24.—The Directors of the Pittsburg Exposition have declined to permit James J. Jeffries to engage Exposition Hall for the show to be given by himself and an aggregation of boxers, tumblers, wrestles, &c., who are coming to Pittsburg next week, and the big fellow will be compelled to take his show to Duquesne Garden, about four miles from the downtown district.

A bitter feeling that cropped out when "Jeff" visited Pittsburg some time ago to do "six rounds" with his sparring partner, Sam Berger, has grown, and this bout was the real cause of Jeffries being turned down at this time. "Jeff" and Berger agreed to box "six rounds" before the people of Pittsburg for a lot of money, but they cut the time to one minute for each round. Some of the Directors of the exposition society had paid $5 each to see that bout, and they did not forget this when they came to pass on the Jeffries application last night.

The fiasco indulged in by Mike Schreck and Langford here last night may result in boxing being stopped in Pittsburg. Scores of persons visited Chief of Police McQuaide to-day, and asked that some action be taken against such fake exhibitions as that offered by Schreck last night.

"Schreck should have been given thirty days in jail instead of money for getting into that ring so fat," said Supt. McQuaide to-night.

Hunt Deer in Rain and Snow.

Special to The New York Times.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Nov. 24.—In a drenching rain which fell all the morning, followed by hail and snow, nearly 200 sportsmen scattered through the woods to-day between this place and Weymouth, and Mizpah and Egg Harbor City, eager to get a shot at the fleet-footed deer, this being the closing day of the shooting season. In the woods were many game wardens, and as far as could be learned there were no infactions of the game laws. Among the successful sportsmen that brought down a buck was State Deputy Game Warden H. M. oveless of Trenton. The deer weighed nearly 100 pounds. The largest buck killed during the season was credited to a party from Pleasantville, headed by County Road Supervisor J. Price. The deer weighed 225 pounds. Randolph McFarland of Monroeville killed a 200-pound buck. A party headed by Arthur Cramer of this place killed a 180-pound buck, and a party at Emilville, headed by the Hannum boys, brought down a 100-pound buck. A party from Atlantic City started nine deer between this place and Egg Harbor City, but did not get within shooting distance. Several sportsmen missed good shots.

Football Fashions Heroes.

Football is a mooted question at present in secondary school circles, but occasionally it finds a champion, as it did yesterday, in the speech of Superintendent Alder of Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn. He said that while the glaring evidence against football evils has been placed prominently before the public by a sequence of fatalities, there is evidence as well to prove that the good old game can be a tool for fashioning stuff out of which heroes are made.

Out of six games the Adelphi team has lost none, and piled up an aggregate of 90 points to their opponents' 11. This record puts Adelphi Academy in the front rank of the Brooklyn scholastic division.

WON'T GIVE $10,000 FOR BABY.

Gen. Yates of Omaha Says Someone Fooled the Yateses of Trenton.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 24.—The romance surrounding the alleged offer of Major Gen. John T. Yates of Omaha, Neb., of $10,000 for the thirteenth baby born to Mr. and Mrs. John T. Yates of this city came to a sad ending last night when the General visited the city to initiate members of a secret organization. Some one told the Trenton Yateses the General was coming, and they painted their house to receive him. But he went to Philadelphia and has gone back West.

Asked about the alleged offer, Gen. Yates said some one wrote the letter in his name, that he is married, has children of his own, and that he is tired of the guying he has been receiving from the press over the practical joke.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates here say they would not sell the baby for $10,000.

BOY ENDS HIS LIFE AT PARENTS' GRAVES

Grieving for Two Years, He Finally Takes a Poison Draught in a Cemetery.

BODY FOUND AT A VAULT.

Carried an Identification Card Asking That an Aunt Be Notified of His Death.

William H. Campbell and his father, Theodore Campbell, for many years connected with the Cotton Exchange, were inseparable companions in the boy's early youth, and when the father's mind gave way nearly two years ago, and he died in March, 1908, in the Central Islip Insane Asylum, young Campbell, then approaching 20 years of age, was prostrated. When his mother died under an operation less than ten weeks later, the boy became nearly insane through grief at his double loss.

It was only the tender ministrations of Mrs. George Starkins, his aunt, who took him to live with her in her home at 614 West 116th Street, that made life bearable for the boy. He grieved continually over the death of his parents, but seemed to cheer up when Mrs. A. G. Applegate, a sister of his mother, came to visit Mrs. Starkins recently. Mrs. Applegate, young Campbell often said, resembled his mother greatly, and the young man seemed never to tire of gazing at her, as though in her he saw again theh mother who was dead.

To Mrs. Applegate he spoke often of his mother. After such a talk, he would be melancholy for hours, however, and both his aunts noted with alarm his growing tendency to sit silently thinking of his father and mother, unable to engage his mind upon other topics.

All the efforts of his relatives to turn his mind to pleasing things failed. He neglected the sports of which he had once been fond, and in which he and his father had indulged together. He could not occupy himself with a book, and only when he was actively engaged in his business at a jewelry store in Third Avenue, where he had been employed ever since leaving school, could he seem to forget his affliction.

On Sunday he had one of his long talks with Mrs. Appelgate, speaking only of his mother and father, and at its conclusion he said he believed that on Monday he would get the afternoon off and visit their graves in the White Plains Cemetery.

The boy got the afternoon off, and as he did not return to his home both of his aunts supposed that he had gone to White Plains. He did not return on Monday night, nor did he appear on Tuesday, and at that time Mrs. Starkins and Mrs. Applegate became very anxious. They reported his disappearance to the police, and a general alarm was sent out for him.

No trace of the boy was found, however, until yesterday afternoon, when a policeman called at the house to notify Mrs. Starkins and Mrs. Applegate that a dispatch had been received from the police in White Plains telling of the finding of a young man dead on the threshold of the receiving vault of the White Plains Rural Cemetery. In the pocket of his coat was an identification card asking that Mrs. Starkins be notified of his death.

A member of the family went at once to White Plains, where the body was identified as that of young Campbell.

John M. Farley, a civil engineer of White Plains, who had gone to the cemetery to visit the grave of his parents, in passing out came upon the body of young Campbell, at the doorstep of the receiving vault, the clothing soaked with rain. Not far away lay a bottle, and a cork which fitted it was found in the boy's pocket. It is supposed that the bottle contained poison, although Coroner Amos O. Squire could not determine whether it was opium or strychnine.

As the body was found it faced toward the graves of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, which were within plain sight, a short distance away. As he sat upon the threshold before drinking the poison the boy could have read the inscriptions upon the tombstones.

Young Campbell was the grandson of George Washington Campbell, a prominent resident of White Plains, and in his youth, Theodore Campbell, the boy's father, was brought up in the town in which he was buried. His son will be buried beside him.

CONVICT MINING SWINDLERS.

Larabee and Emanuel Found Guilty After an Eleven-Day Trial.

Convicted of Mexican Mining Frauds.

After a trial, which occupied eleven days, a jury in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, late last night found J. Walter Labaree and George W. Emanuel guilty of using the mails in connection with an extensive scheme to defraud investors in Mexican mining stock. In the case of Cranston Thomas, who was jointly tried with Labaree and Emanuel, a verdict of not guilty was rendered, and he was discharged.

There were three indictments against Labaree, who has long been known to the Post Office authorities as a promoter of shady mining stocks and a member of notorious bucketshop firms in this city, and the jury found him guilty of the various offenses charged in all counts of all of them.

Emanuel, who posed as the head of the brokerage firm which had its offices at 576 and 578 Fifth Avenue, was found guilty on two indictments, one of which charged conspiracy. Prior to opening the Fifth Avenue offices about a year ago Emanuel began the sale of stocks of the Dos Estrellas Mines and Development Company of Mexico in Broad Street.

At the trial, Louis D. Frey, a Mexican mining engineer, testified that the "properties" which the Dos Estrellas Mining and Development Company owned, according to the circulars sent out by Emanuel & Co., consisted of two holes in the ground and contained no copper or gold ores.

Because of complaints maed by hundreds of investors residing in different parts of the country who had been duped into buying the worthless Mexican mining stocks, Post Office Inspector Kincaid last January raided the offices of Emanuel & Co. in Fifth Avenue, anud later caused Labaree, Emanuel and Thomas to be arrested. Louis A. Prince, who at one time had been Labaree's partner in a bucket shop business, and Max Samuels were also indicted in connection with the Mexican mining stock swindle conducted by Emanuel & Co. Prince was arrested, but being released in $6,000 bail, fled the country, and is now supposed to be in Paris. Samuels, who is believed to be in Mexico, has not yet been captured.

INDICT CHINESE LEADERS.

Six in San Francisco Charged with Complicity in Recent Tong Murders.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—Tong King Chong, Secretary of the Chinese Free Masons, said to be one of the most influential and widely known Chinese in the United States, was indicted by the Grand Jury to-day on charges of complicity in some of the seven murders which have followed the outbreak of a feud between the Yee family and the On Yick Tong.

Five other Chinese, Gee Hong On, President of the On Yicks; Lee Suet, interpreter of the tong, and three alleged gun men of the society were indicted also. Lee Suet only was arrested, although warrants for the arrest of Chong and On have been waiting service for several weeks. The police believe that all are hiding in the interior of the State.

The feud followed the elopement of Bo Gue, a Chinese girl, the property of a member of the tong, with a man of the Yee family. The girl is now in a mission home.

Tong King Chong, it is charged, conspired with others to cause the death of members of the Yee clan. He is the editor of the Chinese Free Prss in this city, has a good education, both Chinese and English, and is a leader of the Chinese Chee Kung Tong, or Free Masons, which includes 90 per cent. of the Chinese in this country. He is said to be a revolutionist in Chinese politics and the right-hand man of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Chinese revolutionary leader, who has been exiled for years with a price of $50,000 on his head.

TAKE PIN FROM ESOPHAGUS.

Pittsburg Surgeons Perform Delicate Operation Without Using the Knife.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 24.—Margaret Van Kleek, 14 months old, was taken back to New York by her parents last night after having had a safety pin extracted from her esophagus. The child swallowed an open safety pin. She almost choked to death, but the pin, lodging deeper in the esophagus, permitted her to breathe. The parents say that surgeons in New York advised them that the only way the pin could be removed was but cutting from the outside, an operation likely to be fatal. The child was then brought here.

Three surgeons, Chevalier Jackson, John R. Simpson, and J. H. McCreary, assisted in to-day's operation. By means of the X-ray the position of the pin was located. Then a tube was inserted in the sophagus and passed down until it reacned the spot where the pin was located. Through this was passed a small incandescent globe, which showed that the point of the pin was in such position that any attempt to remove it without first manipulating it would probably have forced it into the lung.

Dr. Jackson, with a specially prepared instrument, manipulated the pin, finally getting it in such position that he was able to close it. Then with a slender hook he caught the pin and drew it through the tube. The operation required twenty minutes.

INSURANCE LAW INVALID.

Investigation of Foreign Companies by Canadian Government Held Illegal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—A decision which, if upheld by the higher courts, will open the door of the Dominion of Canada to all foreign insurance companies without their being subjected to the regulations prescribed by the Canadian Insurance Act, was rendered by Judge Leet here to-day. In deciding in favor of the defendant in a case brought by the Crown against William Faber & Co., insurance agents representing Lloyds of London, Judge Leet declared the Canadian Insurance Act invalid.

This act provides that no unregistered company may write insurance in Canada. The Government had sought to restrain the Lloyds concern from writing insurance in the Dominion because it is not registered.

In his opinion, JudgeLeet says that the act is illegal in designating the insurance business as a trade, and that "the Dominion Parliament has no power to regulate it in the way in which the act in question attempts to do so."

The decision aroused great interest here, particularly in view of the fact that if the Canadian act becomes void, insurance companies in the United States will be able to do business in Canada without restrictions.

SHERIFF ASKS FOR TROOPS.

Reports His Inability to Handle Strike at Bedford, nd.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 24.—Gov. Marshall ardered Adjt. Gen. Perry of the Indiana National Guard to Bedford, Ind., to-day, in response to a request from Sheriff Box of Lawrence County for troops to handle the stone workers' strike, which is said to have become threatening.

Sheriff Todd reported that he was able to get only seven ODeputies, not enough to handle the situation. Gov. Marshall told the Sheriff he must have his call for troops approved by the Judge of the Circuit Court.

In the meantime the Governor had Adjt. Gen. Perry notify the Captain of Company H, First Regiment, at Bloomington, to hold his troops in readiness to go to Bedford. In sending Gen. Perry to Bedford the Governor instructed him to call out the company of militia if necessary.

Dissension between two organizations of stone cutters is the cause of the trouble in the quarries. The striking union cutters assert that the owners of the quarries made an agreement to employ members of the National society. These workmen, the strikers say, are "strikebreakers," and their arbitration board of eleven members is in the control of the quarry owners. There have been frequent clashes between the factions.

TWO-CENT MURDERER TO DIE.

That Was the Sum Falletto Found in Pockets of 90-Year-Old Victim.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Pietro Falletto, who murdered Samuel Lavine, a ninety-year-old clothing merchant of Port Chester, in August, was convicted by a jury in the Supreme Court to-day. Judge Arthur S. Tompkins sentenced him to die in the electric chair during the week of Jan. 3 at Sing Sing.

It was the second trial of Falletto. The jury at the first trial disagreed.

The crime committed by Falletto was a brutal one. He threw an overcoat over the head of Lavine while pretending to examine it, and then forced Lavine to the floor and cut his throat from ear to ear. All that Falletto obtained for the murder was 2 cents and a jackknife.

In reply to a question as to whether he had anything to say the prisoner said:

"Your Honor, if you think I deserve it I am ready to take my medicine."

CITY OFFERS 4 PER CENTS.

Sale of $12,500,000 Brings Issue This Year to $62,000,000.

Controller Metz advertised yesterday the sale of $12,500,000 worth of 50-year 4 per cent. municipal bonds, to be held in his office on Dec. 10. The issue is stated to provide funds for the following purposes, $6,000,000 for general expenditures; $6,000,000 for the Catskill water system, and $500,000 for the new Public Library at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue.

This sale of municipal bonds will bring the issue during the year up to $62,000,000. Sales were held in the Spring of lots of $40,000,000 and $10,000,000. Both brought rather unsatisfactory prices, running only a little over 101. It is generally believed, however, that now that the debt limit discussion has been settled the bonds will sell at good figures. The Controller has already received assurances of large bids, and the administration is looking forward to placing its last bond sale near to the record.

PEARY VISITS TAFT IN A SNOWSTORM

Spends Half Hour with President—Will Not Go on Lecture Platform.

COOK RECORDS GO TO-DAY

Danes Should Have Brooklyn Man's Bulky Packet of Evidence Dec. 7, Says Secretary, Who Carries Them.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Commander Robert E. Peary announced to-day that he would not go on the lecture platform. "If I do any talking at all," said the north pole explorer, "I will speak before one or two scientific bodies. But I will not make a lecture tour."

Commander Peary also called in the course of the afternoon to pay his respects to the President and to receive the latter's congratulations. As the arctic explorer stepped out of his carriage and walked toward the steps of the business annex of the White House a flurry of snow beat against his face. Before he got to the door the snow had formed a blanket upon his shoulders.

"Here comes Peary!" somebody on the lookout observed.

"Well, he's certainly in his element and looks like the real thing in the polar line," remarked another.

Commander Peary was closeted with the President for half an hour.

COOK RECORDS GO TO-DAY.

Bulky Packet of North Pole Data for Danes, Says Explorer's Secretary.

The records which Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, will submit to the University of Copenhagen in proof of his claim that he reached the north pole on April 21, 1908, were yesterday, it was announced, in completed form and ready for the scrutiny to which the university authorities will subject them. Walter Lonsdale, secretary to Dr. Cook, will sail to-day on the steamer United States of the Scandinavian Line for Copenhagen, taking the records with him.

Mr. Lonsdale said to-day that the task of arranging the original records and compiling the report upon them had occupied several weeks. Dr. Cook's report, he said, constituted a rather bulky document.

"You can't put it in your vest pocket," said the secretary, who added that the document contained, he thought, between 25,000 and 30,000 words.

"I don't think that the general public understands the work that we have been doing," continued Mr. Lonsdale. "It has been said that we were 'preparing the records.' Such a statement is inaccurate. The original records go to the university just as they were made out by Dr. Cook in the arctic regions. What we have been preparing is the report to accompany them."

Mr. Lonsdale said he expected to arrive in Copenhagen on Dec. 7, and would immediately place the records in the hands of the university authorities.

"How long the university will take to examine them and make known its findings, of course, I cannot tell," he continued. "I should assume that it would be possible for the university's announcement to be made by the New Year holidays."

What precautions had been or would be taken to guard the records en route Mr. Lonsdale did not care to reveal.

DRUG MADE HIM SHOOT.

Lawyer Who Wounded Bayonne Policeman Admits Morphine Habit.

B. C. Fox, a lawyer of Canajoharie, N. Y., who on Monday night shot and seriously hurt Policeman Carl Kramer in Bayonne, N. J., collapsed in the Bayonne City Jail last night and was removed to the Bayonne Hospital.

The Bayonne police say Fox told them he had been in the habit of taking eight unusually large hypodermic injections of morphine daily during the last year and a half. He said yesterday that he had managed to keep away from the drug for five years until a year ago last Spring, when a doctor prescribed the drug. This started the habit again.

Fox told the police that he could think of no reason for shooting Kramer, and that it was simply an impulse of the moment.

Mrs. Fox is near her husband. The policeman will recover.

Court Restrains a Receiver.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday granted an order to the Crandall & Gedley Company, to restrain a receiver from taking chaage of its affairs pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals in an action brought for an accounting by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Godley, a stockholder. She says representation has been refused to her in the directory and management of the company, and that large increases in salaries were voted to officers and managers without her consent.

R. T. Dula's Tarrytown House Robbed

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The home of Robert T. Dula in South Broadway, Tarrytown, was entered by burglars some time last night, and about $500 worth of booty taken. Mr. Dula and his family were at home, but slept through the night. The burglars overlooked $2,000 worth of silverware that was in the butler's pantry.

HALES HUSBAND TO COURT.

Wife Demands Support—He Says Loan Sharks Have His Salary.

Percy Barnett, a salesman for the Armour Beef Company, who is said to be a son of a former official of the Farmeds' Loan and Trust Company, was arraigned in the Harlem Court yesterday on the complaint of his wife Daisy, who is separated from him. Mrs. Barnett wanted him put under bonds to pay her $10 a week toward the support of her seven-year-old son and a daughter of 20 months.

Mrs. Barnett said she supported herself since her separation by working in a department store. She lives at 348 West 118th Street. Her attorney, Abraham Randau, explained the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett by saying that the wife had discovered a batch of love letters in their flat, at 507 West 178th Street, written to her husband by various girls. Some were addressed "My Own Sweetheart," "My Own Tootsie," and the like, said the lawyer, and were signed with various names, among them "Verona Albertson," "Jennie H.," "Vera," and one, which Randau read to Magistrate Herbert, ended: "Your loving girl who will be true to her sweetheart, Vera." There followed a number of crosses, which Randau said represented kisses.

Barnett said that the letters were from customers, and declared that he couldn't pay the $10 a week because loan sharks got all but $1.50 a week of his $20 salary. Nevertheless the Magistrate put him under $500 bail, and he could not raise the money.

He tried to locate his father by telephone and failed. At 3 o'clock, however, his mother, Mrs. Clara M. Barnett, gave a house in Brooklyn as surety.

Police Auto Smashed Against Car.

While Patrolman Everett Sager was driving a police automobile up Lexington Avenue, near Fortieth Street, late yesterday afternoon, Reuben Nelson, of 204 Everett Avenue, Brooklyn, drove his laundry wagon off the car tracks in front of the machine without giving a signal. Sager swerved to avoid a collision, and his rear wheel skidded on the sleety pavement, throwing the automobile against the side of a northbound Lexington Avenue car, smashing the front wheels and bending the axle of the auto. Sager jumped out of the machine and arrested Nelson, charging him with violating the rules of the road. The car was not damaged and no one was hurt.

Sat on Alleged Shoplifter.

Nellie Blake, who said she lived at 126 West Thirty-fifth Street, was held in $300 bail for Special Sessions on a charge of shoplifting by Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning. She was charged with stealing a pocketbook valued at $1.98 from a Broadway department store. When Tillie Brand, a store detective, went to arrest her for the theft the woman knocked her down. Miss Brend got the better of her opponent and sat on her until a real policeman arrived.

Luncheon for Miss Smylie.

Mrs. Benjamin Griffin gave a luncheon at Sherry's yesterday for her debutante daughter, Miss Marjorie Ely Smylie. The guests, who were the girl friends of Miss Smylie, sat at one large table in the tea room, which was decorated with chrysanthemums. Those present were the Misses Hilda Holmes, Elise Ladew, Katherine Force, Madelaine Weir, Margery Shannon, Angela d'Acosta, Elise Holmes, Viola Townsend, Adelaide Pendegast, Marguerite Janvrin, Myra Baeder, Mollie Bangs, Marjorie Noyes, Rosalie Smith, Mildred Criss, Dorothea Darlington, Katherine Oakley, Gladys Robbins, and Lulu Lebaltos.

Rev. T. F. Yardley Goes to Stockbridge

Special to The New York Times.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 24.—The Rev. Thomas F. Yardley, assistant rector of St. Peter's Church in Philadelphia, has been called to the rectorship of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He will succeed the late Rev. Dr. Arthur Lawrence. He was recommended to the parish by the Rev. Dr. William Manning of New York and Bishop Alexander Vinton of the Diocese of Western Massachusetts. Miss Helen Butler of New York will present the Crossways, her Summer residence, to St. Paul's parish for a rectory.

How a Geisha Became a Princess.

Prince Ito had a narrow escape from assassination over forty years ago, when the struggle between the followers of the Mikado and of the Shogun was at its height. Pursued by a band of armed opponents, the Prince took refuge in a tea-house where he was known, and implored one of the geishas to hide him. There is in every Japanese house a dusthole. As the ground floor is raised about two feet above the earth, a square hole is cut in the floor to serve as a receptacle for the sweepings of the rooms. With great presence of mind, the geisha put Ito down this hole, and covered it up with a board, on top of which she placed a brazier. When the pursuers arrived, they found a languid girl sitting by the fire, who expressed her surprise at their visit, and assured them they were at liberty to look through the house. After a careful search, they departed disappointed, not one of them having thought of the dusthole. The Prince thereupon scrambled out, dirty but grateful, and full of admiration for his preserver's coolness and promptitude. He returned many times to that tea-house, and ultimately the heroine of the adventure became Princess Ito.—London Chronicle.

Willie Knew.

The teacher was trying to familiarize her little pupils with the definition of the word "tame."

"And what do most animals become after thev have been in the zoo a long time?" she asked her class.

Up went the chubby hand of the little boy in the blue reefer.

"Please, ma'am, I know," he chirped.

"What, Willie?"

"Peanut eaters, ma'am."—Chicago News

A "Home" Financial Paper

Americans are the greatest readers in the world of current literature. In the homes of the "get-ahead" American family you always find a well-selected list of papers and magazines; literary, political, maybe scientific, social and housekeeping journals, as well as the daily newspapers. The successful American is able to talk intelligently on every topic of the day.

It has remained for The New York Times Weekly Financial Review to fill the want of a financial paper to be taken at home. It is mailed for a dollar a year, and the essential news of Wall Street is made as clear, definite and interesting to the casual reader as to the bankers who have read it for years on account of the authenticity of its information.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

PHILADELPHIA, PA., November 1st, 1909.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held this date the following resolution was adopted:

"RESOLVED That, pursuant to the consent and authority given and conferred by appropriate action duly taken by this Company's stockholders for increasing its capital stock, and for the purpose of providing the funds necessary to meet maturing obligations of the Company, and for other corporate purposes, an increase of this Company's capital stock equal to twenty-five per centum of the aggregate amount thereof which shall be issued and outstanding at the close of business on the fifteenth day of November, 1909, is hereby authorized and directed, and the same shall be issued and disposed of in manner following:

The privilege of subscribing for said stock at par $50 per share, on December 8th, and to and inclusive of December 18th, 1909, on which latter date the privilege will cease, is hereby given to stockholders as they shall stand registered on the books of the Company at the close of business on November 15th, 1909, to the extent of twenty-five per centum of their respective holdings.

The terms of subscription will be as follows:

Payments may be made in three instalments, or they may be made in full, viz.:

The first instalment, 30 per cent., or $15.00 per share, at the time of making the subscription between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive.

The second instalment, 30 per cent., or $15.00 per share, between February 23rd and March 1st, 1910, inclusive.

And the third instalment, 40 per cent., or $20.00 per share, between May 26th and June 1st, 1910, inclusive.

Payments in full at the time of making the subscription, between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive.

Warrants will be issued by the Treasurer to each stockholder, specifying the amount of stock to which he is entitled to subscribe under this privilege, and such privilege may be sold by any stockholder, the warrants to have thereon a form of assignment therefor. The warrants, accompanied by the payment of the first instalment, shall be returned by the stockholders to the Treasurer between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive, and if not so returned, and the first instalment so paid, the warrants shall be void and of no value.

The Treasurer will issue, on surrender of the warrants and payment of the first instalment receipts which will be assignable and which are to be returned to the Treasurer at the time of the payment of the second instalment, whereupon assignable receipts covering the first and second instalment payments will be issued, which are to be surrendered to the Treasurer on payment of the third instalment.

Upon payment of the last instalment there will be issued a check for interest at the rate of six per centum per annum on the first instalment from December 18th, 1909, and on the second instalment from March 1st, 1910, all up to June 1st, 1910, which will amount to $0.63 per share.

To subscribers making payment in full between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive, and to those making payment of the last instalment between May 26th and June 1st, 1910, inclusive, full paid negotiable stock receipts will be issued for whole shares, exchangeable, ten days after payment, for stock certificates carrying all dividends thereafter declared.

For fractional shares, full paid stock receipts will be issued upon payments in full or upon payment of the last instalment. They will not carry any dividend or interest, but will be convertible into stock when the fractions presented make whole shares, provided such conversion is made on or before October 31st, 1910. After April 30th, 1910, such fractional stock receipts issued upon payments in full, or after October 31st, 1910, fractional receipts issued upon payment of the last instalment will be redeemed in cash at the rate of $50 per share, without interest.

Fractional receipts will pass by delivery.

The right to receive stock shall not accrue to any stockholder under this privilege unless the terms of subscription are fully complied with and payments made at the dates hereinbefore stated, and no subscription or assignment of the privilege will be recognized unless made on the forms furnished by the Company."

Warrants will be mailed about November 23rd, to stockholders of record November 15th, 1909, who have filed permanent dividend orders in this office, to the addresses indicated on such orders, and where dividends are collected by bankers, brokers, or others on powers of attorney or other authority, the warrants will be sent to such authorized parties for delivery to the stockholders, unless other instructions are received relative thereto prion to November 23rd, 1909.

ALL COMMUNICATIONS BY MAIL SHOULD BE ADDRESSED TO THE TREASURER AT PHILADELPHIA

JAMES F. FAHNESTOCK,
Treasurer.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Mills Rushed to Keep Up with the Orders—All Records Broken.

Commenting on the situation in the iron and steel trade The Iron Age says:

Gauged by the business of the past week the steel trade is at high-tide prosperity. Leading Pittsburg interests report that their new orders and specifications in that time have exceeded all records. Large as were October bookings, the rate in the first three weeks of November has been greater. Mills are still chary of far forward business. Most that they are now taking is for the first quarter, while on some products buyers are able to cover for the first half of the year.

Rail orders include 14,000 tons for the Lehigh Valley, of which more than half goes to South Bethlehem and the balance to Buffalo and Pittsburg. Some good rail business is pending. Heavy purchases of spikes and other track supplies have been made and spikes are advancing. The structural trade continues active.

Plate mills are falling further behind on deliveries and car works are increasing their specifications markedly.

The market for billets and sheet bars indicates further diminution in the supply of semi-finished steel available for smaller mills. Billets have sold at $27.50 to $28, Pittsburg.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The contrast of heavy buying of finished materials and decided quiet in pig iron is pronounced at present. There is nothing to indicate that the activity of the mills will be decreased, and the belief is general that the lull in pig iron is temporary. It is expected that production of pig iron and finished products for November will fall little, if any, short of that for October.

Railroad buying includes 9,500 cars ordered by the Santa Fe, which will require a large tonnage of steel. The New York Central has placed liberal orders for track fastenings for its western lines with the Illinois Steel Company, including 11,000 to 13,000 kegs of spikes and 3,000 to 4,000 kegs of bolts for the Lake Shore. The Erie has also placed an order for 20,000 kegs of spikes.

GOLD OUTPUT INCREASES.

Mines of the United States Produced $94,560,000 in 1908.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The gold mines of the United States produced $94,500,000 worth of the metal during 1908, according to the United States Geological Survey and the Bureau of the Mint, which have co-operated in preparing an analysis of the reports from private refineries and Federal mints and assay offices.

The total gold product was 4,574,340 ounces, a net increase in value of $4,124,300. Colorado leads with a productive value of $22,871,000; Alaska was second with $19,858,800, and California was third with $19,329,700. Porto Rico was the smallest producer, with a total of only $600. The Philippines show a remarkable increase of $219,800 to a total of $284,500.

Some States of the Union, usually not associated in the public mind with gold mining, make a showing in the report. In fact, twenty-one of the States and Territories, not including Porto Rico and the Philippines, are producing gold. Texas produced $500 worth in 1908, New Hampshire mined $3,700 worth, and somewhere in the vast grazing country of Wyoming was produced $7,600.

The summary shows a net decrease of 4,073,900 ounces of silver, with a value of $28,050,600. The total production was 52,440,800 fine ounces. Montana leads with a production of 10,356,200 fine ounces.

$8 Dividend on Calumet & Hecla.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A quarterly dividend of $8 a share was declared to-day by the directors of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company. The rate is the same as that of three months ago, and brings the total dividends of the year to $27, compared with $20 in 1908. With the payment of to-day's dividend the stockholders will have received $105,850,000 since the formation of the company.

Stocks Active and Irregular—Call Money Rates 2½@5 Per Cent.

READING TRADING'S FEATURE

Copper Shares Recover Early Losses—More Gold Engaged for Shipment to South America on London Account.

It was evident from the movement of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday that while sentiment is slowly recovering from the shock occasioned by the verdict in the Standard Oil case that incident, together with its possible sequences in the way of further litigation, and a resumption of anti-corporation legislation or attempts at such in the coming session of Congress, is still a factor in the market's course. Liquidation on a large scale went forward in numerous issues, the weakness in United States Steel in particular being generally explained as due to the considerations enumerated. A break of 4 full points in New York Central accentuated the uneasiness in speculative circles, although a specific reason for the stock's decline existed in the announcement of the forthcoming rights in accordance with the terms of the company's programme for raising fresh capital. Shares of the copper companies, which have been heavily sold for several days, on the theory that the proposed merger of the larger producers would be abandoned owing to the decision in the Standard Oil suit, were relatively firm. A decline of nearly 2 points, it is true, occurred in Amalgamated Copper, but all of this was recovered before the close of the day, and the stock closed at Tuesday night's quotations. Utah Copper finished with a small advance. The fact is that conferences are still underway among those interested in the copper situation, and unless present plans are changed there is every likelihood of the carrying out of the arrangements originally considered. Reading was conspicuously strong throughout the day, it being believed that while the extra dividend put in force by the Jersey Central, a majority of the stock of which road is owned by the Reading, would make up only a small sum for distribution among Reading shareholders, yet the real significance of the increase in the Jersey Central payment consisted in its indication of a more liberal policy on the part of the Reading in the future. The report of a deal whereby the Lackawanna should secure control of the Wabash through a guaranteed dividend upon the preferred stock of the last-named property was revived, and while effective for a time upon the price of the Wabash issues lost all weight when denied by those charged with the management of the Lackawanna.

Near the close of the Stock Exchange session a fairly large sum of money was put out at 2½ per cent., the day's high rate having been 5 per cent., and the quotation for the bulk of lending operations 4⅞ per cent. No hope is held out for any such rate as 2½ per cent. for call money as a permanent thing for some little time to come, but outside of the continued shipments of gold from this city to South America and to Canada on London account all factors are working toward ease in the local situation. Losses on routine transactions with the Government are running small, Stock Exchange requirements are at a minimum, and the inland exchanges are moving for the most part favorably. At Chicago yesterday New York exchange sold at a premium of 30 cents where it was at a discount of 5 cents on Monday. At Omaha and Kansas City, however, the money position is unusually tight.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

THE COTTON MARKET

A Decline of 2 to 10 Points Under a Bullish Crop Estimate.

A bullish crop estimate issued by a Southern authority failed to stimulate speculative buying in the cotton market yesterday, and this very fact seemed to encourage local bears, who at times sold aggressively. The pressure from this source, together with liquidation for over the holiday, imparted a very unsettled tone to the situation, and while there was more or less irregularity with the bulls at times giving prices some support, the general tendency was downward, with the close barely steady at a net decline of 2 to 10 points.

The annual canvass of Cotton Exchange members resulted in individual estimates of the commercial crop ranging from 10,150,000 to 12,250,000 bales and an average of 11,231,000 bales. The Government's estimate expected on Dec. 10, will be given in bales of 500 pounds gross weight exclusive of linters.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Interest in coffee was confined particularly to switching from the near to distant positions, while sales for the day amounted to 35,500 bags a very small proportion of it represented new business. Prices ruled steady and closed net unchanged to 5 points higher. The French market was ¼ lower early, but regained the loss and closed steady, unchanged, while Hamburg, after opening unchanged to ¼ lower, developed some firmness and closed unchanged to ¼ higher. The Brazilian markets were steady, Rio being unchanged, and Santos unchanged for No. 4s and 50 reis lower for 7s. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 4,458,567 bags, against 3,776,170 last year and 3,872,078 two years ago. The spot coffee market was steady at 8⅝c for Rio No. 7.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Philadelphia stock prices were very irregular to-day. On one side Reading, following the pace set in New York, was active at sharply advancing quotations, and this movement dragged Lehigh Valley up nearly a point, but it was lost later. Against this was seen persistent heaviness in Pennsylvania Railroad warrants, uncertain fluctuations in United States Steel, and weakness in Philadelphia Rapid Transit, and altogether it put traders very much at sea over the probable outcome.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

SALES ARE 32,000 SHARES

Belief That Deal with Utah Copper Is Pending Responsible for Heavy Speculation in the Stock at Rising Prices.

With the exception of Boston Consolidated Copper, which continued its upward course yesterday with an increased volume of trading, the Curb coppers, which have been the centre of interest in the speculation engendered by the proposed combination, experienced a marked decline in activity yesterday. Boston Copper, in which speculation is based on the stories of a coming deal with the Utah Copper Company, reported transactions of 32,000 shares yesterday and rose from 19¾ to a new high record at 21½. The other copper stocks were irregular. Greene-Cananea, which was one of the leaders during the recent rise, sold only 1,000 shares, the price ranging between 12⅞ and 12, with the close at 12⅜. Nevada Consolidated sold 12,000 between 28 and 26⅝, the close being at 27⅝.

Standard Oil was again strong yesterday, selling 141 shares between 670 and 675, the close being at the high level. American Tobacoc also regained some of the ground lost immediately after the announcement of the Standard Oil decision. On transactions of 285 shares, the price rose from 420 to 428, closing at 427.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—On the local Exchange trading of small volume was featured by a rise in Sears-Roebuck common. American Can shares were not materially affected by a published statement showing that the company since the first of the year has enjoyed a more profitable business than for the corresponding period in 1908. The demand for packers' tins has not exceeded that of normal years, but business in the general line of trade has been the best in the history of the industry, and the prospects are that net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31 will show a satisfactory gain over the last fiscal period.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Standard Oil's Future.

As time passes, the disposition grows among the financial community to look with less concern on the working effect of the Standard Oil decision. Aside from the probability of legislation, recommended alike by Roosevelt and Taft, which may be counted on to remove the danger of the application of the same medicine to the "good trusts," considerable satisfaction is obtainable from the recollection of the ease with which the situation created by the dissolution of the Northern Securities Company was met, and the rapidity with which the Street came to accept that ruling of the court as a welcome clearing of the atmosphere. To support his contention that the "community of interest" idea is not in danger, a banker who was closely concerned in the Northern Securities tangle recalled the express language of Justice Brewer on this point. In showing how the rights of the individual limit the general scope of the "anti-trust act," Justice Brewer made the following specific application to James J. Hill's case, which might easily be applied to the individuals in Standard Oil and the New Jersey corporation's subsidiaries: "Mr. Hill was the owner of a majority of the stock in the Great Northern Railway Company. He could not by any act of Congress be deprived of the right of investing his surplus means in the purchase of stock of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, although such purchase might tend to vest in him, through that ownership, a control over both companies. In other words, the right which all other citizens had of purchasing Northern Pacific stock, could not be denied to him by Congress because of his ownership of stock in the Great Northern Company."

Call Money at 2 1-2 Per Cent.

Call money, which loaned freely early in the day at from 4¾ to 5 per cent., dropped at the close to 2½ per cent. This suggested an important change in the money market position and created hopes in some quarters of the restoration at an early date of the low call money rates which prevailed for so long up to some weeks ago. Inquiry developed the fact, however, that this low rate was due to the loaning out at the end of the day of brokers' balances, which were put out at this figure to prevent their being allowed to stand idle over the holiday. Both call money and sixty and ninety day money loaned in some quantity yesterday at 5 per cent., and the belief in banking circles was that this figure much more closely indicated the actual position of the money market than the 2½ per cent. rate quoted at the close of the day. Domestic exchange at some interior points, notably at Chicago, moved further in favor of New York, a premium of 30 cents on New York exchange being quoted at Chicago.

Wabash and Lackawanna.

Wabash preferred dropped off more than a point yesterday from the high price of the previous day, when the stock showed a net gain of more than three points. Rumor was busy with the stock, however, and again the report was revived that the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western was to take control of the Wabash. The story was denied, as it had been on each previous occasion when it had made its appearance in the Street. The suggestion was seriously advanced at one time that the Lackawanna should take control of the Wabash, and the suggestion found some support among Lackawanna interests, but failed of meeting the approval of the men most active in the management of that property, and the deal never got beyond the most preliminary stage.

Big Four Adopts Pension System.

The Directors of the Big Four, at a meeting yesterday, put into effect the pension system which is being applied on the New York Central lines, the New York Central, the Lake Shore, and the Michigan Central having already adopted the system. The adoption of this pension system is one further step in the unification of the New York Central system and the application on this system of the plans which have been found effective in other instances in maintaining discipline and increasing the interest which the employes take in the welfare of the companies under which they serve. R. N. Harry, recently Acting Treasurer of the Big Four at Cincinnati, was designated yesterday as Treasurer of the road at that point, to succeed former Treasurer Warriner. Directors' meetings of several of the other New York Central lines were held yesterday, but only routine business was transacted.

MORE E. J. & E. RY. STOCK.

Steel Corporation Road's Capital of $6,000,000 Increased to $10,000,000.

The Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway Company, controlled by the United States Steel Corporation, has increased its capital stock from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000. The increase is in connection with the lease taken by the road of the Chicago, Lake Shore & Eastern Railway Company, which owns the exclusive terminal facilities at the Steel Corporation's plant at Gary, Ind., and at the South Chicago and Joliet plants of the corporation. The lease was secured in consideration of a cash payment of $4,000,000.

The Elgin, Joliet & Eastern has outstanding only $9,000,000 bonds issued for 60 per cent. of the cash cost of its property, guaranteed by the Steel Corporation and the road itself. These bonds were sold some time ago to William A. Read & Co., and it is understood that a public offering of the issue will shortly be made by that firm.

$171,193 Judgment Against A. P. Heinze

The Metropolitan Trust Company obtained a judgment by default yesterday against Arthur P. Heinze for $171,193 on four notes made by him on Jan. 1, 1909. The notes which aggregate $163,000 were payable $40,000 April 1, $40,000 June 1, $38,000 Aug. 15, and $45,000 Oct. 15. None were paid at maturity. Kellogg & Emery, attorneys for Mr. Heinze, obtained an order to show cause why their client's time to appear and answer should not be extended, but as it did not contain a stay the judgment was taken by default.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

For the greater part of the day the room traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were operating on the short side. With one exception, Reading, they offered the leading stocks freely, often at sharp fractional concessions, compared with the ruling quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. The day closed, however, with covering to even up contracts under way on a large scale. Reading was by far the most active stock. Steel common was next in activity, while Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper were also dealt in heavily. Fifty-nine different issues changed hands, with a grand total of 137,750 shares.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The undertone in the local market was somewhat better to-day, although during the early trading there was some realizing in evidence. Amalgamated sold to 88⅛, but later advanced to 89⅞. Boston Consolidated was the particular feature of strength, selling up 2 points, to 21⅝, and closing strong at the highest point of the day. Lake Copper was in demand at around 50. North Butte sold up to 64⅝. The balance of the list shows but comparatively little change in prices.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

American Securities Close Easy on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Money was in good supply and in increased demand on the market to-day. Discounts were easy owing to the gold influx. The market is talking of a reduction of one-half of 1 per cent. in the bank rate to-morrow, but the majority opinion is against any change in view of weak Continental exchanges and a probable South American gold demand.

On the Stock Exchange the general carryover is progressing at rates a shade easier, those for Americans being at 4½ to 5½ per cent. The tone of the markets is better except in Consols, which are still under the political cloud. Paris bought foreigners and Kaffirs, the latter closing strong, while covering operations helped home and foreign rails, especially Mexican rails.

American securities opened about unchanged. Later prices hardened under the lead of Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, and Amalgamated Copper. At noon the market was steady, with values unchanged to half a point higher than yesterday's New York closing. Hesitation followed owing to the uncertainties of the copper position. New York sold Amalgamated, Union Pacific, and United States Steel in the afternoon, which caused a set-back and made the close easy.

Bar Silver quiet, 23⅝d.

Money, 4@5 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 4¼ per cent.; for three months' bills 3⅞ per cent.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm.

Exchange on London, 25f 19½c for checks.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were firm on good industrial reports and the expectation of a strong bank return.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Daily Consular and Trade Report for to-morrow notes the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to.

4,159. AMERICAN GOODS FOR RUSSIA.—An American Consular officer in Russia has forwarded fifteen opportunities for the extension of American trade in that country. The names corresponding to the numbers given below are on file in the Bureau of Manufactures and can be obtained by interested firms by stating the number desired. The manager of the concern furnishing these names requests that American firms responding send him copies of their offer. The inquiries are as follows:

37. Wants direct connections with American importers of flax and linen goods.
38. Requests name of manufacturers of apparatus for breweries and mineral water factories and aetherical oils.
39. Wants electro technical articles for telegraph and telephones, mechanical instruments, and novelties.
40. Will buy velocipedes and sporting goods.
41. Is in the market for concrete machinery, builders' hardware, heating apparatus, radiators, measuring instruments for steam, water filters, laundry machinery, pumps, and kerosene and naphtha motors.
42. Requires machines for packing cement.
43. Is in the market for (round) bolting for sewing machines.
44. Desires machinery for mills of every description and technical articles.
45. Wants apparatus for cinematographs and gasoline motors.
46. Wants direct connections with American importers of manganese iron ore.
47. Desires machinery for paper mills, machinery for sugar plants, steam turbines, traction engines, steam plows, pumps, (like Douglas and Gould,) agricultural machinery, hardware of any kind, and hickory wood.
48. Are asking for india rubber.
49. Asks for oil for technical purposes, belting, and hardware.
50. Are in the market for mining machinery.
51. Is in urgent need of snow plows used on railroads and also for street cleaning.

4,160. SUGAR MILL EQUIPMENT AND OTHER ARTICLES.—An American Consul in the Far East reports that there appears to be excellent opportunity for the sale of certain classes of American products in his district. The sugar industry is of leading importance, and it is in supplying the equipment of these big mills that American manufacturers should keep keenly active, as it will be the beginning of profitable commercial dealing with a growing business. Two new mills are now being constructed, and a company has just been organized with a capital of $2,500,000 for the purpose of erecting a mill with a capacity of 1,000 tons daily. Other articles of American manufacture used in that country the sale of which could be increased are electrical machinery and supplies, sewing machines, bicycles, and canned provisions.

4,161. AMERICAN GOODS FOR THE PHILIPPINES.—An American business man in the West writes that he will sail the latter part of December for the Philippines for the purpose of establishing a permanent exhibit of all kinds of goods manufactured and shipped from the United States. He also intends to export to this country all kinds of Philippine products. He would like to hear from manufacturers interested in this proposition.

4,162. AMERICAN MACHINERY OF VARIOUS KINDS.—An American Consulate in a European country has received a letter from a local business man offering to represent American firms desiring to sell machinery in that country. He writes that he is especially interested in printing, lithographing, bookbinding, and paper box machinery. He gives banking references.

4,163. AMERICAN COAL.—An American Consular officer in Western Europe has forwarded the name of one of the largest importers of coal in his district, and who he states appears to be much interested in American goods, with the suggestion that firms in the United States interested in selling coal in that country enter into correspondence regarding the matter.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—There was a steady opening to the wheat market, and during the first half of the day values showed a very firm undertone, working up ⅛c to ⅜c per bushel in absence of selling pressure and influenced by continued small receipts. Later an easier feeling developed following a drop of about a cent a bushel in December at Chicago under selling by prominent commission houses on reports that a large amount of cash wheat had been purchased in the Northwest and would be shipped to Chicago. The Liverpool market failed to follow our decline of Tuesday afternoon, prices abroad being stimulated by small offerings of foreign wheat. Cash wheat here was firm, with No. 2 red quoted $1.27 asked elevator domestic, and $1.26½ nominal, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.18⅝, and No. 2 hard Winter $1.21⅝, free on board, afloat, nominal. Export sales amounted to three loads of Manitoba at New York at $1.10½, free on board, and about twelve loads resales.

CORN—Corn was inactive, but prices were steady, influenced by the early firmness in wheat and on small receipts. The weather was still somewhat unsettled, but gave promise of improving, and large receipts are predicted when the weather turns fine. A feature in the market which is attracting more attention is an improved export demand, and sales for the day amount to ten loads. Receipts at interior points were 446,000 bushels, against 323,000 bushels last week and 601,000 bushels last year. Commission houses were fairly good buyers, but prices eased off a little late with wheat and closed unchanged. No. 2 corn was quoted 72c elevator domestic and 72½c delivered, both nominal. No. 2, 88c free on board, afloat. No. 2 yellow nominal.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC EXPANDS.

Acquires Two Roads in Southwest and Entry to Mazatlan, Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

BISBEE, Ariz., Nov. 24.—The Southern Pacific Railroad has made a deal whereby it acquires the Nacozari Railroad, between Douglass and Nacozari Sonora, Mexico, and the Arizona and Colorado line, between Douglass and Courtland, Ariz. The latter line connects the mines of Phelps Dodge with the smelter at Douglass. The road, which is thirty miles long, was built this year. The Nacozari line is seven years old and is seventy-five miles long.

The Southern Pacific by this transaction connects the new road now being built between Compas and Mazatlan, Mexico, with its transcontinental road. The deal is looked upon as important, as it will give the Southern Pacific entry to Mazatlan, destined, in the opinion of many, to be the greatest harbor on the Pacific after the completion of the Panama Canal.

Last week the Southern Pacific discontinued work on the partially constructed line between Kelton, Ariz., and Naco, Ariz., which was to connect the main line with the Cannea Railway, which was to be extended to join the road now being built from Compas. More than 1,000 men were at work on the Kelton line and most of the steel has been laid.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

The Mechanics' National Bank of the City of New York,

33 WALL STREET.

Notice of Special Meeting of Stockholders.

New York, November 22, 1909.

A special meeting of the stockholders of The Mechanics' National Bank of the City of New York, is hereby called to be held at its banking office, No. 33 Wall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 23d day of December, 1909, at 12 o'clock noon, for the following purposes:

1. To vote upon resolutions authorizing and approving of the purchase by this Bank of the assets and business of the National Copper Bank, as the same shall appear upon the books of the said Bank at the time of the merger, which shall be at least equal to the assets and business of the said The Mechanics' National Bank of the City of New York, at the time of such merger.

2. To authorize the increase of the capital stock of The Mechanics' National Bank of the City of New York from three million dollars ($3,000,000) to six million dollars, ($6,000,000,) by the issue of thirty thousand (30,000) additional shares, each of the par value of one hundred dollars ($100), which said increased capital stock shall be used for the purpose of acquiring the said assets and business of the National Copper Bank, to the end that the said National Copper Bank may be consolidated and merged with this Bank; and to confirm the action of the Board of Directors in declaring a dividend of 21 per cent., contingent upon the consolidation of this Bank with the National Copper Bank becoming effective.

3. To provide that the Articles of Association of this Bank be amended so that the name of the Bank shall be changed to The Mechanics' and Metals National Bank of the City of New York, so that the Board of Directors shall consist of not less than twenty-five nor more than forty Directors, as from time to time the by-laws may prescribe, so as to provide for additional officers, so as to provide that a number of Directors less than a majority as determined by the by-laws of the Bank shall constitute a quorum, and in the event that the Articles of Association shall be so amended and the Board of Directors increased, then to elect a Board of Directors in accordance with such amendments.

4. In the event that the capital stock shall finally be increased to $6,000,000 by the addition of 30,000 shares, each of the par value of $100, then to waive the right to subscribe for such shares and to authorize the use of such additional shares in acquiring the assets and business of the said National Copper Bank.

And generally to vote upon any and all propositions in connection with the proposed merger and consolidation and the increase in the capitalization, the amendment in the Articles of Association and the issue of the proposed capital stock and the waiver and use thereof, as shall be necessary in order to carry into effect the proposed merger and consolidation and the acquisition by this Bank of the assets and business of the National Copper Bank.

The transfer books of this Bank shall be closed from 12 M., December 11, 1909, to 10 A. M., December 24, 1909.

This meeting is duly authorized and called and this notice is duly given by order of the Board of Directors.

FRANK O. ROE, Cashier.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Pine Street Building Sold to Investor—New Fourth Avenue Subway Stimulates the Brooklyn Market—Four Hundred Lots Sold—Big Demand for Suburban Property.

Huston & Asinari, in conjunction with the firm of Leonard J. Carpenter, have sold to clients of the latter the five four-story brownstone dwellings 588 to 596 Park Avenue on a plot 100 by 75. The property is located between Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Streets, and it is said that the new owners will improve it immediately with a model apartment house.

Four Hundred Brooklyn Lots Sold.

The stimulus given South Brooklyn sections by the beginning of work on the new Fourth Avenue Subway was very evident yesterday when the sale of a tract of land containing over 400 lots was announced. The sale was made by Horace S. Ely & Co. for an estate to Harry D. Johnson, who will improve and resell. The property purchased includes the entire frontage on the west side of Fifteenth Avenue, from a point between Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh Streets to beyond Eighty-third Street, and extending westward on Seventy-seventh, Seventy-eighth, Seventy-ninth, Eightieth, Eighty-first, Eighty-second, and Eighty-third Streets to within a few feet of Fourteenth Avenue. This is probably the largest tract in one ownership in this section, and its sale undoubtedly foreshadows an era of development and activity which may cause a material increase in values.

The tract is adjacent to the Coney Island extension of the Fourth Avenue route, which will run along New Utrecht Avenue and work upon which will be begun as soon as the construction on the section as far as Forty-third Street has progressed sufficiently.

Buyer for Pine Street Building.

De Selding Brothers have sold for E. M. Fulton to V. M. Turner the seven-story building at 81 Pine Street and 128 Water Street, forming an "L" around the southwest corner of Pine and Water Streets, with frontages of 29.10 feet and 23 feet. The buyer gives in part payment the new four-story double flat 308 Twelfth Street, Brooklyn, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

Mrs. Eliot Danforth has purchased from Josephine L. De Forest 49 and 51 East Thirtieth Street, two four-story brick dwellings, each on a lot 19.2 by 98.9. The property adjoins the northwest corner of Fourth Avenue, which is also owned by Mrs. Danforth, who now controls a plot 74.4 feet on the avenue and 86.8 feet on the street, opposite the corner being improved by Dodd, Mead & Co. The purchase is made from a purely investment standpoint, and the buildings are leased on terms which bring good interest on the investment.

James N. Wells's Sons have sold for Clara A. Grover of Red Bank, N. J., the gore lot on the southeast corner of Nineteenth Street and the new marginal avenue, having a frontage of fifty-eight feet on the avenue. As the land facing the new Chelsea docks is all held by large estates and corporations and not in the market there are few plots on the avenue available for investors. The purchaser will erect a building for business purposes.

Resale in Field Estate Block.

Max Marx has sold through Du Bois & Taylor to Elias Gussaroff the northwest corner of Broadway and 149th Street, a plot 100 by 160. The purchaser will erect on the premises a ten or twelve-story fire-proof apartment house. This is the first resale of part of the block purchased from the Field estate.

Clifford N. Shurman has sold for Louis Kendal to the C. N. Shurman Investing Company 432 West Fifty-fourth Street, a one-story business building on a plot 16.8 by 53.6.

Moore & Wyckoff have sold for Abraham Schwab 632 Lexington Avenue, a three-story dwelling on plot 18 by 70, adjoining the southwest corner of Fifty-fourth Street.

George Ranger was associated as broker with L. J. Phillips & Co. in the sale of the thirteen lots on the northerly side of Ninety-sixth Street, Broadway to West End Avenue, purchased by Robert E. Dowling and recently reported.

Kurz & Uren have sold for A. R. Newcomb 14 East 113th Street, a five-story single flat, on lot 20 by 100.

Only Part Cash in Belmont Sale.

It was learned yesterday that there was a trade involved in the sale of the August Belmont property at the corner of Eighty-first Street and Fifth Avenue. The property, which consists of a plot of five lots, 102.2 by 125, was sold through Pease & Elliman to the Century Holding Company, controlled by Lee & Fleischmann, who gave in part payment a parcel of three lots, 75.5 by 100, on the north side of Eighty-eighth Street, 138.10 feet west of Madison Avenue.

The plot was originally purchased by Mr. Belmont as a site for a new residence and was conveyed by him to Baron Rothschild, along with other real estate in this city about a year ago as security for a loan of $6,000,000, and he took it back a few months ago.

Jersey City Plot Brings $76,100.

Attorneys for the Lembeck & Betz Brewing Company have bought the office building, stores, and dwellings opposite the new Hudson County Court House in Jersey City, on plot fronting 128 feet on Newark Avenue, 70 feet on Oakland Avenue, and 150 feet on Court House Place, which were sold by Frank Stevens to settle the estate of Marcus Beach and Thomas E. Bray. The price was $76,100.

Westchester Acreage Prices Jump.

It was learned yesterday that F. A. Stratton of Mount Vernon, President of the Westchester Lighting Company, has purchased the Thomas Brundage farm of 126 acres one mile east of Armonk on the edge of the New York City watershed. The price reported to have been paid is about $25,000. The farm was used for many years as a dairy farm, and there is also an orchard upon which 400 barrels of apples were grown last year. This is the second large farm that Mr. Stratton has purchased in Westchester County. Several years ago he acquired the Soulice and Carpenter farms, running through from Wilmot Road, New Rochelle, to Weaver Street, Mamaroneck, at about $400 an acre. Since the construction was begun on the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway, which is to run near the property, he has refused $1,000 an acre.

Big Demand for Suburban Property.

The William P. Rae Company reports the following sales on its development, Hillcrest of Jamaica: A plot, 80 by 100, to Lavinia McLaughlin; also, a plot, 60 by 100, to Frieda Ecaubert, and a plot, 60 by 100, to A. M. Whyte.

The Columbia Investment and Real Estate Company reports that at its two recent sales, one at Hudson Heights, N. J., and the other at Edgewater, N. J., it disposed of a total of 94 lots, representing a value of $76,835.60.

E. T. Newman has sold a parcel, 85 by 100, on the north side of Twentieth Street, east of Ninth Avenue, for the Wallach & Glac Company to J. S. Tibbins.

The Duross Company has sold for Annie Hutchings a three-family house, on plot 25 by 100, at 291 Riverside Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

Clifford N. Shurman has sold for the C. N. Shurman Investing Company 8 Henderson Place, adjoining East Seventy-sixth Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 30.8½ by 46, to Alice Guy Alling; also, for the Armor Realty Company to the C. N. Shurman Investing Company, a plot of 19 lots at Huntington, L. I.; also, for H. J. Konderman, to the C. N. Shurman Investing Company, 185 Orient Way, a three-story dwelling and grounds, at Rutherford, N. J., and for Orville C. Alling, to the C. N. Shurman Investing Company, 720 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, a three-story dwelling and grounds.

T. J. Burke, in conjunction with the Yonkers Realty Exchange, has sold the three-family brick and frame apartment, on lot 26 by 100, at 291 Riverdale Avenue, Yonkers, to Arthur J. Raymond of Manhattan.

Resales at Woodmere, L. I.

The Maximilian Morgenthau syndicate, which recently purchased the town of Woodmere, L. I., reports additional resales of 230 lots for $355,000, being a total of 665 lots sold for $845,000 in less than ten days. Several sales are in progress of closing.

The buyers are Francis A. Lowe, forty-one lots on Wyckoff Place, Wood Lane, and Railroad Avenue; Emil Eiseman and A. Arkush, 108 lots on Woodmere Boulevard, Burton Avenue, Chapman Road, and Browers Point Branch Road; Arthur W. Connable, seventeen lots, corner of Broadway and Woodmere Boulevard, and eight lots on Wyckoff Place, near Broadway; G. Heidelberg, ten lots on Burton Avenue and Browers Point Branch Road for immediate improvement with three dwellings; Charles Evans, eight lots on Burton Avenue, near Broadway, and McAvoy Brothers, thirty-eight lots on Burton Avenue, near Crawford and Chapman Road, for immediate improvement with five dwellings.

Prof Spingarn Buys Estate.

Moore & Wyckoff have sold to Prof. Spingarn of Columbia University the Boyce-Smith estate, consisting of 160 acres, with house and outbuildings at Leedsville, N. Y. This property adjoins the estate sold to Prof. Spingarn last Summer through the same brokers.

Lewis S. Chanler Leases Dwelling.

Moore & Wyckoff, in conjunction with Henry D. Winans & May, have leased for Mrs. Anna M. Fowler the furnished dwelling at 18 East Fifty-eighth Street to Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler for the season.

Lofts and Stores Leased.

The Building and Engineering Company has rented through Frederick Fox & Co. the fifth loft of 928 and 930 Broadway and 17 East Twenty-first Street to Cohen Brothers.

M. & L. Hess have leased for Tanenbaum, Strauss & Co. to Sommer & Mittler the fourth loft in 201 Greene Street; also, for H. S. Ely & Co. to G. & S. Petticoat Company space in 156 Fifth Avenue; also, for Weisen & Goldstein to Selmar Hess, the second loft in 151 and 153 West Twenty-fifth Street, and for the Aurora Investing Company to Samuel Stoopack the ninth loft in 115 and 117 West Twenty-seventh Street.

Alexander J. Roux & Co. have leased 5,000 square feet in the Ditson Building, 8 to 12 East Thirty-fourth Street, to Bennett H. Tobey for a term of years.

Myer Bondy has leased for the Seventeenth Street Realty Company to Jacob Auslander the seventh loft in the building now in course of construction at 243 to 247 West Seventeenth Street for a term of years.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the ground floor at 324 to 328 Pearl Street for Edward F. Jackman to Harper & Brothers; also, the first loft at 94 White Street, to Michael B. Decunzo, and a floor at 59 Ann Street to George Henke.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

They Had Invested In LONG BEACH

Abraham Lincoln said "the foolish and the dead alone never change their opinions."

When this mighty enterprise was launched a little over two years ago thousands of people thought it was a promoter's dream. The idea of ONE MAN attempting to transform a tract of over TWO THOUSAND ACRES of sand into a bigger, more beautiful, more refined and better restricted all-the-year around resort than Atlantic City seemed preposterous.

But no one thinks so now.

A huge wave of popularity has struck Long Beach. Scores of magnificent homes (some costing as much as $30,000) are springing up here and there as if by magic. Visitors stand amazed at the wonderful transformation that has been wrought here in the brief space of two years.

The great 2½ mile boardwalk; the imposing $750,000 Nassau Hotel; the beautiful Casino, and the charming homes that dot the island everywhere elicit the most extravagant praise of every one.

Go and see Long Beach yourself. Look at all these evidences of promises fulfilled; scan the list of purchases of lots, which now exceeds the sum of 6½ millions of dollars; note the wonderful improvements we have made and you will come away wishing you had invested here at the very beginning, instead of waiting as you have. But it's not too late to invest to large profit as yet. Send for literature and maps at once, and also for tickets for our special guest train next Sunday.

Florida Land.
We strongly urge full investigation of Florida lands offered for sale by the Tampa Bay Land Company through us. The land is very fertile, prices low and terms very easy. No taxes for four years and no interest. Amount of land limited, and growing less daily.
We can show where a good income can be made at a very moderate initial expense, which is soon returned through cultivation of the land. To any one interested in agriculture this is a splendid opportunity, also as an investment it is of the best. It is well worth the time of any one to either call upon us or send a letter or postal and our representative will call. We will give fullest particulars in regard to this land and its productiveness, also prices, terms, &c.

THE PINES OF "BRIGHTWATERS" BAYSHORE, LONG ISLAND

A few months ago we opened the first section of "The Pines," which met with such a ready sale that we have been kept busy preparing to open an additional section, which we are pleased to announce is now ready for market. This affords an opportunity of a lifetime to secure a large home plot at acreage prices in one of the most desirable residential spots on Long Island.

"The Pines" adjoins beautiful "Brightwaters," where we have just completed the dredging of the largest boating harbor ever undertaken by a developing company, and where many purchasers, in addition to our construction operations, are building permanent and Summer homes. These plots in "The Pines" of "Brightwaters" are ideal locations for bungalows and smaller dwellings. Already a large number of unique California bungalows have been erected, and many others are in course of construction.

Reputation for Cleanliness.

The reputation of the Want Page of The New York Times for cleanliness and reliability is rapidly spreading throughout the city. That is why the highest class of business houses do not hesitate to advertise in The Times when Help is wanted. That is why the best class of Help read the Want Page of The Times. They know they will find there only legitimate advertisements. They know, too, they can promptly have an advertisement stopped, if an investigation proves it to be undesirable. All of which helps to bring together the best employers and employes.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The southern edge of the storm of Monday and Tuesday developed into a severe independent storm after reaching the North Carolina coast, and in connection with a marked high area from the Hudson Bay country, caused general snows and rains Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, accompanied by northerly goles. Wednesday night the storm was central near Block Island, R. I., moving northeastward. The northwestern storm is losing in intensity, but rains and snows have preceded it into the Upper Mississippi Valley and the northern upper lake region. There were also local snows in Montana, and more rain over the middle and north districts west of the Rocky Mountains.

The Atlantic Coast storm will continue rapidly northeastward, and will be followed by clearing weather in the Middle Atlantic States and New England. The slight disturbance over eastern North Dakota will probably cause a continuance Thursday of the local rains or snows in the Upper Mississippi Valley and northern and western upper lake region, but elsewhere over the eastern half of the country the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have high north to northwest winds, diminishing by Thursday night; snow Thursday; fair Friday ot the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY AND FRIDAY.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday; slightly warmer Friday; diminishing north winds, becoming variable by Friday.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday; slightly warmer Friday; moderate north winds, becoming variable.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Thursday; sno in northeast portion Friday; partly cloudy and slightly warmer; diminishing wonds, becoming variable.

New England—Partly cloudy in southwest, snow in north and east portion Thursday, with high north winds. Friday, partly cloudy; slightly warmer in west portion.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

| | 1908. | 1909. | | 1908. | 1909. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 3 A. M. | 48 | 36 | 4 P. M. | 55 | 31 |
| 6 A. M. | 49 | 36 | 6 P. M. | 54 | 31 |
| 9 A. M. | 50 | 39 | 9 P. M. | 52 | 30 |
| 12 M. | 53 | 38 | 12 P. M. | 50 | .. |

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 34; for the corresponding date last year it was 53; average on the corresponding date for the last twenty-five years, 41.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 38; at 8 P. M. it was 31. Maximum temperature 40 degrees at 9:45 P. M.; minimum 29 degrees at 10 P. M. Humidity, 83 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 94 per cent. at 8 P. M.

TOBACCO MEN ENTER A STRONG PROTEST

Use of a Label as Government Guarantee on Philippine Cigars Stirs Them to Action.

DEFENDED IN WASHINGTON

Use Cannot Be Prohibited by the Government, it Is Declared—Same Situation in Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A flood of protests has reached the Treasury Department from American tobacco interests flaying the Government because of the use of a label which is claimed to be the Government's guarantee on Philippine cigars. The fault lies not with the United States Government, but with the Philippine Government. This statement was made at the Treasury Department to-day, and it was pointed out that the remedy lay with Congress.

The cigars are entering this country with a label attached by the Philippine Government attesting the production of the tobacco manufacturers under Government regulation, including the sanitary features. According to the Washington authorities, where that label does not encroach upon any of the marks, stamps, or brands required by the law and regulations of the Treasury Department its use cannot be objected to officially any more than would the use of advertising labels, names, &c., by manufacturers in the United States.

The new tariff law differentiates plainly between internal revenue taxes collected for the benefit of the United States, and internal revenue taxes collected for the benefit of the Philippine Government. The Philippines, like Porto Rico, have a regularly organized taxation system entirely separate from the United States internal revenue system.

The Philippine situation is similar to that in Porto Rico, except that no law has been passed authorizing the sale of internal revenue stamps in the Philippine Islands, and the stamps were authorized by the department to be placed with the Internal Revenue Collector for the Philippines for stamping taxable goods coming to the United States. These stamps are to facilitate business and cannot be used to pay internal revenue taxes imposed under the Philippine laws, which provide their own evidences of tax payment.

TAFT MAKES MILLS GOVERNOR.

Present Chief Justice of Territory to be Chief Executive of New Mexico.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 24.—President Taft to-day tendered to Chief Justice W. J. Mills of the New Mexico Supreme Court the office of Governor of New Mexico, and Justice Mills accepted the appointment.

William Joseph Mills was appointed Chief Justice in 1898 by President McKinley, and has served continuously since. He was born in Yazoo City, Miss., Jan. 31, 1849, and was graduated from the law department of Yale in 1877. He practiced law in Connecticut for many years afterward, was elected to the lower branch of the Connecticut State Legislature, and then served for six years in the State Senate.

He retired from that body to resume his law practice, which he continued until he was appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico by the late President McKinley, in 1898.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 24.—Judge W. H. Pope of Roswell was to-day appointed Chief Justice of New Mexico to succeed Chief Justice Mills, who has been appointed Territorial Governor.

RICH MAN WEDS A NURSE.

Mrs. Walsh, 29, to Become the Bride of John G. Merselis, Aged 62.

Miss Catherine Walsh, a young trained nurse of 106 East Twelfth Street, and John Edwin Merselis, a wealthy widower of 270 East Thirtieth Street, Paterson, N. J., who is 62 years old, will be married in the bride's home next Wednesday night. The couple took out a marriage license yesterday, Miss Walsh giving her age as 29.

The couple are old friends, Miss Walsh having been well acquainted with both Mr. and Mrs. Merselis for many years before the latter's death three or four years ago. Mr. Merselis inherited a fortune and has since lived on his income, never engaging in business.

Since the death of his wife, his daughter, Mrs. A D. Payne, has lived with him, and it was said last night that she would continue to stay in the Paterson homestead after the marriage of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Merselis will have a quiet wedding, only a few intimate friends being present, and after a wedding trip will live in Paterson.

TRANSFER CASE TANGLE.

Public Service Commission Ordered to Cut Out Part of Its Answer.

A decision involving the qeustion of transfers on the Fifty-ninth street line was handed down yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, ordering the Public Service Commission to strike out 250 pages of printed matter in its answer to the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company.

The receivers obtained a writ of certerari to review the order of the commission establishing through routes, and joint rates with the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, and the Fifty-ninth Street line. This orders of the Public Service Commission was made on Oct. 30, 1908, after a hearing before it, ordering the roads to exchange transfers for a single fare, and apportioning the proportion of the rate to be borne by the roads within the transfer zone so designated.

Eleven days later on Nov. 11, 1908, the receivers of the Metropolitan system, Adrian H. Joline and Douglas Robinson, obtained the writ of certiorari to review the action. A motion of the Public Service Commission to quash the writ was denied by the Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals affirmed this decision.

JURY GIVES JUDGE A POSER.

Wants to Render a Verdict with the Good Old Scotch Flavor.

"Can we return a verdict in this case finding the defendant not guilty, withr a recommendation for a reprimand?" was the unusual question propounded to Judge Humphrey in the Queens County Court, Long Island City, yesterday by a jury who were deliberating on a verdict in the case of James Dillon, charged with assaulting Bernard Lang and Edward Yeager in September.

After being charged and leaving the court room, the jury wrestled over some points in evidence and finally went back into court to hear certain portions of the testimony read and receive further instructions. Finally they concluded they had reached a happy solution of the difficulty when they filed into court a second time and propounded the question to the Court.

They went back to the jury room again somewhat wiser, and about half an hour later sent out word that this time they had surely reached an agreement, and, whe nushered into court for the third time, they rendered a verdict of acquittal.

JOHN BIGELOW 92 TO-DAY.

Publishes Three Volumes of Retrospections on His Birthday.

John Bigelow, Minister to France during the civil war and the biographer of Samuel J. Tilden, keeps to-day his ninety-second birthday. He was born at Malden, Saugerties, N. Y., on Nov. 25, 1817.

In spite of his advanced years Mr. Bigelow is still in good health and works regularly every day. Yesterday he published three volumes of "Retrospections of an Active Life," in which he reviews a career of many and important activities. He is still the President of the New York Public Library, having been appointed to that post on the amalgamation of the Astor and Lenox Libraries with the Tilden foundation.

Mr. Bigelow was called to the bar as long ago as 1838, but gave up most of his energies to newspaper work. In 1848 he was prominent among political writers for his support of Martin Van Buren as the Presidential candidate of the Free Soil Democrats. He was invited by William Cullen Bryant to join him in the ownership of The Evening Post and continued to be one of its proprietors until 1860.

From 1861 to 1867 he was in Paris, first as American Consul General and then as Minister, and during that time aided in thwarting a plan to permit the Confederates to purchase four ironclads there. He also negotiated the withdrawal of France from Mexico. On his return to America he was Secretary of State for New York on the Democratic ticket from 1875 to 1877 and became intimately associated with Samuel J. Tilden. For many years now he has taken no further part in public life, but has written much to the newspapers and magazines.

MRS. DUNCAN BOYS' FRIEND.

Again Invites Long Island Newsies to be Her Christmas Guests.

Some thirty boys who sell papers around the railroad station, Long Island City, and who are favorites of the commuters, are already counting the days till Christmas. Conforming to her yearly custom, Mrs. W. Butler Duncan who lives at Port Washington, L. I., has directed Train Announcer Alfred E. Meeks to get the boys together for a holiday outing, when they will be taken to Manhattan, dinned, and taken to the Hippidrome afterward.

By way of adding dignity to their outing this year the boys have organized themselves into a club. Their officers are: President—James Acernal; Vice President—Joseph Tonnery; Secretary—Frank Thorantio; Treasurer—Michael Acernal; Sergeant at arms—John Trimble. The boys are also willing to elect Mrs. Duncan to any office she would like to hold.

DROWNED IN SEWER BASIN.

Workman at the Bottom, Caught in Rush of aBck Water.

James Shanley, who was employed by the Sewer Department, was drowned under peculiar circumstances yesterday afternoon in a sewer basin at Graham Avenue and Frost Street, Williamsburg. He went into the basin by a ladder, and while at the bottom in his big boat, there was a sudden back rush of water, due to the high tide. It came with such force that Shanley was knocked off his feet, and the basin instantly filled. When the water ran off Shanley's fellow-workers on the outside descended in the basin, and when they reached the bottom they felt him lying in the mud.

Shanley was still alive when he was hauled up to the street and rolled on a barrel. He was dead on the arrival of Ambulance Surgeon Lamb of the Williamsburg Hospital.

Shanley lived at Court and Nelson Streets, Brooklyn, and while working for the Sewer Department had had several narrow escapes.

LEAPS BEFORE ELEVATED CAR.

Woman a Suicide at 145th Street Station—Unidentified.

An unidentified woman who brushed past the ticket chopper and ignored his calls that she had not deposited her ticket, committed suicide on the elevated tracks at the 145th Street Station of the Sixth Avenue Railroad yesterday morning by jumping in frotn of a southbound train. She is believed to have lived somewhere in the neighborhood of the scene of the suicide, Eighth Avenupe and 145th Street.

It was necessary to split the train and jack up the front trucks of the third car to extricate the body. Then it was found that the suicide's head had been severed, and both legs cut off below the knees.

The woman appeared to be about 25 years old, five feet four inches tall, and weighed about 140 pounds. She wore a black plush coat with satin lining, a green turban hat with yellow trimmings and feathers, black high-heeled ties, black stockings and black skirts. Her hair was light brown.

Hatrry Parks, he motorman, was allowed to continue his trip and was then arrested on a technical charge of homicide. He was later arraigned before Magistrate Herbert in the Harlem Court and remanded to the Coroner. Arraigned before Coroner Shrady he was paroled in the custody of counsel.

INSURANCE WARNING ISSUED.

State Department Hears Unauthorized Companies Seek to Do Business.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—The State Insurance Department to-day issued a warning to citizens of New York that those who deal with insurance companies or fraternal beneficiary orders which are not properly certified and examined under the law of this State do so at their peril. Agents representing such companies are liable to one year's imprisonment or a fine of $500, or both.

Within the last month, the statement says, inquiry or complaint has been made to the department that the following unauthorized companies and orders are attempting to do business in his State: United States Indemnity Society, Boston; the Sons of Jacob, Philadelphia; the Famobrosis Society, Washington; the Farmers' and Breeders' Mutual Reserve Fund and Live Stock Company, Williamsport, Penn.; the Independent Western Star Order, Chicago; the Safety Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Lebanon, Penn., and the Keystone Guard, Athens, Penn.

The statement says that information tending o show that persons are soliciting insurance in New York as agents for any of the unauthorized concerns will be laid before the proper District Attorney by the department, that indicments may be found, and convicions had.

Lloyd C. Griscom Joins Philbin Firm.

It was announced yesterday that Lloyd C. Griscom, former United States Ambassador in Rome, and at one time American Minister at the Mikado's Court, would become a member of the law firm of Philbin, Beekman & Menken, beginning Dec. 1. From that date on the firm will be known as Philbin, Beekman, Menken & Griscom.

ARREST AT A WEDDING.

Bridegroom's Uncle, Arrayed in His Best, is Taken to the Tombs.

Arrayed in evening dress, carrying a bunch of roses, and accompanied by his wife and several children, all well dressed, Max Freed, President of the bankrupt Suffolk Boarding and Livery Stable, reached Progress Hall, 28 Avenue A, last night to attend a wedding in the hall.

Hardly had he stepped from the taxicab in which he arrived when he was arrested by United States Deputy Marshals Doonan and Gilday, on a Federal warrant charging him with perjury in the testimony he gave concerning the distribution of the assets of the company. Judge Hand issued the warrant several weeks ago, after the Federal Grand Jury had returned the indictment for perjury against him.

Freed is the uncle of the bridegroom, Meyer J. Freidman, and was to attend the wedding as the latter's nearest relative. The bride was May Rushkind. The wedding, which was to have taken place at 7:30, was delayed until 11 because of the confusion following the arrest. An attempt was made to get bail for Freed before the wedding was performed, but no United States Judge could be found, and he remained in the Tombs.

HERE ON ABDUCTION CHARGE.

Moltato Found with Trotter Girl Brought Back from Newark.

Joseph Moltato, an Italian tailor, who was accused by Nicholas Trotter of 335 Ninetieth Street, Brooklyn, with abducting his fifteen-year-old daughter Frances on Oct. 18, was brought to Brooklyn yesterday by Detective Puchiano of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau from Newark, N. J. He was arrested there on Nov. 5 at 135 West Kinney Street, where the police in that city found him and the girl. They declared they had been married by a Justice of the Peace in that city.

The girl has since been brought to this city, and is in the care of the Children's Society. She says that Moltato forced her to go with him, threatening to shoot her if she refused. Moltato will be arraigned in the County Court to-morrow on an indictment charging him with abduction.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—JOHN STAUDT, as Executor under the Last Will and Testament of Joseph Huber, deceased, Plaintiff, against SAMUEL SCHENKER, and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 12th day of November, 1909, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 7th day of December, 1909, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by BRYAN L. KENNELLY, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

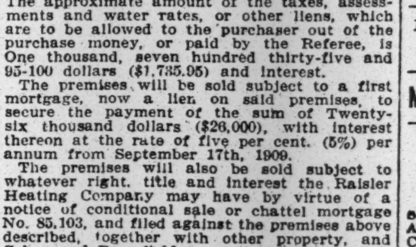
ALL that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate lying and being in the Borough of Manhattan, of the City of New York, in the County of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the Northerly side of 137th Street, distant sixty-two feet six inches Westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of said Northerly side of 137th Street with the Westerly side of 5th Avenue; running thence Northerly, parallel with 5th Avenue ninety-nine feet eleven inches to the centre line of the block between 137th and 138th Streets; thence Westerly, along said centre line of the block, thirty-seven feet six inches; thence Southerly, parallel with 5th Avenue, ninety-nine feet eleven inches to the Northerly side of 137th Street; and thence Easterly, along the Northerly side of 137th Street, thirty-seven feet six inches to the point or place of beginning.

Dated New York, November 12th, 1909.
LAUREN CARROLL, Referee.

GUSTAV LANGE, JR., Attorney for Plaintiff. Office & Post Office Address No. 257 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street Number is 3 West 137th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is Thirteen thousand, three hundred forty-two and 32-100 dollars ($13,342.32), with interest thereon from the 12th day of November, 1909, together with the costs and allowance amounting to Three hundred and seventy-eight and 03-100 dollars ($378.03), with interest from November 12th, 1909, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is One thousand, seven hundred thirty-five and 95-100 dollars ($1,735.95) and interest.

The premises will be sold subject to a first mortgage, now a lien on said premises, to secure the payment of the sum of Twenty-six thousand dollars ($26,000), with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. (5%) per annum from September 17th, 1909.

The premises will also be sold subject to whatever right, title and interest the Raisler Heating Company may have by virtue of a notice of conditional sale or chattel mortgage No. 85,103, and filed against the premises above described, together with other property, and Cohen and Bramfield as vendees, in the office of the Register of the County of New York on December 7th, 1908.

Dated New York, November 12th, 1909.

BAKER ANGRY ABOUT RECKLESS MOTORISTS

Laws to Deal with Them Inadequate, and Even These Are Not Well Enforced.

WOMAN'S FATE STIRS HIM

Suggests Illuminated Numbers and Police Licenses to Lessen Slaughter by High Power Machines.

Police Commissioner Baker raged yesterday against careless and cruel automobilists who are responsible for so many accidents on the streets of the city. He was seconded by Deputy Commissioner Bugher and Inspector McCafferty, who believe that the laws restraining automobilists are not strong enough, that what laws are on the books are not enforced, and that public sentiment is not aroused as it should be against reckless running of powerful mechines through the city streets.

The police heads were stirred to indignation by news from the J. Hood Wright Hospital of the probable death of Miss Alice Mohen, who was knocked down Tuesday night at Broadway and 137th Street, and then dragged along by an automobile about which little has been learned except that it was of the Peerless make. The chauffeur, after stopping and starting his machine until he had shaken the stricken woman from the machinery of his car, raced away.

This is the sixth automobile accident here of a serious nature within a month.

"It is time for a radical change in the law governing the running of automobiles," said Commissioner Baker yesterday. "It is astounding to hear of foreigners coming here and asking the United States to send money abroad to save the lives of sufferers—to hear of this Government sending warships to a foreign shore when two Americans have been killed—to hear of churches and charitable organizations sending money to save the lives of heathens when right here under their eyes murder is being done wantonly every day.

"It is about time for the citizens of New York to hold a mass meeting and protest to the Legislature against this wholesale slaughter. A mass meeting at Carnegie Hall to cry out for relief and protection might do some some good.

"The numbers of all machines should be illuminated at night. It would be well for all citizens to remember, when they see an automobile accident, that it is their duty to get the number of the machine and telephone their information at once to Police Headquarters.

Faster Than a Motor-Cycle.

"Take this accident of last night, for instance. I understand that this chauffeur was going so fast that even a motorcycle policeman and a mounted cop were unable to overtake him. The chauffeurs ought to be forced to have their photographs taken and left with the police. They should be forced to carry a photograph of themselves and a license number, so the police could arrest and send to prison all persons not qualified to drive a car.

"I think the police should have charge of the licensing of chauffeurs. Any engineer who runs a dinky little harmless donkey engine in this city gets his license from the Police Department. If an accident occurs, an investigation is made, and if he is responsible, his license is taken away. Marine engineers are under the same supervision. Why, even these asphalt rollers that creep along the streets—the law requires that a man go ahead of them and wave a danger signal. But sixty horse-power automobiles run like wild through the streets, slaughter people right and left, and what can we do?

"Arrest them? Bah! We arrest a chauffeur or an owner and he is fined a measly little ten dollars. He pays the fine with a laugh and goes out and does it all over again. They should be sent to prison—given a good stiff sentence, and then these fellows would stop and look around occasionally."

First Deputy Commissioner Bugher remarked that Commissioner Baker had hit the nail on the head.

"A good many of these chauffeurs, you will notice," said Mr. Bugher, "are dope fiends. They are nervous and irresponsible. They all smoke cigarettes, and they are all too nervous to be allowed to run machines."

More Precautions in Europe.

The National Highways Protective Society, which has been in existence a year, is actively at work on the automobile problem. Its object is to make the streets and highways safe. Col. Edward S. Cornell, its Secretary, said yesterday that nearly 90 per cent. of the accidents now on the streets and highways are caused by automobiles. His organization is having prepared for introduction at the next Legislature a bill relating to automobiles. It will require, among other things, that chauffeurs stand a rigid examination, as they are compelled to do in Europe, and also that all machines shall carry number plates large enough to be read.

Already, he points out, there have been issued in New York State about 88,000 licenses, and the number is growing rapidly. When figures are put on a small plate, he says, and particularly after the chauffeurs have squirted oil on them, so that they will gather a lot of dust, it is next to impossible to read a number unless one is within a few feet of the automobile and has a magnifying glass.

The automobile that almost killed Miss Mohen Tuesday night, Col. Cornell pointed out, got away without any one being able to read its number, and that despite the fact that another machine chased it for some distance.

America has not begun to take the precautions for the prevention of automobile accidents that the European countries have taken, Col. Cornell says.

TURKEY AS WEDDING GIFT.

Belleville's "Marrying Magistrate" Presents Couple with a Big, Live Bird.

With a big, live Thanksgiving turkey in the back of their carriage, a happy wedded couple drove away from the office of Justice John C. La Faucherie, the "marrying Magistrate," of Belleville, N. J., yesterday afternoon. The bird was presented to them as a wedding present by the Justice. With turkeys at 32 cents a pound the Judge hated to part with this one, but there was no other way out of it. The Magistrate usually gives a present to each couple he marries. When this pair called he was all out of his stock of rolling pins, dishpans, and kindred household articles, but he didn't want to make an exception to the rule, so the turkey, with a dainty bit of blue ribbon tied about its neck, was handed over.

The recipients gave their names and addresses as Jethro Winston of Jacksonville, N. J., and Marie Vey Voret of Brookdale, N. J.

"I don't often give such costly presents," the Magistrate said later, "but I like to gladden hearts at holiday time."

MOVE POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

Section of It Gone to New Building and Officials Will Go Dec. 4.

Police Headquarters began to move yesterday from its historic Mulberry Street home to the new Headquarters Building, a few blocks below in Broome Street. The new home will contain all of the latest improvements for receiving and sending messages, including a wireless telegraph apparatus, which will be installed in the home of the new building. By midnight next Saturday the new switchboard will be ready for use in the new quarters, and from that time all messages on police matters will be sent from the new home. The furniture and papers of the Board of Repairs and Supplies were removed from Mulberry Street yesterday.

On the night of Dec. 4 Commissioner Baker and the other officials will move into their new quarters, and that will mark the final passing away of the old Police Headquarters in Mulberry Street.

In 1844 the principal office of the Police Department was in the City Hall, and there was a branch office at the corner of Bowery and Third Street. In 1857 headquarters were established at 88 White Street, and six months after that were removed to 413 Broome Street. In 1862 the present home at 300 Mulberry Street was built and possession was taken in 1863. The Mulberry Street headquarters, with the land on which it stood and the additions made to it in 1868 and 1869, cost $230,860.

The new headquarters building was authorized by the Board of Estimate April 24, 1903, and L. V. Hoppin of 244 Fifth Avenue was appointed architect. The cost of the building was to be $500,000, but already $814,498 has been expended. It was first proposed to erect the new Police Headquarters on Eighth Avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Streets, but on June 27, 1904, the Board of Estimate approved the old Centre Market site.

TRIES TO POISON HERSELF.

Mrs. Thomasen, Revived, Says She Quarreled with Brother-in-Law.

Mrs. Gertrude Thomasen, who lives with her husband, Joseph C. Thomasen, an Immigration Inspector, at 516 West 159th Street, attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon at her home by swallowing a small quantity of belladonna. After taking the drug Mrs. Thomasen ran to the apartment of Mrs. Carroll on the same floor and told her what she had done.

Mrs. Carroll screamed, and Policeman Brugeman of the West 152d Street Station heard her and hurried to the flat. He immediately called Dr. Linstsky of the Washington Heights Hospital. When the surgeon arrived Mrs. Thomasen was unconscious, but she was revived. Later she was removed to the hospital.

After regaining consciousness Mrs. Thomasen told the police and doctors at the hospital that her act was prompted by a quarrel she had with her brother-in-law earlier in the day.

Mrs. Thomasen will be arraigned in the Harlem Court this morning, if her condition permits, on a charge of attempted suicide.

CITY TO GUARD BLASTS.

Jersey City Stations an Inspector as Adviser to Railroad Cut Contractors.

Testimony was taken before Judge Blair in Jersey City yesterday in the case of Arthur Loeb, Vice President of the Millard Construction Company, and seventeen employes of the company, arrested on Nov. 9, charged with maintaining a nuisance in the Erie Railroad cut the company is sinking through Jersey City Heights.

Accidents in the cut became so numerous, that Prosecutor Pierre P. Garven of Hudson County decided to put a stop to them, and made a raid on the work, causing the arrest of Loeb and the others.

Twenty-five witnesses were examined at the hearing. Some were former employes of the company, and the others residents near the cut. They said accidents were frequent. William Taylor, a blasting foreman at the cut, said that most of these accidents were due principally to negligence on the part of employes.

The hearing will be continued on Monday, when Assistant Prosecutor George T. Vickers will submit reports of three hospitals in Jersey City, to show the number of persons treated for injuries while working in the Erie cut.

As the result of a conference between Prosecutor Garven, Jersey City, officials, and representatives of the Millard Construction Company to plan a way to moderate the dynamite blasts in the Erie cut, Mayor H. O. Wittpenn appointed Thomas Meaney of 17 Elizabeth Street, Jersey City, an inspector to supervise the blasts, and endeavor to prevent the destruction of life and property. He will be paid $5 a day by the Millard company, and will report to Prosecutor Garven.

ENCYCLOPAEDIA SUIT UP AGAIN

Charge Now That Accounts Have Been Transferred in Defiance of the Court.

Charges that Horace E. Hooper of London and others had caused funds to be transferred secretly from accounts kept by the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company in this city to accounts in London, and that these acts were in violation of a restraining order issued on July 10 last by the New Jersey Court of Chancery, formed the basis of a hearing in that court in Newark yesterday in contempt proceedings.

The action was brought by Walter M. Jackson of Newton, Mass., who brought suit several months ago against Hooper for an accounting and to establish a partnership in the encyclopaedia company. It was supposed that the difficulties between the two had been settled by an agreement reached out of court by which Mr. Jackson elected to buy out the Hooper American holdings.

Contempt proceedings had been started before the offer, but were held in abeyance. The testimony yesterday concerned matters of bookkeeping.

SOME LIGHT ON SKELETON.

Woman's Found in Jersey Asylum Roof Possibly There Since 1904.

Dr. Otto Schultze of this city forwarded to Prosecutor Wilbur A. Mott in Newark yesterday his findings following his examination of the skeleton found in the roof of the Essex County Asylum for the Insane in that city, an institution now abandoned. He stated that death probably had occurred within five years, and that the woman was about 60 years old, and of medium height.

Pieces of newspapers discovered yesterday near the place where the skeleton was found, indicated that the death might have happened within a few days of Nov. 17, 1904. This was two months before a patient at the asylum, Patrick Corrigan, stabbed Samuel Reden, an attendant, and died from injuries inflicted on him by five other attendants. The five were arrested, and charged with murder. They were acquitted.

IN NEW JERSEY.

Carl Schuestadt, 68 years old, of 193 Warren Street, Newark, rather than undergo an operation which he was told he would have to submit to that his life might be prolonged, committed suicide last night in his home by shooting himself in the head.

According to Carroll P. Bassett, President of the Commonwealth Water Company of Summit, which supplies that town and other municipalities, suits are contemplated against the City of East Orange, following the recent decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals adverse to that municipality in its controversy with Frank W. Meeker, which will not only mean the collection of hervy damages, but a restraining order which will compel the city either to increase the number of its wells or seek elsewhere for a supply.

The suspicion of the authorities of Summit that some of the local liquor dealers were selling on Sunday has been substantiated by the conviction of three dealers on evidence obtained by imported detectives. Charles Michels, who runs a bathing establishment in Aubrey Street, was fined $250, and Saba Balish of the same street was mulcted $50. Frank Papio, proprietor of a cigar and confectionery store, who was fined $100, will appeal, asserting that he did not sell wine, as accused, but gave it to a guest at his table. The guest was one of the detectives. He says he paid for the wine.

Church to Investigate the Milk Trust.

The Manhattan Congregational Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Stimson is the pastor, has set a committee to investigate the charges that the price of milk in this city is unnecessarily high. The committee purposes gathering all the evidence it can and then making a report of its findings.

FINDS LOST ASSETS AFTER TEN YEARS

CREDITORS DEAD OR MISSING

But He'll Pay Part of $11,927 Claims with Property He Didn't Know He Had.

Ten years after he filed a petition in bankruptcy, and after many of his creditors had died or moved away where they cannot be found, Edgar L. Pierson of 33 West Eighty-second Street, formerly a well-known real estate dealer in this city, has discovered assets in the shape of real estate which he had overlooked, and which he thinks are sufficient to pay off a part of his indebtedness, provided he is allowed to do so. The case is said to be the first of its kind to come before the courts for settlement here.

Besides being a real estate dealer, Pierson was also a Director of a life insurance company and President of a gold mining concern. Several years ago he was agent for the Paran Stevens estate. He filed his petition in bankruptcy in 1899. Several days ago he applied to the United States District Court to have the old case reopened on the ground of newly discovered assets. Through no fault of his own, he declared, he had omitted mentioning in his original schedules the assets which he has since found, and which consist of an undivided fourth interest in twenty acres of land in the Township of Raritan, N. J.

Mr. Pierson filed his original petition in bankruptcy on April 18, 1899, and received a discharge on June 14 following, and the proceedings were then closed. His schedules showed 26 creditors, whose claims aggregated $11,927, and no assets. The fact that there were no assets made his creditors believe that it was not worth while filing any claims. The largest creditor was Sandford P. Ross, and his claim was for $7,000.

When Mr. Pierson's plea to reopen the case came up before Judge Hand it was discovered that there had never been a came came up recently before Judge Hand it was discovered that there had never been a case like it in this Federal district, and therefore there was no precedent to go by. One difficulty in the way of obtaining the relief asked for was the fact that the Bankruptcy act provides that claims must be filed within one year after adjudication. If the statute was strictly interpreted, therefore, it has long been too late to prove claims.

Judge Hand, however, said he did not think Congress had any such intent when the law was passed, and he decided to reopen the case. It was his opinion that had any claims been proved, and had there originally been actual administration of any assets, then only those claims which had been proved would be entitled to be considered. No claims, however, were filed for the very good reason that, in the absence of any assets, there was no use in proving them. Unless they may now be proved, in the opinion of lawyers Mr. Pierson cannot do what he honestly wishes to do—remedy his mistake.

Judge Hand referred the matter to Seaman Miller of 2 Rector Street, the referee in the original bankruptcy proceedings, who will institute further proceedings for the filing of claims, and the election of a Trustee for the purpose of administering the estate. He has allowed the creditors one year from the present time to file their claims. Mr. Miller has sent notices to all the creditors named in the original petition, but a number of them have been returned by the Post Office Department with the announcement that the parties could not be found. Some of the creditors, it is said, have died since the original proceedings took place.

THINK FATAL FIRE WAS SET.

East New York Tenement Blazed as Though Filled with Oil.

The fire at 1490 Herkimer Street, an East New York tenement, in which a man, a woman and four children lost their lives yesterday morning, is believed by the Fire Marshal and the police to have been of incendiary origin. One suggestion that came to the police was that the fire was a Black Hand stroke, aimed at some of the Italians who lived in the house.

The fire followed one that was started Tuesday evening in the cellar of a tenement of the same character at 14 Havens Place, half a block away. Persons in the house, smelling smoke, and tracing it to the cellar, found an oil-soaked mattress ablaze. A policeman who was called in, threw water on the fire, which was next to a woodbin. He thought too little of the matter to make a report.

A few hours later came the fire, during which Mrs. Joseph Caccavali and her three children—Lybia, a girl of 7 years; a boy of 29 months, and Rose, 3 months old, and Dominick Bennarde, and his three-year-old son, Pietre, were burned to death, while firemen tried to save them.

Lack of water pressure proved a serious handicap to the firemen. Firemen endeavored to rush through the fire-filled building with no streams to check the fire as they advanced. This, in several cases, almost cost the men their lives. Weak streams only could be obtained until workmen from the Water Department reached the scene and increased the pressure.

Deputy Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy of Brooklyn last night declared the progress of the flames indicated a use of oils. Within five minutes after the fire was first discovered by a policeman fire was roaring from the upper windows.

MISER DEAD OF STARVATION.

Owned Houses and Had Money, but Found Dying in a Hovel.

Lying upon a pile of old rags and rubbish William Fernald, who was regarded as a miser and recluse was found dying of starvation and exposure early yesterday morning in the single room he occupied in a two-story frame house he owned at 476 Marcy Avenue, Williamsburg. For four days he had not been seen by neighbors, and when his groans attracted attention early yesterday an entrance to the hovel he lived in was forced.

Fernald was 76 years old, and besides owning the Marcy Avenue dwelling he was the possessor of other property and collected rents when he was not engaged in gathering garbage. On account of his eccentric habits the tenants he had in No. 476 moved out last Saturday. It left him alone in the dwelling.

When the old man was found the room he occupied was in total darkness, and there was neither fire nor fuel. The room was in an unsightly condition, being filled with rubbish that the old man had gathered in the streets. Every article of furniture was broken. Stuck in a hole in the ceiling was a paid-up life insurance policy which entitled Fernald to $2,000 cash at any time. There were other documents indicating that the man was possessed of considerable wealth.

When Fernald saw a policeman rummaging through the room he tried to rise, and kept saying feebly: "Get out; get out."

Dr. Moskowitz of the Eastern District Hospital found Fernald in such a critical condition from starvation and exposure that he sent him to the Kings County Hospital, where he died a few hours later. Starvation was given as the cause of death.

WAIST STRIKE GROWS.

But the Big Employers Organize to Fight—Some Giving In.

A number of the large employers in the waistmaking industry decided yesterday to get together and fight the strike of the waistmakers, which has practically tied up the trade in this city. With a view to forming a manufacturers' association in order to stop the competition likely to follow if the tendency of small firms to grant the strikers' demands is not checked, a secret meeting of the largest manufacturing firms was held yesterday afternoon at the Broadway Central Hotel. None of those who were present would talk, but it was learned that another meeting will be held to-day in the same place, at which an association will probably be formed and means taken to break the strike. Agents of some of the strike breaking agencies got wind of the meeting, and hovered around the corridors while the meeting was in progress. But they did not get an audience with the manufacturers and went away.

One of the largest of the manufacturers said yesterday: "We cannot understand how so many people can be swayed to join in a strike that has no merit. Our employes were perfectly satisfied, and they made no demands. It is a foolish, hysterical strike, and not 5 per cent. of the strikers know what they are striking for."

The same scenes of confusion took place yesterday as occurred on Tuesday at Clinton Hall, 151 Clinton Street, the main headquarters of the strikers. B. Witasken of the Executive Committee of the union said that fifty employers in all had granted the demands and that there were 12,000 more strikers out than on Tuesday, making a total of about 30,000. The following general statement was made in behalf of the strikers:

"Nearly all the non-union waistmakers are now on strike, and about 5,000 of them have joined the union. Nearly $5,000 have been received in initiation fees. A great number of the employers are prepared to settle, and we will enlarge the settlement committee to-morrow, so as to get over the work more quickly. This is the busy season, and we are bound to win."

As far as could be learned, the employers who have settled are those who have contracts to be finished before Christmas. The others are not giving themselves any concern over the strike.

Mina Bloom, 17 years old, of 184½ East Seventh Street, a strikinw waistmaker, was fined $10 yesterday by Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court for interfering with and assaulting a strikebreaker on her way to work. Minnie Zorn of 123 East First Street, Brooklyn, was the complainant. She said Miss Bloom called her a scab and struck her in the face as she was going to work at 449 Broadway.

Policeman Lowenthal of the Elizabeth Street Station was called into a shirtwaist factory at 48 Walker Street yesterday to order out 300 striking girls who had gathered on the stairways there. He said it took him "two hours to get them down." He arrested Sophie Kleineman, 18, of 184 Forsyth Street, for slapping him in the face. In the Tombs Court later she was discharged.

NEW YORK FIREMAN IN JAIL.

Accused of Passing Forged Check for $150 in Wheeling, West Va.

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, West Va., Nov. 24.—A man who said he was Edward Crosby, a fireman of the Third Precinct, New York, was arrested here to-night as he was boarding a train for New York. The charge is the passing of a forged check for $150.

Crosby said he had been connected with the New York Fire Department for twenty years, and was off duty on a furlough. To-day at the office of City Treasurer Johnson, the police charge, he presented a check on the City of New York for $150, apparently bearing the signature of Controller Metz, and drawn on the Coal and Iron Bank of New York. Treasurer Johnson learned that there is no Coal and Iron Bank in New York City, though there is a Coal and Iron National Bank there. When arrested Crosby had $126 in his pockets. Of the $150 he had paid his board bill and purchased a railroad ticket for New York. The New York police have been asked to investigate.

Opposes Sunday Saloon Bill.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—State Excise Commissioner Clement to-day expressed his disapproval of the bill authorizing the sale of liquor in first-class cities on Sundays between 1 and 11 P. M., which the Committee of Fourteen of New York said during a recent visit to the Commissioner probably would be reintroduced at the coming session of the Legislature. The bill failed to pass last year.
